

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THEATICAL.—That fine melodrama, "The Six Degrees of Crime" will be performed this evening, the performance is to conclude with the farce of "Parasitic Writers."

THEATICAL.—The benefit of Mr. W. T. Harris tomorrow night, when a powerful play will be presented.

THEATICAL.—Bishop Levi Stewart, of Kanab, Utah, this morning and gave the following address concerning that part of the country. He left there on the 2nd instant; upon which time the grasshoppers, although they had appeared, had not done much damage to the crops, and the Bishop is of the opinion that a fair harvest will be secured. He had noted the places where the eggs of the insects were deposited last year, and put in sixty acres of wheat north of the spot, which was a fine proceeding as they generally travel south.

The work of planting out orchards there ahead of anything the Bishop has ever seen in any settlement similar to that of the country. He had noted the places where the eggs of the insects were deposited last year, and put in sixty acres of wheat north of the spot, which was a fine proceeding as they generally travel south.

A LITTLE BOOK GIVEN AWAY.—The Metropolitan Explained and Illustrated, is the title of an elegant and useful little work published by Davis & Co., clothiers, 440 Broadway, corner of Grand St., New York, which has recently been very largely distributed from the press there on account of the very clear and succinct manner in which it explains the locality and means of access to all points of interest in the metropolis. The work is handsomely illustrated, and contains a large map. It furnishes a full history of Central Park, and also furnishes a complete directory of the public squares and parks and their localities, with sketches of public buildings and a full directory of churches, banks, places of amusement, railroad depots, principal hotels, libraries, etc. We received a copy of the book this morning with an accompanying circular from the publishers, of which the following is an extract:

It will confer a favor upon many of our readers who may visit our city, and who are not familiar with its localities, if you will announce that we will be happy to present a copy of the book, including an explanatory map of the city to all who may call for it, at either of our stores, Broadway, corner of Grand St., or Broadway, corner of Warren Street.

BEAR RIVER CITY.—N. P. Rasmussen, writing from Bear River City, on the 10th inst., says:

"This place is situated in the mountains of the Malad Valley on the way between Idaho and California. It is a very fine place, and since then the residents have had a great deal of labor to perform in getting the water on their lands, for the building of the canal. The grasshoppers have, each returning season, taken a large proportion of our crops, but this has not discouraged us, or caused us to pull up stakes and leave. We experienced heavy losses last year on account of the wetness of the spring and our inability to drain the water from our land, causing the saturation to rise, and which destroyed the greater portion of our grain. Unfortunately, also, about the time when it was necessary to irrigate our land across the Malad River broke away and we were unable to get the benefit of water to our crops when it was badly needed. A new dam has been built and a new canal is nearly completed which, I think, speaks well for the energy of the people. A large amount of grain has been raised, and most of the wheat looks well at present."

There is a good Sunday school at which much interest is manifested by all. We have also a day school in operation. We have taken steps toward organizing an association for the improvement of stock, and our Female Relief Society has been in existence for two years and is doing well. The health of the people of this settlement is as good as could be desired.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 18th, 1894.

Editor Desert News.—Many applicants for naturalization have felt a sort of timidity when approaching his Honor Judge McKean, but his Honor's urbanity and courteous manner soon dispel such timidity. Such questions as the following show what interest the Judge takes in the family affairs of the applicants:

Judge. Mr. Jones, have you got much of a family?

Allen. I have got one wife and three children.

Judge. Is that all?

Allen. Well, I have got one more child, but it is dead now.

Judge. You have got but one wife?

Allen. Yes.

Judge. You have got only one wife?

Allen. Yes. You mean, no, don't you?

Judge. Yes. Then follow questions whether the laws of the United States ought to be preferred to those of the different European countries, the former always, as a matter of course, to be preferred, which makes his Honor's patriotic heart swell with gratitude for the great privilege he enjoys in being an American born citizen, and he relieves himself by making a patriotic speech to his new fellow-citizens, who nod and smile highly gratified.

What a glorious thing to be a patriot when it pays.

Mr. Wirtgen did not succeed in getting admitted to citizenship, but after being examined, however, Judge McKean text for a short but highly entertaining sermon to the great number of an attentive audience. Many of the questions which go far to make up a zealous missionary, in any age and in any country, order largely into the composition of Judge McKean's address. He lived in the fourteenth century instead of the nineteenth, and had been a descendant of the Virgin people instead of being a modern European. He might have been preferred for a benediction in Castile, where he would have administered justice according to the Roman chancery practice. He doubtless would have done so, and we are sure the city of Los Angeles would have been adorned by the presence of the Grand Inquisitor.

Is not "Crisp" mistaken? We have been informed that the Judge said from "And Hark!"—E. D. R. N.]

"EVERY SATURDAY," for the 23rd instant, contains a fine portrait of Lord de Grey and Ripon, President of the English members of the High Commission, besides a description of scenes on the Mississippi, and to Paris. It, as well as the June issue of "Harper's Monthly," can be obtained at Dwyer's.

BAD EFFECTS OF BARS HALL.—The Organ Function of yesterday says:

"On Saturday last, a number of boys were playing ball on the beach in the city. Two of them, Thomas Cunningham and Aaron Jackson, were running to catch the ball, when Cunningham came into violent collision, striking the former in the mouth and the latter in the temple, both fell to the ground insensible. Cunningham had several teeth broken out, and Jackson received a cut on the temple. They are both rapidly recovering from the effects of the collision."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Sacramento Union, writing from Nevada City, California, gives a sketch of how they live in that city. He says:

"How do we live? Through the week we eat, drink, smoke, discuss the Fair trials, the railroad or the political situation, and about our neighbors. This last operation, however, is termed 'chatter,' and is the chief occupation of all good Christians. On Sunday we go to church and eat, and on the long hot days of the week we sit on the porch, and talk about the weather, the weight, and we gather in at the sink."

THE AMERICAN SUBMURGE

BRING AN Agent for the sale of this most valuable article, having seen them tried in different deep wells, and finding them give universal satisfaction, I offer them to the public as the best means of raising water from any well, spring, or other source of water. A large pump may be applied. From the tests I have made, I have found that a pump of this kind, with any other pump now offered to the public with the same power. As some objections have been made to the pump for deep wells, I have tested them in one well 200 feet deep, from which I raised twelve gallons per minute. They are powerful non-condensing, and will not get out of order. If customers are wanted or instructions in relation to them, please call on Emerson & Son, 100 South Water Street, Chicago, Ill.
