

The Nobleman of Earth.

The truest nobleman of earth
Is he who loves to be
The first companion of the good,
The hero of the free;
Who works undaunted for the poor,
Who seeks no rank in name;
Whose hopes ascend to heaven in crowds,
As sparks fly up from flames!

Give me that nobleman of mind,
Who loves a noble cause;
The right of labor's sturdy sons,
And freedom's righteous laws!
The hater of each evil scheme
A tyrant may advance;
A giant's strength about his heart,
Thoughts brilliant in his glance!

I love the nobleman of earth,
Who strives to bless the age;
And leaves a glory that is caught
On history's faithful page!
Whose name the millions love to lip,
Truth's sure undimmed guest!
Who shines in love as does the sun
In palace of the West!

He's deathless as the mighty skies,
When jeweled through with stars;
Could feel God's beauty in a blaze
Burst through his prison bars!
No mandate from the tyrant breaks
His spirits upward bound;
While high on every liberal creed
His name is blazoned round!

And perjured kings may pass from earth,
Their pomp and lustre fade,
But nature's nobleman unclasp
The cruel laws they've made.
His worshipped monarch is his God,
He leaves a name behind,
Flushed with effulgence that reflects
His majesty of mind!

A YANKEE ANECDOTE.—Dr. Patton, a very eccentric clergyman, was traveling in England. He met a Fellow of one of the colleges, who was anxious to make an inquiry of the doctor, provided he would give no offence. The doctor told him to "cut with it," as he guessed it would not hurt him much.

Fellow.—The inquiry is this: Do you think your present form of Government will stand, or that your people will not soon require a king?

Dr. P.—Well, Sir, that is indeed a question that does not fall in with my predilections, for I am a thorough Republican. Still, I have no objections to answer your question frankly. It is my opinion, to which I have come after much reflection, that we shall eventually have a king.

Fellow.—I am sure of it!—I am sure of it! but I have never seen an American who was willing to admit it. Will you favor me with the reasons on which you found your opinion, for I have no doubt they are good ones.

Dr. P.—I think they are good ones, and I will frankly state them to you. They are these: I read in the Bible that when Israel was a virtuous people, God governed them generally with Judges of their own choosing; but when, in time, they became a corrupt and degraded people, "God, in wrath, gave them a king!" As we are rapidly importing European manners and corrupt customs into the United States, I greatly fear we shall degenerate until God will treat us as he has the degraded nations of Europe, and give us a king!

Dinner was spread in the cabin of that peerless steamer the "New World," and a splendid company were assembled about the table. Among the passengers thus prepared for gastronomic duty, was a little creature of the genus Fop, decked daintily as an early butterfly, with kids of irreproachable whiteness, "miraculous" neck-tie, and spider-like quizzing glass on his nose. The delicate animal turned his head affectedly aside with:

"Waitab!"
"Sah?"
"Bring me the pwopellah of a fwemale woostab!"

"Yis, sah!"
"And, waitab! tell the steward to wub my plate with a vegetable, wulgarly called omon, which will give a delicious flavor to my dinnab."

While the refined exquisite was giving his order, a jolly western drover had listened with open mouth and protruding eyes. When the diminutive creature paused, he brought his fist down upon the table with a force that made every dish bound, and thundered out:

"Here! you gaul darned ace of spades!"
"Yes, sah."

"Bring me a thunderin' big plate of skunk's gizzard!"
"Sah!"

"And, old ink pot, tuck a horse blanket under my chin, and rub me down with brickbats while I feed!"

The poor dandy showed a pair of straight coat-tails instantly, and the whole table joined in a "tremenjus rore."

THE CROCHETY WOOD.—Dame Grundy was a pattern of good nature—always contented and, consequently, happy.

"I tell you what it is," said farmer Grundy, one day to his neighbor Smith, "I really wish I could hear Mrs. Grundy scold once; the novelty of the thing would be so refreshing."

"I'll tell you," said his sympathizing neighbor, "how to obtain your wish. Go into the woods, get a load of the most crooked sticks you can possibly find, and my word for it, she will be as cross as you desire."

Father Grundy followed his neighbor Smith's advice. Having collected a load of the most ill-shaped, crooked, crabbed, crochety materials that were ever known under the name of fuel, he deposited the same at the door, taking good care that his spouse should have access to no other wood. The day passed away, however, and not a word was said; another, and still another, and no complaint. At length the pile disappeared.

"Well, wife," said Mr. Grundy, "I am going after more wood. I'll get another load just such as I got last time."

"Oh, yes, Jacob," said the old lady, "it will be so nice if you will, for such crooked, crochety wood as you brought before does lay around the pots so nicely."

PHYSIC AND DIVINITY.—A trifling incident has caused much small talk amongst elderly matrons at the West End, London. Dr. —, a fashionable physician, wooed and won Miss R—, the only daughter of Mr. P. R—, a rich broker. The marriage was solemnized in a chapel belonging to the mansion of the lady's father. When the bridal party assembled round the altar, the Dean of —, who had been engaged to perform the ceremony, began and continued to pronounce the words with most impressive solemnity, till the physician had to say, "with my body I thee worship," when he substituted the words "with my body I thee honor." The dean repeated "worship," but the physician repeated "honor." Four times the dean reiterated "worship," as often the physician, in a voice which commanded awe, repeated "honor." The dignity at last paused; a momentary red suffused his cheek; but he proceeded, and the ceremony was concluded. A marriage so singularly effected, of course, has afforded great scope for gossip; and it is said that the rural dean will receive an admonition from the bishop for allowing physic to get the better of divinity.—[Court Circular.

INSTRUCTION TO A JURY.—The following is published as the charge of a judge to a jury, in a late case:

"If the jury believe, from the evidence, that the plaintiff and defendant were partners in the grocery, and that the plaintiff bought out the defendant and gave him his note for the interest, and the defendant paid for the note by delivering to the plaintiff a cow, which he warranted 'not breachy,' and the warranty was broken by reason of the breachiness of the cow, and he drove the cow back and tendered her to the defendant, but the defendant refused to receive her, and the plaintiff took her home again, and put a heavy yoke or poke upon her, to prevent her from jumping the fence, by reason of the yoke, or poke, broke her neck and died; and if the jury further believe that the defendant's interests in the grocery was worth anything, the plaintiff's note was worthless, and the cow good for nothing, either for milk or beef, then the jury must find out for themselves how they will decide the case, for the court if it understand itself, and it thinks it does, don't know how such a case should be decided."

AND WASN'T THAT A MISTAKE!—A very fine, charming daughter of one of the "solid men of Boston," being at a ball a few evenings since, was solicited by an animal of the genus Dandy—combination of moustach, starch and broadcloth—for the honor of her hand in a dance, to which solicitation she gave an affirmative answer.

All went off quite slick; but in an evil hour and when upon conversing with the young lady, Dandy unfortunately asked her father's business?

"He is a wood-sawyer," she replied.
The fellow's underchopper dropped a feet at the intelligence, and he sloped, feeling that he had let himself down by the association. Nor did he discover that the lady's father was a wealthy dealer in mahogany, which occasionally has to be sawed!

A LAWYER'S STORY.—Tom strikes Dick over the shoulders with a ratan as big as your little finger. A lawyer, in his indictment, would tell you the story as follows: "And that whereas the said Thomas, at the said place, on the year and day aforesaid, in and upon the body of the said Richard, against the people of the State of Pennsylvania, and their dignity, did make a most violent assault, and inflicted a great many and divers blows, kicks, cuffs, thumps, bumps, contusions, gashes, hurts, wounds, damages and injuries, in and upon the head, neck, breast, stomach, hip, knees, shins and heels of said Richard, with divers sticks, canes, poles, clubs, logs of wood, stones, daggers, dirks, swords, pistols, cut-throats, bludgeons, blunderbusses, and boarding-pikes, then and there held in the hands, fists, claws and clutches of him, the said Thomas."

AN OPINION OF CONGRESS.—Mr. Gurley, Republican, elected to Congress in Cincinnati, was formerly a Universalist minister. One of his opponents was trying to persuade an old Methodist not to vote for him. "Do you think you are furthering the cause of religion," said he, "by voting for a Universalist—one who does not believe in a hell?" "Yes," was the old Methodist's reply; "if by the time Mr. Gurley has been in Congress a year he does not believe there is a hell, then I don't understand the present Administration. I shall vote for him."

SCIENTIFIC CIRCUMLOCUTION.—During a case of assault heard before Judge Falconer, the following occurred:—Surgeon examined: I found plaintiff had a severe contusion under the left eye, great extravasation of blood under the eye, and some abrasion of the skin. Judge: You mean that he had a black eye? Surgeon: Yes. Judge: Then why don't you say so?

The undersigned proposes to open a Mathematical School at his residence in G.S.L. City, in which he will teach both the Elementary and Higher Mathematics. The various branches pertaining to the two departments will be taught in the following order:—

ELEMENTARY DEPARTMENT.

Algebra.
Euclid's Elements of Geometry.
Plane and Spherical Trigonometry.
Surveying.
Bowditch's Navigator and Tables, including the use of the Quadrant, Sextant, and Reflecting Circle.
Lee's Tables and Formulae.
Herschel's Outlines of Astronomy.
Optics or the Science of Light.
Acoustics or the Science of Sound.
Static and Voltaic Electricity.
Electro Magnetism.
Electro Dynamics.
Electro Chemistry.
Magnetism and Thermo Electricity.

HIGHER DEPARTMENT.

Descriptive Geometry.
Analytical Geometry.
Analytical Trigonometry.
Conic Sections.
Differential and Integral Calculus.
Curves and Functions.
Analytical Mechanics.
Celestial Mechanics of La Place (Translation by Dr. Bowditch).
Newton's Principia.

The School will be open for instruction six days in the week from nine to twelve a.m., and from one to four p.m. TERMS for Students in the ELEMENTARY DEPARTMENT, $2 per week. For those in the HIGHER DEPARTMENT, $2.50 per week. Wheat, Flour, Potatoes, Butter, all kinds of Provisions, Groceries, Wood, Hay, Cash, &c., will be received in payment.

If Students should be unable to find in the territory the books they necessarily want, they can be supplied at the School with some fifteen or twenty volumes on Algebra, and also with some few volumes on most of the branches named in the two departments.

School will open, when fifteen students shall have been obtained. ORSON PRATT, Sen.
G.S.L. CITY, Dec. 21, 1858.
