FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 4.—Hereford introduced a bill to repeal the act of July 4, 1864, conferring on the Quartermaster General, Commissioner General and accounting officer of the Treasury authority to examine, adjudicate and settle claims accruing to the loyal citizens of the United States for supplies taken by or furnished for use and used by the United States army. The bill confers jurisdiction, in such cases, upon the United States District Courts, which shall certify their judgments to Congress and Congress may appropriate money to pay such judgments if favorable. All such claims now pending before Congress or the officers above named, are also referred by the bill to the District Courts above named.

The bill authorizing the conversion of national gold banks into National banks, passed and the Senate went into executive session.

When the doors re-opened, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 4.—On the resolution to enable the United States to be represented by the Fish Commissioner in the International Fish exhibition at Berlin, Messrs. Deuster and Morton urged the necessity of such representation, and the benefits which would accrue to the United States. The committee rose and the resolution was passed by 165 to 65.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the revision of rules.

Money moved to amend rule 11 so that the preparation of the postoffice appropriation bill should be made by the postal committee. He was astonished that Messrs. Garfield and Blackburn should threaten to vote against the rules unless the monopoly of the committee on appropriations was maintained.

Blackburn explained his position and said Money's committee was a most dangerous claimant for additional powers.

Conger opposed restricting the committee on appropriations in the performance of its regular duties, but favored taking from that committee power to originate legislation. If necessary, to prevent this, he would vote to reduce the appropriation committee to the position where it was shorn of any power. After considerable acrimony, the debate on Money's resolution was defeated, 90 to 97. Adjourned.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Morton's Rejection Sure.

WASHINGTON, 4.—Immediately after going into executive session this afternoon, the Senate took up the nomination of John M. Morton as collector of Internal revenue for the first district of California, Voorhees, who reported it from the finance committee proceeded to address the Senate in advocacy of its confirmation. He eulogized Mr. Morton as a young man of unblemished character, entirely competent to fill the office, a citizen of San Francisco, whose name had been upon her voting register for eight years, and who enjoyed the confidence and respect of all persons that knew him. In evidence of his good standing in the community, Voorhees referred to the telegraphic memorial recently received from San Francisco, and urged that it would be grossly unjust for the Senate to affix the stigma of rejection to so deserving a man and so honorable a name.

Senator Booth replied in a speech of about 20 minutes' duration, calmly but very earnestly setting forth the main grounds of opposition to Morton's confirmation, namely, his lack of identification with the people of California and his want of proper business training or experience to fit him for the important office for which, in the face of the united protest of the entire California delegation and without a single antecedent, request or recommendation from California, he has been so surprisingly nominated.

The debate was continued by Senator Morrill, of Vermont, whose remarks referred almost wholly to the fact that the nominee was the son of a distinguished Senator.

Senator Carpenter, who took the ground that if the people of California did not want Mr. Morton appointed and the entire delegation of both political parties certified to that fact, he certainly ought not to be confirmed.

Senator Bayard called attention to the fact that the Senate last spring, with the same membership as at present, unanimously confirmed Morton as consul at Honolulu, and that therefore no stigma would attach to him personally if the Senate rejected the proposition to transfer him from the consular office to the important business position of Collector of Internal Revenue at San Francisco against the wishes of the authorized representatives of the State and the committees directly affected.

Conkling, referring to this statement, remarked that civil service reform seemed to have taken a queer direction by promoting a man from the Honolulu consulate to a San Francisco collectorship not vacant, and he had no hesitation in saying that he should vote against this nomination and without pain.

At this point, it being clearly evident that the nomination if brought to a vote would be rejected, several republican senators who intended to vote against it, requested Booth to let the matter go over one day in order to give the President a chance to withdraw it and thus spare Mr. Morton the disagreeable fate of outright rejection.

Exodus and Star Service Investigations and General Congressional Brevities.

The Senate exodus committee held a short meeting to-day. The first witness called was E. D. Barden, of Goldsboro, North Carolina. He testified that while the people of the State of North Carolina do not feel alarmed about the exodus, that the wave of the movement, such as it was, is already subsiding, and that the great mass of the colored people of North Carolina were as well contented as in any other section of the country.

The next witness was T. C. Groomes, lawyer and resident of Greencastle, Indiana. At the request of Senator Voorhees he produced and read extracts from editorials published in the Greencastle Banner in November and December, 1878, in which it was stated that the colored men of the South are practically disfranchised while they live in that section, and urging it as a duty of the colored men of the South to come north of the Ohio River and help make a solid North, and arguing that if they remained in the South to be enumerated in 1880, they would increase the number of their enemies there, but if they came north they would increase the numbers of their friends in the North. Adjourned.

Parnell and party visited the President to-day. Parnell, in conversation with the President, mentioned the object of his visit to the United States, and spoke of the favorable results achieved. The President said he sympathized with Ireland in her distress, and hoped means would be found to alleviate it promptly. Parnell asked about the emigration to this country, and the President replied that the States, not the General government, regulated it. The President also spoke favorably of the Irish emigration to the United States. Parnell said he hoped the emigrants who sought relief in this country would find their way immediately to the West. After leaving the Executive Mansion, the party called upon the members of the Cabinet in their respective departments.

The investigation of the Star Route Service was continued to-day. John A. Walsh, present contractor of the Santa Fe and Prescott route, gave some spicy testimony. He said it was a popular fallacy that there is a bonanza in every Star route contract. He was led to believe by the former holders of his contract there was a good profit in it at the original figures; and though he had lost heavily at first, it became a matter of pride with him to hold on to the contract. He proposed to wrestle with it and hoped at the present figure, $133,900 per annum, to save his fleece, though the compensation ought to be $200,000.

The House select committee on the state of the electoral law accepted the report of the sub-committee in favor of Representative Bicknell's joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide for the election of President and Vice-President by the people. The committee have stricken out that portion of the resolution providing "That a contest in any State shall be passed upon by its highest judicial tribunal," and with this one change have instructed Bicknell to report the resolution favorably.

The House committee on agriculture, with one dissenting vote, accepted the report of the sub-committee in favor of the bill presented by Aiken as a substitute to Muldoon's bill making the Department of Agriculture an Executive Department. The chairman of the sub-committee was instructed to report his bill to the House with favorable recommendation for its passage. Covert will present the minority report.

The Postmaster General to-day filed in the District Supreme Court the demurrer to the bill of the Lottery Company against him for interfering with their postal correspondence. It sets forth that there is no jurisdiction in this court and raises other points which will be immediately discussed.

The Senate claims committee by a vote of eight against one, decided to recommend the passage of a bill to pay Ben Holliday's claim of over $500,000 for losses sustained by him while carrying the Overland mail to California by reason of the changes of route and Indian depredations.

The President has nominated Alex. C. Wells, of Louisiana, Surveyor of Customs for the District of Louisiana; Edgar, W. Mann, of Wyoming, Register of the Land office at Cheyenne; James L. Haworth, of Kansas, Indian Inspector.

The Banking and Currency committee is authorized to report to the House with recommendation for the passage of the bill authorizing national Banks to make loans upon mortgages on real estate.

It is reported the court martial decision of Major Reno has been sent to the President. It is understood that General Sherman forwarded it without remarks.

PENNSYLVANIA FOR GRANT.

Keystone Republicans in Convention.

HARRISBURG, 4.—Upon reassembling the committee on contested seats made a report which was adopted.

Cessna's resolution was reintroduced and Stewart at once moved to amend it as indicated before recess. Stewart spoke earnestly in favor of his amendment, basing his argument on the fact, as he put it, that the convention had no more right to nominate delegates to the Chicago Convention than it had to select Congressmen to represent the people of each district. The amendment of Stewart was lost, 100 to 150, and then the resolution as originally offered was adopted.

The following was then introduced by Kerr:

Resolved, That the delegates elected to the Republican National Convention from this State, are hereby instructed to support for the presidential nomination Gen. U. S. Grant, and to vote as a unit on all questions that may come before the Convention.

Stone offered an amendment.

Resolved, That while we pledge ourselves to support the republican party, we see no good reason for abandoning the position taken by the party in our own and other States in 1876, of opposition to a third presidential term, and we hereby endorse and reaffirm the resolution passed by our State Convention held in this city in 1876, upon this question.

Senator Kerr argued in favor of his resolution, and traced the course of the democratic party as it appeared to republicans. He thought Gen. Grant was the proper and only man who should get the nomination, and concluded his remarks with an appeal to all to support him.

Gen. Albright replied to Senator Kerr's remarks. He believed Grant was sincere in his undertakings, had done great service, both civil and military, but he did not think he was the only one who could lead the republican party to victory; he did not believe there was any danger to the country in a third term, but he believed Washburne, Sherman or Blaine could carry the suffrages of the people. He did not believe in instructing delegates to Chicago for any man. The resolution was further opposed by Gen. Koontz, Darlington, Harvey and Wolfe, while Moreland and Bingham favored it. Speeches of anti-Grant people were all from a Blaine point of view, and no other names besides Grant and Blaine were mentioned at all, except in the remarks of Albright.

Stone, after arguing strongly in favor of his amendment, withdrew it, and Strong, of Tioga, offered another; to wit: to strike out the name of U. S. Grant and insert that of James G. Blaine; on the vote by yeas and nays Strong's vote was lost, 95 to 154, several Blaine people voting against it on the ground that it was not proper to instruct the delegation for any one. The question then recurred on the original resolution, or rather that part of it which instruced the Chicago delegates to vote for Grant. Again the yeas and nays were ordered and the votes resulted 133 in favor of and 113 against that portion of the resolution.

The second portion of the resolution instructing the delegation to vote as a unit was then adopted by a viva voice vote. A. S. Olmsted was elected permanent chairman.

The nominations for Auditor General being in order, the names of John A. Lemon and J. A. M. Passmore were placed before the convention, and recess was taken until 7.30.

Upon reassembling the yeas and nays were taken on the nomination for Auditor General, and Lemon was declared the choice of the convention, 158 to 93. The nomination was made unanimous. The committee to name delegates to the Chicago convention and to name presidential electors, made a report which was adopted. The following are the delegates at large: Matthew S. Quay, James McManes, Linn Bartholomew, Christopher L. Magee. Alternates—Gen. D.S. Elliott, J. Hay Brown, Henry Buck, Samuel M. Jackson. Electors at large—Edmund A. Benson and Henry Oliver.

Henry Green was unanimously nominated Judge of the Supreme Court.

Hayt's Son Testifies.

NEW YORK, 4.—The committee on Indian commissioners who are investigating Hayt, were in session all day. The testimony of Edward Knapp Hayt, defendant's son, was of the most damaging character. He said William Hogencamp, of the Second National Bank, Jersey City, arranged with him to go to Arizona and buy a mine for him, and that the arrangements were made at the office of Charles E. Ceschler, in Curtland Street, in this city, in the presence of the elder Mr. Hayt. He further testifies that the latter instructed him to drop the name of Hayt and use the name of Edward Knapp.

California Wine Interests.

Horace D. Dunn, of San Francisco, in his address delivered before the Farmer's Club, at the American Institute, in this city, on the wine interests of California, showed the superior capacity of that State to produce not only wine, brandy and raisins for the consumption of the United States, but for export in competition with similar products of Europe. A large audience listened with interest, and the club propose having the address published.

False Statement.

Relative to the report that Brighteye's father and the Poncas would be arrested if they appeared in Washington, the Tribune's Washington correspondent says Schurz repudiates any such intention. He says that no such action was ever thought of here, and he was astonished to see the statement made.

Fire at Fort Collins.

DENVER, 4.—A disastrous fire occurred at Fort Collins, in this State, last night at 11 o'clock. Welch's block, on the corner of Mountain and College avenues, was discovered to be in flames, and notwithstanding every effort of the citizens, was entirely consumed. The fire appears to have started near the staircase, and its origin is unknown. Two persons sleeping in the building were burned to death. Mr. A. F. Hopkins and Miss Tilley Owen and eight other persons who also had rooms in the building, escaped. The loss on the building and contents is stated at $50,000, on which there was an insurance of $20,000

Outlay of French Capital.

The Evening Times states that a party of four French noblemen, whose agent is now in the city, contemplates the outlay of $2,000,000 in this city. The principal enterprise is the establishment of clay works and to this is coupled the plan for building a large number of residences.

Interesting Court Decision.

MILWAUKEE, 4. — The Supreme Court of Wisconsin at Madison yesterday, decided that a mercantile agency cannot be compelled to disclose the name of its correspondent. In an action for libel alleged to be contained in a report by a correspondent to the mercantile agency of R. G. Dunn & Co., the plaintiff sought to prove publication by supœnaing the manager of the agency in this city to produce the books containing the report. The manager refused to do so and the Circuit Court committed him for contempt. Upon his appeal from the order of commitment the Supreme Court to-day reversed the order.

Seatenced to Swing.

HUDSON, 4.—Henry Moett, on trial the past ten days for the murder of his wife and paramour at Taghnic on the 12th of September last, has been convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged on March 19th. After the sentence, the prisoner asked to be hanged in public and be allowed an hour and a half to speak.

No Female "Go-as-you-Please."

ALBANY, 4.—A bill has been introduced in the Senate making it a misdemeanor for any female to engage in any "Go-as-you-please" match and for any manager or lessee of any buildings or grounds who allows an exhibition to take place.
