EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is said to be in Wyoming a solid bed of crystallized soda, containing 50,000,000 cubic feet of that very useful article in a chemically pure state.

Mexico wants no reciprocity treaty with the United States, or with any other power, for the good reason that about all her revenues are derived from importation duties.

The largest suspension bridge will be the one now building between Brooklyn and New York. The length of the main span is 1,595 feet 6 inches. The entire length of the bridge is 5,989 feet.

Three hundred thousand sheep have been driven through the State of Nevada, this season, to points East, feeding along the way and making fat mutton when arriving at the destination.

During the last fiscal year, 1,314 mineral patents were issued by the General Land Office. Of these Montana received 100, Utah 117, Arizona 63, Colorado 78, California 145, Dakota 55, Nevada 54, New Mexico 3, Oregon 19, Washington Territory 7, Wyoming 5.

New Orleans is to have the honor of being the first city in the Union to erect a monument to a woman. The person to be thus honored is Margaret Houghery, the recently deceased benefactress of the Orphan Asylum of that city.

Mrs. Shopshire's "Special Physiology for Girls" has already run through the first edition of one thousand copies. Messrs. Fowler & Wells have the second edition now on press. It is the only work of the kind, and supplements completely the study of general physiology. In some schools for girls supplementary classes in physiology have been formed using this as a text book.

Woman's rights are obtaining recognition in Norway. The Parliament has just passed a law, which the King has signed, giving women the privilege of attending the universities and applying for degrees in all the arts and sciences; but the right to hold office in the service of the State and of participating in the competitive examinations for such positions is not yet accorded to them.

The Colusa Sun says: "We are disgusted with American politics. In every campaign we drift from the real to the unreal, and instead of trying to influence voters by appeals to man's intelligence, we find writers and orators drifting into the discussion of frivolities which appeal only to the baser instincts of human nature." The Sun must have been noticing the Utah "Liberal" canvass.

Henry James, Jr., has made a new study of American character and manners in a brilliant satirical sketch, which will be published in the December Century. The article, entitled, "The Point of View," consists of a series of letters supposed to have been written in this country by an educated Englishman and a French Academician, who have come to study American institutions, and by Americans who have lived in Europe and who are alive to the short-comings of their native land.

Popular belief in the wisdom of vaccination has received a severe blow in a part of Germany, where a large number of children, both those vaccinated for the first time and others vaccinated after an interval of twelve years, have fallen dangerously ill, the flesh about the punctured part decaying and sloughing off, and the bodies being covered with sores and boils. It is thought that a single one of the affected children will recover. Impure virus appears to have been the cause of this unfortunate result.

Money was urgently needed by a church at Bradford, Mass., and a committee, with the pastor at its head, devised a novel scheme. A challenge was sent to a number of young men at Westfield to come out and hunt squirrels all day, and at night eat a supper in the church, the party which killed the least squirrel to pay $1 each for all the meat served. To the surprise of the church members who joined in the hunt, the marksmen from Westfield beat them; but the Springfield Republican is authority for the charge that, when it came to a count, a number of squirrels that had been shot several days before were fraudulently introduced, so that the church came out financially victorious.

HOW THEY RESPECT HIM.

It is in the following affectionate and respectful manner that a strong Republican organ speaks of the recent defeat of one of the bitterest anti-"Mormon" in the lower House of Congress:

Another unexpected result is the defeat of George M. Robinson for Congress in New Jersey. Robinson represented stalwartism and corruption in the most offensive forms. His return to Congress after his record as head of the treasury was an insult to the people of this country. In the interest of good government it is to be hoped that Robinson's retirement from public life will be final, and that this relic of official rotteness will never again be resurrected.

And all decent Republicans as well as consistent Democrats will rejoice "Amen."

ONE MORE LIE BY LIGHT-NING.

This is the way in which the meanest and most contemptible of anti-"Mormon" sensation mongers reported, by telegraph, to the press of the Pacific Coast, an incident that occurred two days after the recent Delegate election in Utah:

Salt Lake, November 10. — At Kanab, U. T., last night, Elder W. H. Holladay of the Mormon Church attempted to assassinate Thomas Turley for voting a Liberal or Gentile ticket. Turley was the only Liberal at that place, and the Church thought the best way to rid the town of his presence was to put a Danite on his track. Turley got in one shot, wounding Holladay in the head.

The venomous falsehood of the fellow who "desecrated" the corpse of the coast with dispatches from Salt Lake, is nowhere more apparent than in the above telegram. The facts, as communicated from Kanab and published in the Salt Lake City papers were these:

A dispute about the election occurred on the night of the 9th inst., two days after the election, between Thomas Turley, a "Liberal," and W. H. Holladay. Turley appeared to feel irritated and made some strong remarks, and Holladay called him a liar, when Turley drew his pistol and fired, Holladay receiving a scalp wound, bleeding profusely. Turley then fired two shots at him, missing him, and then officer Fuller, who was immediately by, seized and, with assistance disarmed both parties, who were required to appear before the Justice of the Peace next morning.

From this the despatch floundered all the stuff he sent forth about "attempted assassination," "Danites," "Mormon Church," etc. The attempt to assassinate was on the part of the "Liberal," who shot Holladay during the dispute. If Turley was the only "Liberal" in a town full of "Danites," and the design was to kill him, how was it that he was the aggressor and was not injured himself at all? Under the circumstances set forth in the telegram it would have been an easy matter to "rid the town of his presence." But instead of that he was protected by the "Mormon" officer and bystanders, although he had commenced the violence and had wounded Holladay.

We do not remember one instance of a despatch sent over the wires by the despicable person who made up the above piece of deception, that has not been either a distortion of the facts or a clean out lie. We call the attention of the manager of the telegraph company in San Francisco to the utter unreliability of the newsfabricator in this city who supplies sensations for the California papers; his dispatches are a disgrace to the line that carries them.

"CHRONICLE" CRANKINESS.

An article displaying more than usual stupidity and anger on the "Mormon" question appears in the San Francisco Chronicle. It contains a long string of assertions about the "insane"ness of the "Mormons," the "diplomacy of the Church," "silly and degrading ceremonies," and other nonsense, about which the writer knows no more than he does of the condition of the obverse side of the moon, it concludes as follows:

"The election of a Mormon to Congress and the decision of a Salt Lake Gentile Judge, that the law excluding polygamists from office is unconstitutional, have given the Mormons fresh heart. They are more rampant than for years, and John Taylor has issued a manifesto, ordering all high Church officers who have hitherto refrained to go into polygamy at once to resign their positions. The order is an open defiance of the general government, and an imitation of Boss Tweed's famous query, 'What are you going to do about it?' If the Mormons obey up on this and override the laws in this way—winning their chief victories by the aid of renegade Gentiles—there is no great prospect of speedy reform. Their power promises to be curbed in the distant day when the Central Pacific monopoly and other big and insolent corporations receive the check which their rapacity merits. This is a long-suffering people, and the Government indignation against abuses seems as lukewarm as that of the people."

This Chronicle writer does not seem to be aware that the election of a "Mormon" to Congress has taken place every two years for a very long period, and that therefore it is no new thing, as calculated to make the majority of the people here particularly "rampant." The only "rampant" persons who have been in these parts lately are those who have not succeeded in prevailing upon the "Mormons" to vote for one of their strongest enemies. With nearly five times the number of voters—polygamists excluded—as their opponents, why should it be expected that the "Mormons" would elect any one but a friend, or send any one but a "Mormon" to Congress?

There has been no such "decision from a Salt Lake Gentile Judge" as that which seems to agitate the Chronicle so much. It is a fragment of the disordered imagination of the writer who reeled off the whole batch of nonsense of which the article is composed. It is the same with regard to the "manifesto," the "open defiance of the Government" and the rest of the balderdash made up of attacks on the Central Pacific railroad and other subjects altogether foreign to the "Mormon" question.

We are of the opinion that there is something that needs "curbing" more than the "Mormons" or the "monopolists" which seem to disturb the agitated writer in the Chronicle; it is the mad folly with which he plunges into a subject concerning which he is densely ignorant, and about which he displays the maximum of anger and the minimum of common sense. The Chronicle will have to change its anti-"Mormon" scribbles; this one is too trash and premature, and doesn't know as much about the question as any ordinary reader of the news of the day.

Kayville Stabbing.—Allen C. Beggs, the young man who, in an altercation at Kayville, stabbed a man named Hicks, a short time since, in the city jail. Hicks has so far recovered as to be able to be about again.

LATEST TRANS-ATLANTIC DISPATCHES.

Egypt's Government.

PARIS, 14.—Figaro has a dispatch from Cairo which affirms that the governments of England and France have entered into a definite agreement in regard to the control of the finance of Egypt. It says France has accepted the offer of England that the presidency of the public debt commission be given to France as a compensation for doing away with the present system of control. The other questions relating to the organization of the finances of Egypt will be treated by these two governments in concert with the other great powers of Europe, at their approval. Gladstone is said to believe he has already sufficient assurance.

Irish Items.

Dublin, 14.—The trial of Patrick Joyce on the charge of being a participant in the massacre of the Joyce family at Meamstown, was continued before Judge Barry today. Another prisoner accused of the murder has turned up and the case seems likely to be fully made out. The election is proceeding quietly. The Freeman's Journal writes with a leader in which it offers an apology for its recent accusations and harsh language against General Wolseyley, and again offering him the freedom of the city. It says Wolseyley has written a letter stating it is his earnest desire to see Ireland a loyal, peaceful, prosperous land. His testimony nevertheless confirmed the evidence already published, that ten men went to the Joyce's house. He, prisoner, saw Patrick Joyce enter the door of witness and then ran away, and as he fled heard behind from the house shouts of "Murder" and screams for help.

The Missing Steamer. LONDON, 14.—Captain Tudor, of the steamer Westphalia states that the steamer with which his vessel came into collision yesterday, after two hours' search, was found to have been wrecked on a reef, and that the crew have had ample time to escape. He believes they must have floated their boats and are very hopeful all will be heard from in the course of time.

Mecca, 14.—No cholera has appeared here since the 4th of this month.

The Estate Certificate.

Berlin, 14.—The Post, in an article directed against the French government, says: "It was possible in England to raise a coalition against Germany, and for Germany to excite a panic against England; but experience shows that Germany never opposes England and England never opposes Germany."

THE REMAINS OF JAMES HOMER FOUND.

TAYLOR, Apache Co., U. T., November 6th, 1882.

Editor Deseret News:

About eight months past I wrote concerning the young James Homer, who was killed in a snow storm at Phoenix Park on the 23rd of January, 1882. No trace of him could be found; three trials were made during the winter. October 31st, 1882, Brother William Johnson, who resides at Woodruff, was hunting sheep for W. J. Flake, in the vicinity of the Park, when he ran upon the remains of the last Brother Homer. Word was sent to Snowflake on the first of November, when three brethren from Snowflake and three from Taylor started for his remains; they arrived on the second, just before dark. As per request he came to his death from freezing. He was found some five miles east of Nelson Beebe's ranch house. He left the above place with Daniel Kemp for the purpose of killing some turkeys; the young men were related to a heavy snow storm, which had broken up the snow, and he had broken off some cedar wood and some dry bark; he had evidently been trying to make a fire, and had taken up a pocket cap box with seven caps, a nail and a brass button. His knife was open in his left pocket; he was evidently looking for matches. His gun was not found, nor his shot-pouch. His hat was also missing. His remains were brought in a coffin to Snowflake, where the inquest was held on the 4th inst. and was buried in the Snowflake cemetery on Saturday the 4th. He had a letter in his pocket, which was an order for a cow on his own place, C. C. Curtis. It was known that he had this order with him when he was lost. The knife, pocket-book, were found with the remains of the dead. Brother Homer's brothers are living in Provo City. He was an orphan. I think he has one sister at Provo. Please publish this for the benefit of my many friends. He was about 22 years old.
