

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES.

ATTENTION is invited to the advt. of Morton and Tufts, who sell wine and liquors, wholesale and retail, at their establishment, east of Godde's corner, First South Street.

THERE is great satisfaction in putting on an Elmwood collar. No pulling this way and that way, as it fits at once.

TO-MORROW evening the series of Grand Opera performances commences in the Theatre, with "Il Trovatore." See the advt.

SALT LAKE CITY.

June 22, 1875.
ALL persons having subscribed money for the purpose of publishing books in the Spanish language will please forward the same to the Deseret News Office immediately, as it is desired to commence the work soon.

D. W. JONES, Agent.

ASK your Grocer for Dooley's Yeast Powder, it is the best and purest.

TO THE PEOPLE OF UTAH.—C. R. Barratt is selling out his stock of Furniture, Mattresses, Crockery, China, Glass and Silver Ware. The stock is large and new and exceedingly low.

COMBINGS and Old Hair made up into Switches, from $1 to $1.50, at the Standard Hair Store.

ICE! ICE! Get your ICE from E. M. Caste, Plum St., East of Commercial St. Free Delivery.

DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER is always full weight—and always gives satisfaction.

A FULL LINE OF FLOOR AND OTHER OIL CLOTHS. IN ALL WIDTHS, AT Z. C. M. I.

Great Reduction in Lamp Goods at Reid & Kinsey's.

HUMAN HAIR.—Ladies' Fronts from $5.00; long switches from $6.50. Combings made up cheap, at the Standard Hair Store.

W. M. IRVINE, Proprietor.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF CHINESE MATTING AT Z. C. M. I.

DON'T buy short weight and inferior brands—they are injurious. Use Dooley's Yeast Powder only.

GLASS SHADES for Wax Flowers, etc., in great variety and at low figures, can be had at Reid & Kinsey's, No. 81 First South Street.

FOUND, a Gold Ring. The owner can have the same by calling at this office.

GREAT inducements offered to wholesale purchasers in Lamps, Coal Oil, etc., at Reid & Kinsey's.

NOTTINGHAM, SWISS AND TAMBOUR LACE CURTAINS AT Z. C. M. I.

THE very best coal for summer use is the "Springer," $3.50 per ton at depot. Remember the place, Old Vandike stand.

Orders may be left at Day & Co's and Elephant Stores.

If you have not used Dooley's Yeast Powder—buy a Can—your Grocer will guarantee it to please.

Buy your Coal Oil of Reid & Kinsey, opposite Walker House, reduced to 50c. per gallon.

ANY price Baby Carriage, from $5.00 to $25.00, for sale at H. Dinwoody's.

KOYLE OYLER 50c. per gallon at Reid & Kinsey's.

LAMPS and Lamp Goods at panic prices at Reid & Kinsey's.

WALL PAPER AND WINDOW BLINDS IN ENDLESS VARIETY AT Z. C. M. I.

WATCHES AND CLOCKS repaired at low prices by C. Asmussen, opposite Post Office. He is the best watchmaker in the land.

DON'T pay for a pound can of Yeast Powder and only get 12 to 14 ounces—Buy Dooley's and you will get 16 ounces net weight.

DON'T BE IMPROVED UPON!!!—H. Taylor, opposite the Herald Office, has Watches and Clocks for all who want reliable timepieces. Repairing done on short notice. Everything warranted.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY AND READING ROOM, University Building. FREE.

Open every evening from 6 till 10.

HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT Z. C. M. I.

CHAMBER'S ENCYCLOPEDIA.—Messrs. J. R. Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia, announce that, by a recent purchase, they have become the sole proprietors of the American Edition of "Chamber's Encyclopedia," and are thereby enabled to offer the work at much lower rates than hitherto.

In the course of its recent thorough revision, the American edition was edited with the special view of supplying the wants of American readers. It also possesses a special attraction in containing a series of over seventy-five full-page engravings not contained in any other edition.

IMPORTANT TO THE TRAVELING PUBLIC.

It is the duty of all persons before starting on a journey to ascertain by what route they can reach their destination with the least trouble, and if there are two or more roads leading to the same point, to decide which is the safest and pleasantest to travel.

We take pleasure in stating, that the CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY is the oldest, and several miles the shortest, route between Omaha and Chicago. Within the past two years the road bed has been put in admirable condition, and almost the entire line has been re-laid with steel rails.

The Depot in Chicago is centrally located, and as their trains arrive there thirty minutes in advance of all other lines, passengers can always be sure of making Eastern connections.

Close connections are made at Chicago with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Michigan Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago, Rock Island, Line and Pan Handle Routes, for all points EAST and SOUTH-EAST.

If you are going to Chicago, or East, you should by all means purchase your tickets by the Old Pioneer Route—

The Chicago and North-Western. You will find on all through trains Pullman Sleepers, new and magnificent Day Coaches, and the best Smoking and Second Class Cars now on any road in the United States.

Particular information with maps, time tables, etc., may be had at any of the Through Ticket Offices in the West, or upon personal or written application to J. W. Irons, Ticket Agent, Salt Lake City, A. H. Carr, Ticket Agent, Ogden, or to J. H. Mountain, Western Traveling Agent, Omaha, Neb., or to W. H. Stennett, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

ALL kinds of fancy and mixed drinks at the Old City Liquor Store, Sangio does the mixing.

PRICE OF GOLD.

Received daily by Deseret National Bank, SALT LAKE CITY, June 22, 1875. Buying at $1.55; selling at $1.57.

EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday, June 23, 1875.

Local and Other Matters.

Thermometer 83 degrees F in the shade at 1 p.m. to-day. Fine.

Coming Emigrants.—A Washington paper of June 17 says—

"The steamer Wisconsin, which sailed from Liverpool yesterday for New York, brings one hundred Mormons, half of whom are Germans."

Whisky and Victuals.—This morning a man was arrested for being drunk and using profane language and for obtaining meals at a restaurant and refusing to pay for them. He was fined $10 on each of the two charges.

Do Not Forget that meeting in the Fourteenth Ward Assembly Rooms to-night, if you or any of the members of your family are interested in acquiring a knowledge of the Spanish language; the meeting commences at half-past seven o'clock.

Theatre.—Verdi's grand opera of "Il Trovatore" will be presented at the Theatre to-morrow evening with the following cast of able artists from the New York Academy of Music—"Maurice," Mr. Wm. Castle; "Fernando," Mr. Geo. A. Conly; "Count di Luna," Mr. Wm. Carleton; "Ruiz," Mr. Filippini; "Leonora," Madame C. R. Bernard; "Azucena," Mrs. Z. Segura; "Inez," Mrs. Brand; and a full chorus.

Friday evening, Flotow's "Martha," with change of artists.

Grand matinee on Saturday.

An Acknowledgment.—We have been requested to publish the following card:

"SALT LAKE CITY, June 21st, 1875.

"The Pioneer Engine Company No. 1, wish, through the columns of your paper, to return the thanks of the company to Bishop Tanner, Mayor Page, Messrs. McClellan, Combs and Patten; also to the citizens of Payson in general, for their kindness and liberality on the Company's recent visit to Payson.

"Signed, in behalf of the members of the Company,
"C. M. DONNELSON, Foreman,
"JOHN REDDING, Asst. Foreman."

Provo Valley.—To-day we met with Bishop Abram Hatch, of Provo Valley. He states that there was a sharp nip of frost there a short time since, which, however, did no further damage than to kill some of the fruit. There never was a better prospect for grain crops than now since the valley was first settled. The co-operative store, he says, is doing a prosperous business. A co-operative tannery has been built and is in successful operation, producing leather.

The Ute Indians of the Utah Reservation are developing remarkably industrial habits, being ambitious to do their own work, and become measurably independent.

This season they have under way a great deal of grain and potatoes and anticipate raising good crops.

City Council.—The regular weekly meeting of City Council was held last evening. In the absence of the Mayor, Alderman George Grison was called to the chair.

Petition of Mark Lindsey and others, asking that a flume be placed in the ditch at the corner of Maple and Wall Streets, referred to committee on streets and alleys.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of the Wasatch Fire Engine Company, for increased engine house accommodation, recommended that the petitioners be allowed to occupy a room adjoining the present quarters, in the 12th District Market House; adopted.

The report of the street supervisor for the quarter ending May 31st, 1875, was presented and referred to committee on claims.

William Hyde, supervisor, was appointed watermaster pro tem.

The committee on revision reported back a bill for the regulation of water and water ditches. The bill was passed, with further amendments.

Petition of Sunday School Union, asking for an appropriation to aid in defraying the expense of a 24th of July celebration; referred to committee of ways and means.

Poisoned Bites.—We have before alluded to the exceedingly injurious effects that have resulted to Mrs. Avery, of the 6th Ward, from having been bitten by a poisonous spider. The physician in attendance is of opinion that she will regain the use of her arm, but large portions of the poisoned flesh are peeling and being taken from it.

Mr. William Strong informs us that he has found a sovereign remedy for the bites of snakes, scorpions and spiders, in liquid ammonia, applied externally, to the bitten part, soon after the bite has been inflicted, and the effect is equally salutary in cases where persons have been injured by contact with poison ivy. This antidote was communicated to him by a man who professed to be a rattlesnake-tamer or charmer, and he has tested its virtue in the case of a daughter of his, who was bitten by a scorpion.

Another gentleman informs us that a little daughter of his was once bitten by a rattlesnake, in the arm, and the poison was completely drawn out by burying the limb for some time in the earth. It has also been noticed that dogs that have been bitten by rattlesnakes have immediately set to work digging a hole in the ground, in which they partially buried themselves, and thus escaped comparatively uninjured.

A decoction made from vervain, taken inwardly, and applied outwardly by means of wetted cloths, is a most effective remedy for fly poisoning.

Applications.—Judging from the numerous applications for the office of City Watermaster, one would suppose that the number of persons well qualified to fill the position is legion. Among the things that used to be an office hunting man, but the preponderating fashion now a-days is infinitely on the other side, so far as the hunting is concerned. Well, the promise is, "Seek and ye shall find," and, as the City is probably seeking for a good watermaster it is to be hoped it will find one; but the natural conclusion must be that all who are seeking the office cannot very well find what they are looking for. Let us hope so.

In the meantime the duties of the position devolve, pro tem, upon Mr. Hyde, the efficient supervisor.

The Circus.—There was a "crowded house" at the circus last night, and those people who have been trying to collect payments of debts of late must have wondered where all the money came from.

The menagerie attracted everybody's attention first. The seven baby lions, as gentle as so many kittens, the barking seals, and the giraffe or camelopard appeared to be the favorites.

In the circus were the performing horses, the long legged gentlemen, a number of clever acrobats, the riding dog and monkey, the tame buffalo, the comicalities of the several clowns, Signor Ferranti, the boneless midget and the superlative back riding feats of Miss Mollie Brown, and Messrs. Gorman, Sebastian, Robinson and son.

Miss Brown threw a back seat on horseback, Mr. Sebastian three successively, Mr. Fish three with face to his back, and Mr. Robinson a number of times without a fall.

The last performance is this evening commencing at seven o'clock.

To-morrow the company open at Ogden for one day.

Masonic Excursion Party.—We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary invitation to attend the Masonic Pic-Nic Excursion Party, from this city to Parr's Grove, Ogden, on Wednesday, 30th inst., under the auspices of Argenta Lodge, No. 3. A special train for the excursionists will leave the depot in this city at 9 o'clock a.m., and will return at 10 p.m., with the privilege of returning by the regular evening train if desired. Parr's Grove is in Ogden canyon, about two miles from the depot of the Utah Central, and conveyances will be in attendance on arriving at Ogden to convey the excursionists to the Grove, where there are a good dancing floor, swings, croquet grounds and other facilities for a day's enjoyment. A string and brass band will be in attendance, and in the evening the Grove will be lighted up for dancing. Tickets for the trip five dollars per couple, may be had at the store of Joslyn & Park, jewellers, of Waters Bros., Mr. Frank Telford and others.

It was intended to have the excursion on St. John's Day, but on account of the exhibition and performance by Montgomery Queen's great circus at Ogden to-morrow, it has been deferred until the 30th inst.

Severe Accident.—The following is from the Ogden Junction of June 22—

"This morning two men jumped on the U. P. passenger train while in motion. Soon after getting on, a brakeman, in climbing over a car, fell from the top of the car, and was killed. The train was running. In jumping off one of them, who gives his name as Wm. Jaman, fell on his forehead, knocking the skin and flesh off in a frightful manner, his face is also badly cut up, and his brain is injured and his whole system jarred by the fall.

"Mrs. Waughman and Condon dressed his wounds."

Cruelty to Animals.—The following was handed in by a gentleman to-day—

"Yesterday afternoon a man was driving four horses on Centre street, over the 19th Ward bench, one of which showed but little inclination to be driven. The driver had hitched it by a rope around its neck to the tail of one of the other horses, thereby dragging it along while the driver was driving the other three. He was lightening and strangling the refractory animal. He also procured a boy to beat it, who struck it with a club so unmercifully about the head that the blood flowed freely from the nostrils of the poor beast, while one of its eyes was nearly knocked out. When near the residence of Mr. Henry Grow, the poor brute, to free itself from the strap, sprang at the driver and the boy from the club, gave a lunge backward, and in doing so stumbled and fell into the ditch, leaving its neck in the fall. The driver then drove up the other horse to try to pull him on to his feet again, but it was too late, the poor thing had done all he could do and was dying. It was not until a workman from a house close by, ran and cut the rope, after the horse was down, that the animal ceased to groan. The man, after he was satisfied the animal was dead, coolly drove on, leaving the dead carcass in the street, and it was still there at a late hour this morning.

"Such brutality should receive the attention of the proper authorities, the man be hunted up, arrested and punished. The man was the most shocking one to the sensitive nerves and feelings of the women and children who witnessed the scene."

Since the above was received we understand the police have taken the matter in hand, and the carcass has been removed.

Special to the Deseret News.

PER DES. TEL. LINE.

A Disastrous Fire.

BULLIONVILLE, June 22.

A disastrous fire occurred here this morning at two o'clock. It originated in the store of Wm. Gedding, and soon spread to the adjoining buildings. The hose of the R. & E. mills was soon playing on the flames, and through this means they were confined to a small number of buildings. The large hotel burned several times on fire, but through the persevering exertions of the citizens was saved; had it burned nothing could have saved the town. None of the mills were burned. The losses are—H. Bryan, dwelling house and restaurant, $2,500; Wm. Gedding, store $1,500; P. S. Butler, dwelling house and saloon, $1,500; C. Malleva, butcher shop, $500; the telegraph office was also destroyed, but everything belonging to it saved. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Correspondence.

Basket Manufacture.

PARADISE, Cache Co., June 21, 1875.

Editor Deseret News—

Brushes having recently spoken for themselves as regards the prospects of their domestic manufacture, baskets will next be looked for, as an article the manufacture of which should not be overlooked.

I expressed with the necessity of the production of a good quality of the material wherewith to proceed, your correspondent is engaged planting and cultivating a willow farm, of the kind and size which supply the demand of an institution hereafter to be organized for basket manufacture.

It appears to me that nowhere can indoor employment be carried on to greater advantage than in a climate where laborers are idle almost the year, and where winter's idleness brings summer's necessity.

Besides, why should manufactures not prosper in a place where bread, butter, meat and fuel, the four great necessities of human life, do not have to be transported from any distance?

Willow trees grow here in great numbers, and are used in the manufacture of baskets. The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The wise heads of every settlement should see to it that employment of some kind is continually at hand under shelter of trees when nature drives most of the human family indoors, and in the aggregate a reasonable and welcome resource to supply the wants of the country people at present unemployed, and which might be done without diminishing the present productive capacity of their cultivated lands, or distracting attention therefrom.

Much labor is permitted to go to waste, and many of our young farmers, which ought to be made to be utilized in the manufacture of some of the thousands of small necessary articles which are now imported, and which might be done without diminishing the present productive capacity of their cultivated lands, or distracting attention therefrom.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

The fact that John G. New, the treasurer of the United States, depicted a banquet for his friends and neighbors in Indianapolis, before leaving for Washington to assume the discharge of his duties, is evidence that modesty as a political virtue has not entirely died out of the race of American politicians.

OUR NEW STORE, No. 55, EAST TEMPLE ST.

Ready by July 1st.

GREENBACKS are on hand to remove their color.

IMMENSE STOCK OF GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

We propose to offer for the balance of this month

REAL BARGAINS

To Wholesale or Retail Cash Buyers.

PRINTS not sold below Cost as a Catch.

But our Entire New and Choice Stock of

DRY GOODS, FANCY GOODS, CLOTHING,

BOOTS & SHOES, HATS & CAPS,

Notions, Etc., Etc., To be Sold at Prices that

DEFY COMPETITION!

READ AND PROFIT.

250 Choice Dress Gowns, from 10c. per yard and upward.

300 Bl'k Lace Shawls, from $1.00 up

50 real Lace Jackets, " 5.00 up

25 Silk Jackets & Capes, " 6.00 up

300 Striped Shawls, " 1.50 up

100 stylish Cloaks, " 3.50 up