A DEAD BODY FOUND ON TRACK

Picked up Near Carlin, Nevada, And Has Not Been Identified.

SIGHT RESTORED TO BLIND.

B. S. Brainard of Payette Receives His Sight After Years of Blindness.

Ogden, July 6.—A report was received here yesterday afternoon from Carlin, Nev., that the body of a well dressed man had been found lying by the Southern Pacific track, and the officials there desired the company's officials to find out if possible who the man was, as no papers or other identification could be found on him. Some baggage was taken from Southern Pacific No. 6 yesterday when it arrived here which it is supposed belonged to a man who the passengers thought got left at Carlin. The theory of the officials here is that the man found dead was the owner of the baggage and that he was on board the train all right but accidentally fell off just after leaving Carlin. The officials may have the baggage opened in the hope of finding the name of the deceased and perhaps the address of his relatives, that they may be notified.

B. S. Brainard Undergoes Successful Operation for Eye Trouble.

Ogden, July 6.—B. S. Brainard, formerly a well known resident of Ogden, but now of Payette, Ida., is visiting in this city for a short time with friends. He is especially delighted at being able once more to see his old acquaintances after having been blind in one eye for 12 years and in the other eye for considerable time. Mr. Brainard has been a patient at the Latter-day Saints' hospital in Salt Lake City undergoing an operation performed by Dr. T. B. Ploutz for the restoration of his eyesight. A film having formed over the sight, the operation was successful, the old gentleman being able now to see out of both eyes and to get around without the assistance of a guide. He highly praises the surgical work done on him and the excellent treatment he received at the hospital.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS.

Aggrieved Divorced Wife Case Heard and Equity in Property.

Ogden, July 6.—It is not often that a court is asked to set aside a decree of divorce, but such is the proceeding asked for in a complaint and petition filed in the Second district court by Mrs. Elizabeth L. Hollibaugh, who some time ago was decreed divorced from Orlando Hollibaugh in the same court. The papers as prepared by Maginnis & Corn, allege that at the time when the plaintiff brought her first di-voice proceedings she signed a certain paper agreeing to the division of the property belonging to the defendant with the understanding that she was to have an equal share of the same, which was decreed to her, but that since the divorce was granted she has learned that she was not dealt justly with, and that reason asks the court to set aside the decree, to reopen the case, that she may get her just portion in the property, also alimony. Mr. Hollibaugh is a Southern Pacific engineer. Mrs. Amelia Clark has filed a divorce suit in the district court against Arthur G. Clark, a well known baseball player. The complaint alleges that the couple were married Oct. 7, 1901 at Farmington, Davis county, and that three children are living as issue of said marriage. That in April, 1905, defendant deserted his wife and family and has failed to provide for them ever since. A decree of divorce, custody of the children, and $25 per month alimony is prayed for.

MEN BEHIND GUNS ARE NOW NEEDED

Claimed There is Nobody to Handle Expensive Military Equipment.

TO INCREASE SOLDIERS' PAY.

Provision Made for Fortifications But Nothing About Those to Manage the Same—Compliment to Cortelyou.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Washington, July 1.—That we have fortifications with guns and equipment to make them effective and not enough men to handle them was made plain by a bill recently reported from the senate committee on military affairs. Chairman Warren in making the report pointed out that proceeding under a definite plan adopted years ago the government had expended large amounts for coast defense but provision is not made for artillerymen and others to man the guns and to care for them, and the result is that about "one-half of our defenses are useless, motionless, and as a consequence worthless in case of a sudden attack. The best that can now be done for the guns mentioned is to oil, wax, cover with canvas and bid them goodbye."

INSUFFICIENT PAY FOR SKILLED MEN.

Senator Warren also pointed out that the government is installing at great expense systems of searchlights, range finders and a thousand and one modern improvements, all requiring expert knowledge of handling, and careful laborious work in protecting. "And yet," he said, "we have no more skilled men and pay no higher compensation than we used to when we used the obsolete, smoothbore, muzzle loading guns and had few of them."

The men who handle all this expensive machinery, who become skilled electricians, and are able to quickly work out the location of an advancing ship, who, in fact, are responsible for the effective work of the seacoast guns, are paid only from $13 to $15 per month. At the expiration of their enlistments they are able to secure more lucrative employment as machinists and electricians and new men have to be trained. The artillery bill which the committee has reported will increase the artillery arm of the service and give the skilled men more pay.

A REFERENCE TO AN INCIDENT.

Occasionally the participation of William E. Chandler in the railroad rate legislation, in which he had some sharp differences with the president, is referred to in Congress, although the incident is in fact passing into history. Chandler is chairman of the Spanish treaty claims commission, and Representative Sullivan of Massachusetts, discussing an amendment relating to the commission, said he was willing it should be abolished if such a thing could be brought about. Then Representative Mann of Illinois, having reference to the Roosevelt-Chandler-Tillman-Bailey-Lodge incident, asked: "Do you think there would be any difficulty in abolishing the commission if the other members would follow the example of the chairman and get into a controversy about legislation?"

"I do not know," replied Sullivan, "but I will state to the gentleman I have found considerable difficulty in getting any commission abolished."

"If you would get the other two gentlemen on the same line of work," continued Mann, "you would have no difficulty."

The other members of the house enjoyed Mann's allusion.

DEFINITION OF "DOMAIN."

Incident to the discussion of the appropriation for the bureau of the geological survey in the house, a definition of the "national domain" as against the "public domain" was given by Representative Watson of Indiana, chairman of the committee of the whole. During the argument upon a point of order relating to the sagging of streams and determining the water supply of the United States Representative Daboll of Pennsylvania held that the "national domain" meant the whole of the United States and all of its territories, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Watson in his decision held that the "national domain" did not mean the whole of the United States and that the words "national domain" and "public lands" were not convertible terms. The speaker of Columbia, he said, was a part of the "national domain," but it was not the public domain, because the public domain has reference only to the public lands, and public lands and public domain were interchangeable, meaning one and the same thing.

TRIBUTE TO CORTELYOU.

William Alden Smith in having printed in the Record an address on Lincoln by Postmaster General Cortelyou referred to it as a "clarion call" by "one of America's most interesting men, whose private life is without reproach and whose public service is one of the most striking illustrations of the possibilities of American institutions."

He went on to say that Cortelyou had risen "by his own efforts from humble place to exalted station," that he was "the confidential adviser of three presidents, the modest and unassuming amanuensis of the stalwart Cleveland, the affectionate companion of the great McKinley, the chosen counselor of the masterful Roosevelt."

Rubber is Made in France.

India rubber that is not India rubber is being made in France. Henri Jumeau has perfected a process of extracting rubber and gutta percha from bark. Different methods are used. The Deiss process consists of grinding up the bark and pounding it in a mortar, leaving it for seven days to the action of sulphuric acid. A black mass is formed; this is washed and the rubber is separated from it by passing the mass between wood rollers, a stream of hot water playing upon it the while. A better method is to pound up the acid paste so as to obtain the rubber more quickly, washing the paste then in a continuous stream of cold water. The rubber which is set free is pressed together in the roller machine and left in the air for 24 hours. In this way about 100 grains of rubber are obtained from every pound of bark—Chicago Tribune.

Poetry at $1,875 a Line.

The highest price ever paid for poetry was $1,875 a line—$15,000 for an eight-line poem.

It was not a good poem, either. James Smith, one of the authors of "Rejected Addresses," wrote it. Smith met one night at dinner in London Strachan, the famous English printer, Strachan, what with old age and gout, was most infirm. Indeed, he could hardly walk. But his mind was exceedingly powerful and brilliant, and he talked as well that Smith, on his return home, wrote the following doggerel about the old man:

"Your lower limbs seemed far from stout
When last I saw you walk.
The cause I presently found out
When you began to talk.
The power that props the body's length
In due proportion spread
In you mounts upward, and the strength
All settles in the head."

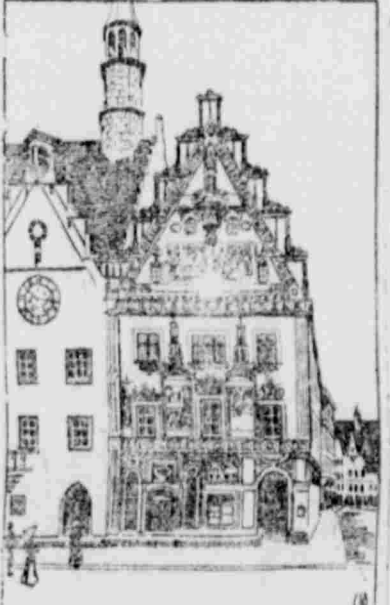

Though this was undeniably rank poetry and racker battery, it pleased Printer Strachan so well that he asked to his with a codicil giving Smith $1,875.

AN OLD GERMAN RATHHAUS.

During the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries it was the custom in certain portions of Europe to decorate the exterior of public buildings with colored
