

CITY SCORES AN IMPORTANT POINT

Injunction Dissolved Against Municipality and Canal Companies.

WORK WILL NOW PROCEED.

Jordan Narrows Company Was Not Ready for Hearing—City at Liberty to Stop Flow From Utah Lakes.

Judge Hiles has dissolved the temporary restraining order issued a couple of weeks ago against the city and the four canal companies, at the suit of Joseph George, receiver of the Salt Lake City Water and Electric Power company, against Salt Lake City et al, and has also vacated the order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

The hearing on the order to show cause was set for today, but on Saturday Zane & Rogers, the attorneys for the power company, came into court and moved for a continuation of the matter for the term. This was opposed by Richards & Varian, of counsel for the municipality, unless the restraining orders were dissolved. The power company offered no objection to this, and the orders referred to were duly entered upon the court records, and the hearing continued for the term.

It was shown by the city's legal representatives that to have allowed the matter to go over for the term would have resulted in a great loss to the farmers in the county, who were made defendants to the action owing to their connection with the various canal companies.

The injunction, it will be remembered, was issued to prevent the city and canal companies from stopping the flow from Utah lake into the Jordan river during the winter, in order that a more plentiful supply might be had for irrigation purposes next summer.

The dissolution of the order to show cause and the dissolving of the temporary injunction is quite a victory for the city and canal companies, as it now leaves them at liberty to put in the dikes, started some few weeks ago under the direction of Engineer Kelsey, and dam the water up in the lake for the purposes already mentioned.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.
Chris Auer Sues Salt Lake & Los Angeles to Recover $15,000 Damages.

The Salt Lake & Los Angeles Railway company has been made defendant in the Third district court by Chris Auer, a car machinist by trade, who seeks to recover damages in the sum of $15,000 for alleged personal injuries. The complaint alleges that on August 12th last plaintiff was a passenger on one of the defendant company's cars from Salt Lake beach to the city. The car, plaintiff says, was so crowded that he was compelled to stand up and while in that position was pushed off, while the train was in motion, falling to the ground and striking his head on a switch bar, along-side the track. The injuries complained of are a broken cheek bone, the loosening of his teeth, the knocking out of his left eye, the impairing of the sight of his right eye and his hearing and the disfigurement of his physiognomy.

The negligence complained of is the alleged failure of the company to supply its patrons with sufficient car accommodations.

HEAVY JUDGMENT.

Default Entered Against O. P. Posey for $56,147.73 in District Court.

Judgment in the sum of $56,147.73 has been entered in the Third district court against Oliver P. Posey, in the suit of Walter E. Ward and Frederick W. Cameron against Posey and Otto Meers. Judgment against Posey was entered because of his failure to answer plaintiff's complaint. The action against Meers is still pending. Suit was begun last June to renew a judgment obtained by plaintiffs in the court of Albany county, New York, against both defendants on Nov. 17th, 1898, the purpose being to get execution of the judgment on property of defendants supposed to be in Utah.

ART EXHIBITION CLOSES.

The exhibit given by the Utah Art League in Logan came to an end on Sunday, after a most successful week. The officers and members of the league exhibitors and the Logan people are all highly pleased with the result of the exhibition, the display being a most creditable one and the interest shown by the Logan people and those of the surrounding towns being encouraging in the highest degree.

It is estimated by the league that about 4,000 people attended the exhibition and all seemed eager to have the event repeated. The lectures given by Mr. Culmer, Prof. Paul, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Alice M. Horne and Miss Tensdel were all largely attended, most of the students of the H. Y. the Agricultural and the Presbyterian colleges being present.

The awards which were published last week in the "News," gave general satisfaction. Many of the pictures were the subjects of high praise, especially that of Miss Tensdel, which has been purchased for the Art Institute. The work of the artists also received high praise. On the whole the exhibition may be considered a most successful affair, and the outcome promises well for the future of Utah's Art Institute.

FIRST DEFEAT FOR Y. M. C. A. TEAM

University of Wyoming Win by a Score of 15 to 0.

RAINED DURING THE GAME.

The Field Looked Like a Lake After the First Half—Visitors' Good Team Work.

A miserable game, played on a field of slimy mud and in the most disagreeable weather imaginable, was the program at Walker's field Saturday afternoon.

Three battles was all on one side and the team from Wyoming had that side. The Y. M. C. A. boys met a crushing defeat like unto the one they accorded to the Davis county nursery team on the occasion of their first game. During the entire "game" it rained, and before the first half was over with, the gridiron was transposed from mud to a lake. After the first two or three downs the players all looked alike, and it would keep the best of experts guessing to distinguish one from another.

The game could be summed up by saying that the Wyoming team played as a team, while the Christians were anything but united. Some of the plays, the great plays we heard so much about concerning the Laramie players were about as clear and beautiful as the mud they played in.

They defeated the locals, however, to the tune of 15 to 0, and did it by superior all around work, and then they did not exhaust their strength. During the delays which were necessary to give the players a chance to extract the real estate from their optics, the visitors played tag, gave exhibitions of Indian war dances and cut all kinds of fantastic capers to keep warm until the play was resumed.

Considering the condition of the weather, a good sized crowd was present, and its enthusiasm could not be drowned by the rivers of water which fell from the heavens. The game was devoid of accidents. Who could get hurt playing on a field as soft as a feather bed?

In the early part of the game the Wyomingites discovered that the local team's line was weakest at the end, and they took advantage of it. The teams lined up as follows:

Wyoming. Y. M. C. A.
Jennings, Ponting, L. E. Dunn
McLaughlin, I. E. Berryman
Trabing, L. E. Myer
White, L. E. Jennings
Diller, L. E. Smith
Sawyer, L. E. B. Margetts
McMurray, L. E. Wade
Miller, L. E. Allen
Crater, L. E. Nels Margetts
Lohlein, L. E. Seare

Substitutes—For Wyoming, Scott, Reals; for Y. M. C. A., Nephi Thomas, Davis, Arthur Thomas, Crandell, Ostler.

"Captain."

When the ball was put into play McMurray made a dash through right tackle but Seare was there as quick as a cat to meet him. This was followed by an attempted end run, which was blocked by Dana Smith. Wyoming then tried a mass play which failed, and the ball went to the locals. Here the Christians massed their forces but were stopped almost in their tracks. Allen then tries for right end with a slight gain and Dana Smith punts. The ball was blocked and bounded back. Lohlein grabbed it and took it to the Christians' twenty-five-yard line. Wyoming then brought out a new play, an end back formation which repeatedly made big gains, but in this instance advanced the ball only two yards. Frequent fumbles were made owing to the slick condition of the ball. The visitors settled down to mass plays against tackles and in seventeen minutes from the time the oval was put in motion a touchdown was scored. Goal missed. Two minutes before the half closed Lohlein made another touchdown. Goal missed again. Over thirty minutes were consumed in the first half, but the second was cut down to twenty minutes. The Wyomingites continued to buck until Miller carried the ball over the line for another touchdown.

At the conclusion of the game the players went to the Sanitarium, where they scrubbed for an hour to get the mud out of their hair. After supper at the Kenyon, the visitors were entertained by the Christians in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The visitors all said they were well pleased with the reception accorded them. They also said they had never played with a more gentlemanly lot of men as those composing the Y. M. C. A. football team.

GRIDIRON NOTES.

Every afternoon, rain or shine, Coach Callahan of the Inevitable High School team, has the boys on Walker's field for practice from two to four hours. The hard work of the team is reducing its weight a little but every man's muscle is as hard as steel. The team will play no games until Thanksgiving Day when they meet the East Denver High School. The Denverites, doubtless remembering the tower of strength they ran up against last year, are putting forth ever possible effort to improve, having employed two professional coaches to drill them. The home team has no fear of being surprised by new plays. Coach Callahan says they have adequate tackles for any of them.

A game which will furnish much amusement is on the boards for next Friday afternoon. It is between the Y. M. C. A. and Theater Hustlers. "Fat" Schuler, who plays center for the Hustlers, and is boss of the aggregation, says his team has a "cinch." He weighs slightly over 250 pounds, and has the strength. Woe be unto the man upon whom he falls.

A. Shepherd, the new manager of the Y. M. C. A. team, is anxious to arrange games to keep his team busy for the balance of the season. He will endeavor to secure match games with the following teams: Collegiate, All Hallows' (second team), Second High School, Deaf Mutes of Ogden and the local Lowell School team.

Physical Director J. A. Augustus of the Y. M. C. A. team, was greatly disappointed Saturday over his inability to participate in the game with the Wyoming team. His ankle is still very weak and any undue strain upon it would very likely cause permanent injury. Mr. Augustus will probably not enter any gridiron contests during the present season.

At 6:40 o'clock last evening the Wyoming University football team left for home. Manager Rigidon tried to arrange for a game today, but was unable to do so. The High School team would have accommodated the visitors had it not been for the game with the Denver team, which took place on Thanksgiving. The boys want to be in good condition for that game, and do not propose to take any chances in receiving injury. Before leaving, the Wyomingites expressed their appreciation of the hearty reception accorded them by the Y. M. C. A. and hoped that another game could be arranged between the two teams.

Nels Margetts, the genial captain of the Y. M. C. A. team, has decided upon a wise step. He is going to change the line-up of the team. Walter Seary will be placed on the end of the line instead of fullback, and a new man will be placed at quarter back to take Wade's place. During this week's practice several new men will be tried out for positions, and it is believed that the team will be greatly strengthened.

A team composed of 125 pounds, called the "Young Nationals," has been organized in this city, and it is ready to meet any team of equal weight. The Summer School team preferred. Following is the National's line-up:
Allen, c.; Hanson, l. t.; Thomas, g. b.; Ryan (capt.), l. t.; Peters, l. g.; Green, r. t.; Donelson, r. e.; Smith, f. b.; Denhalter, r. g.; Sibley, l. e.; Bing, l. h.

OUTSIDE EVENTS.

ATHLETIC UNION MEETS.

Rules Recommended by the Metropolitan Association Will Be Adopted.

New York, Nov. 19.—The annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held here today. Officers for the coming year will be elected and the changes in the rules recommended by the Metropolitan association of the union at its meeting last week will be considered and probably adopted. They provide that an athlete must give adequate excuse for a failure to compete in games, which he has entered, forbid his entering for more than one set of games on the same day and provide that all entries must close one week before the day of the games. Several minor alterations are proposed. One of the most important matters which will engage the attention of the meeting is the proposed international athletic union. France, Germany and other continental athletes are anxious to establish of such an organization and the Amateur Athletic association of Australasia has communicated with the union, proposing an alliance, but the English athletes have pronounced against it. The prevailing sentiment in the Amateur Athletic union is favorable to the scheme and doubtless an attempt will be made to establish the international union. The only obstacle is likely to be the serious difficulty in reconciling the varying systems of weights and measures. Continental athletes use the metric system exclusively, and would insist upon its adoption. But in the case of the proposed alliance with the amateur athletic union of Australasia, the action will doubtless be favorable.

First Meet at Tan Foran.
San Francisco, Nov. 19.—The first racing meeting at Tan Foran Park to be conducted by the re-organized turf association known as the San Francisco Jockey club, at the head of which is Prince Andre Poniatowski will open today with an attractive card. If no more rain falls the track is likely to be in excellent shape, for Tan Foran is one of the most expertly drained courses in the country. Mr. Pettinelli will preside in the stand during the winter, assisted by Mr. Cole. Mr. Dwyer will act as starter.

FOUGHT WITH AN INDIAN.

George Peppin Picks a Row and Gets Decidedly the Worst of It.

A bloody fight occurred over on Second South street yesterday morning, shortly after eight o'clock, between George Peppin, a man about 30 years of age, and an unknown Indian, who weighs not less than 250 pounds. Eye witness to the melee, declare that Peppin assaulted the red man and was the aggressor during the early part of the fight. The Indian acted more on the defensive, and it is said, only struck two blows.

Peppin had been out all night and had acquired considerably of a load. About 8:15, he staggered into Bonny's cigar store and ordered the genius loci behind the counter to trot out the drinks. The clerk said he didn't have any, but would give him a cigarette. Peppin became offended at this and, seizing a cigar lighter, aimed a blow at the clerk's head. The man behind the counter dodged, and did the battering ram act just below the third button on Peppin's vest, sending him sprawling out on the sidewalk. This is where the Indian comes into the story. Peppin slowly staggered to his feet, and the first object to meet his befuddled gaze was the husky form of a Woodsian in red man, doing duty as a cigar sign in front of the store. "Wat'neel you rubberin' at?" demanded Peppin, approaching the Indian in a threatening manner. The brave maintained a dignified silence, which seemed to irritate his pale faced foe to an uncontrollable degree.

"Got nuthin' ter say, eh—got cold feet? Well, take that!" and flinging for the Indian's fifth rib, Peppin landed a vicious right hook under the red man's ear, the identical blow Joe Gans used last Friday night in Denver in putting "Kid" Parker to sleep.

The Indian was able to take more punishment than the "Kid," but the blow staggered him, nevertheless. Peppin followed it up with a left uppercut, which landed on the antagonist's nose, but the only blood that flowed was from the white man's fist.

The blows then came thick and fast, and before long the Indian was groggy. "This is an end," yelled Peppin as he prepared to end the bout with a right, straight from the shoulder. The Indian could not avoid the blow, which raised him about three inches. Then he started for the white man, and the latter clutched to avoid punishment. To the pavement they fell together, with Peppin nearest the pavement. The wooden man's nose opened Peppin's head for nearly four inches. This would have been considered foul by the referee, but he was talking to Sammie Clark around the corner, and no decision could be rendered. The Indian had his man down. It was a strange hold. "Largo me ear, ye murderin' heathen," bawled the man underneath. "Wow! Murder! Help!" he shrieked. Police Officer Emil Johnson heard the cries and dashed to the rescue. With some difficulty the Indian was removed from the prostrate form of his enemy, and was given his usual jab back.

Peppin was taken to the station and booked for drunkenness and assault and battery. He showed his gameness by saying: "Lemme go back an' try him again. I kin lick him, sho' I can." But they wouldn't let him. Instead, Dr. Silver put a few stitches on his head and otherwise patched him up.

Later in the day, $5 was put up for him and he was taken home.

The Indian's injuries consist of a broken nose and a fractured eyebrow. Today Mr. Bonetti placed the following sign on the Indian: "Slightly disfigured, but still in the ring. Call again!"
