A PITCHED BATTLE.

Between Cattle Rustlers and Members of Vigilante Committee.

San Diego, Jan. 4.—Advises just received from Mesa Grande, 40 miles from here, tell of a pitched battle 30 miles from there between a gang of cattle rustlers and members of a vigilante committee organized to put a stop to the depredations of cattle thieves who are working in that locality. In the fight that followed the refusal to surrender, two Mexicans, an Indian and a white man, all members of the band, were shot and killed, and one vigilante was seriously wounded.

According to information received, the vigilantes Saturday picked up the trail of a band of cattle thieves who, it is believed, made away with several hundred head of stock near Mesa Grande last week, and followed them to a point just this side of the international line, where the rustlers were rounded up. They fled across the boundary after the fight.

Coroner Morgan left this city this morning for the scene of the killing. Owing to the isolation of the district details are slow in coming in. The rustlers are believed to be allied with the same gang now under arrest in Los Angeles for horse stealing.

THORNTON HAINS IN HIS OWN DEFENSE.

Flushing, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Taking the witness stand in his own defense, Thornton Jenkins Hains for more than four hours today related with a wealth of detail the story of the shooting of William E. Annis and of the conjugal troubles of Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., that counsel asserts caused the mental unbalancing of the army officer and led to the killing of Annis. When court adjourned Hains' direct examination had not been concluded and he is likely to be on the witness stand all day tomorrow.

Hains told his story in snappy, crisp sentences. He showed no signs of nervousness and at times dramatically illustrated his brother's expressions and appearance.

The defendant declared that when he went to Bayside to look at real estate on Aug. 15 he had no idea that his brother was armed and did not know that Annis was at the yacht club. He told the jury that all the shots had been fired by Capt. Hains before he rushed to the boat to protect his brother from John Tomlin, the boatman, and from club members, who, he said, he thought would harm the captain. Hains denied that he pointed a revolver at Mrs. Annis.

The defendant stated that he had no idea how many shots Capt. Hains had fired and when Charles Roberts, a club member, picked the revolver up and as the muzzle of the weapon pointed at him he drew his own revolver and told Roberts not to shoot.

Disc. Atty. Durin said he would probably take all day tomorrow to cross-examine the defendant.

ERB MURDER TRIAL.

Media, Pa., Jan. 4.—The dramatic denial of Mrs. M. Florence Erb that she participated in the killing of her husband, and the testimony of Mrs. Catherine Beisel, the self-confessed slayer of her brother-in-law, as to the family differences that led up to the shooting marked the proceedings of the trial here today of the two women charged with the murder of Capt. J. Clayton Erb on Oct. 6.

Mrs. Erb was cross-examined for several hours. With emphasis she declared she had in no way assisted Mrs. Beisel in the killing of her husband. That she had permitted her sister to battle single-handed with the man, the witness declared, was because she had been made a coward by his abuse. Effort was made to wring from the witness admissions that she had associated with several men, and that they had visited her home during the absence of Capt. Erb. This questioning met with but little success.

Mrs. Catherine Beisel testified that Capt. Erb was extremely brutal, and that he let his anger fall upon either her or Mrs. Erb if they ventured to oppose him.

Once, Mrs. Beisel said, when she asked Capt. Erb why he did not want her to visit her sister, he replied: "I don't want any beggars around here."

When Mrs. Erb remonstrated with him he ran after her and choked her almost into insensibility.
