

MURRAY DEBATE COMES TO CLOSE

Argument Between Elders Eades
And Curtis Regarding Succession.

AUDIENCE IS DISTURBED.

Thoughtless Persons in Choir Annoy
Speakers and Those Gathered to Hear Opponents Express Views.

The debate on succession in the presidency, which commenced Monday evening between a representative of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and an elder of the Reorganized church, came to a close last night. The three sessions were held in the Second ward meetinghouse, Murray, and were largely attended, unusual interest being manifested in the discussion.

The debaters were Elder Jacob A. Eades, of West Jordan, and Elder J. F. Curtis, the latter appearing for the Reorganized church. Last night the former had the opening speech, taking the affirmative of the following proposition: "Resolved, that Brigham Young was the lawful successor of Joseph Smith as president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints." Each speaker had an hour in which to present his views, divided into half hour addresses, with five minutes each for closing. The rebuttal had not been provided for in the written agreement, but the suggestion for extension of time was agreeable to both speakers.

THOUGHTLESS WOMAN.

Under this arrangement Elder Curtis had the last say, and it was at this juncture that the one regrettable incident of the evening occurred. The speaker had scarcely commenced, when a thoughtless woman in the choir began to titter and laugh. Some of the younger members of the congregation and some older ones, joined in the unbecomingly conducted and Elder Curtis was forced to wait until the confusion was over before he could proceed with his remarks. By far the greater part of the congregation disapproved of the occurrence and regretted that it had taken place.

The real question at issue, the succession was almost lost sight of in the discussion. Elder Curtis seemed more inclined to speak of other questions than the one agreed upon. Polygamy and blood atonement were particularly talked out by him as shafts considered by him as more or less deadly on the claims of the Church in Utah. These points were touched upon by Elder Eades only to the extent of advancing arguments to the effect that plural marriage was in the Church prior to the ascendency of Brigham Young to the presidency, and that it was placed there by no less a personage than the Prophet Joseph Smith himself. To prove his assertion he read extracts from the Saints' Herald, the Reorganized Church organ, to the effect that the prophet had taught and practiced the doctrine, but subsequently repented the action in this regard and burned the revelation he had received on the subject. But the question asked by Elder Eades of his opponent was how could the doings, or even the misdoings, of Brigham Young be the basis of powers of priesthood and presidency upon the person formerly known as "Young Joseph."

"Admitting as you do, Elder Curtis, that the head of the Reorganized Church was not directly set apart and ordained by his father, how could power and authority to lead the Church be conferred by Marks, Briggs, Gourley and Blair, the first three of whom had been excommunicated from the Church established by the prophet, while the latter was never a member of that church?" asked Elder Eades.

NOT ANSWERED.

The question was not answered by Elder Curtis, but he contended that Brigham Young could not have been the legal successor, because in his, Elder Curtis' opinion, President Young did not follow the prophet in his teachings.

Elder Eades read extensively from the Doctrine and Covenants, showing the closeness existing between the quorum of the twelve and the first presidency. Statements of various leading men were referred to relating to the anxiety of the Prophet Joseph Smith just prior to his martyrdom to see that nothing was left undone by him that would interfere with the work in case of his death. At his right hand stood his brother Hyrum and at his left stood his brethren of the twelve. When Hyrum was no more, the powers of presidency rested upon the twelve, the great majority of whom stood as a unite, and who were sustained by the Church in conference assembled, without one dissenting voice. Elder Curtis took the ground that at the conference alluded to, the twelve were sustained "in their calling," and he contended that that meant only as apostles and had no bearing upon the presidency.

As to blood atonement, Elder Eades emphatically declared that the Church does now and always has left such matters to the individual, and the question had no place whatsoever in this debate.

POLITICAL POINTERS

County Chairman J. U. Eldredge, Jr., and "American" Chairman J. E. McGinty, met last night to arrange for the distribution of election judges for the coming election. Certain districts were agreed upon in which the "Americans" were conceded the right to name chairman, and certain other districts were conceded to the Republicans. The list as finally made up is as follows:

Republican—2, 3, 7, 8, 9, 10, 16, 17, 19, 22, 23, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80.

American—1, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 18, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 46, 47, 48, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54.

In the county districts outside of the city, other parties will have judges in the following districts: Democrats—35, 61, 82. Americans—34, 54, 70, 80. Socialists—90.

The Democratic party of Utah, through its delegates' convention, will name six Denver delegates tomorrow morning and afternoon at the Grand theater. Salt Lake's candidates are Mrs. O. E. Goshell of 66 E street, whom the Women's Democratic club has decided to support; Frank B. Stephens, James H. Moyle, L. R. Martineau, Ashby Snow, O. W. Powers and William H. King.

State Chairman L. R. Martineau addressed the Women's Democratic club at its monthly meeting yesterday afternoon, and extended an invitation to everybody to vote the Democratic ticket this fall. "In our defeat," he said, "our consolation has been the realization that we have been high ideals which were bequeathed to our nation by the immortal Thomas Jefferson." In closing Mr. Martineau predicted that "when the nation's verdict shall have been rendered and the votes counted in November it will disclose a triumphant victory for the Democracy, and that our great leader and commoner, J. F. Smith, has been swept into the White House."

The Young Men's Republican club expects all young men of the party to attend the club meeting tonight in the Atlas block.

Frank I. Seifert, the noted bank robber expert, is now an official adviser to McGinty, the brave leader of the "American" party's coming campaign.

Mayor Bradford and the persuer machine seem to have a little difference of their own, over how badly the bond issue is needed for campaign purposes. If all the things the persuer say of Mayor Bradford come to light, he would prove to be perhaps the most hated man in the persuer horizon.

If the merchants would only realize on their part how badly the machine needs the money they would quit all this opposition in a minute and gladly come through with the additional money for the additional police protection now afforded.

And when the license collector comes for the additional money for additional police protection, what will he say to the McWhirters of the McWhirter bakery?

FUNERAL OF MRS. WINCHESTER

The funeral of Mrs. Henry W. Winchester was held in the Murray Fraternal hall Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the service being attended by over 300 persons. The Women of Woodcraft were in charge and took part in the ceremonies at the grave. Joseph Torrence presided at the service. Addresses were made by Frank Y. Taylor, John Sanders and the Rev. Jesse Hyde. Music was furnished by the Murray First ward quartet. The pallbearers were members of the degree team of Camp Malagany 358. Interment took place in the South Cottonwood cemetery, the ritual service being conducted by the Ladies' circle and the grave was dedicated by the Rev. Jesse Hyde. Mrs. Winchester was 44 years of age at the time of her death and is survived by two sons and three daughters. She was being a teacher in the Arlington school.

NEW CREAMERY STARTS OPERATIONS MONDAY

What was formerly the Faust Creamery company is now the Jensen Creamery company. Mr. Faust having disposed to the new concern all of his interests, and retired permanently. The reorganized company has completely overhauled the Faust plant, extensively remodeling it, besides adding new and valuable features for facilitating manufacturing operations, and will be in churning Monday next. 40 cows to the pound butter. The officers are W. P. Jensen, president; I. N. Parker vice president; A. P. Henningsen, secretary and treasurer; the capital stock being $100,000.

The new concern is under an active commercially aggressive management. It proposes to do things that it has never done before, and that is competition. It proposes to put the farmers on easy street by paying spot cash for the raw material. The company will also handle eggs, cheese and affiliated products, enlarging along these lines as time progresses.

Mr. Jensen, the head of the establishment, was president of the Continental Creamery company of Topeka, Kansas, as well as president of the Commercial club of that city before coming to Salt Lake. He was traveling through the west some months ago for his health, when opportunity offered to visit Salt Lake. The creamery situation so appealed to him in the way of business promise, that after consultation with Mr. Henningsen, president of the Henningsen Produce company of this city, Mr. Jensen concluded to sever his connections at Topeka and locate in Salt Lake City. Mr. Jensen and Mr. Henningsen were friends in Denmark came to this country together, and were subsequently associated in creamery operations in Nebraska. Mr. Jensen is well known in eastern Kansas where his company paid annually to the farmers $1,000,000 for raw material shipping the finished product, 10,000,000 pounds annually, over a wide extent of territory. He introduced the hand separator among the farmers, thus substituting shipments of cream for shipments of milk which is retained at home for feeding and fattening hogs.

Mr. Parker, the vice president, was formerly manager of the Elgin dairy and has a wide acquaintance that can not fail to prove of special value in dealing with both producer and consumer.

MRS. BOYD A WINNER.

Defeats Husband in Utah and California Courts.

Emelyn C. Boyd of San Francisco, who successfully opposed her husband's efforts to secure a divorce from her in the Utah courts on the ground that no legal service had been made in the proceedings, has obtained a decree in the superior court at San Francisco, annulling the bonds of wedlock existing between them, word to this effect being received in this city yesterday afternoon. Boyd secured a decree in the Third district court in this city, but it was annulled on petition of his wife, who appeared on the scene and showed that she had never been served with notice of the suit.

KELSEY'S ODD FIGURES.

He Tries to Rescue His "American" Brothers from Bitter Defeat.

According to City Engineer L. C. Kelsey, who has just returned from the east, the city can go ahead and re-survey Main street from South Temple to Fourth South regardless of the protests made against such action in the city council.

In a report submitted to the council by Engineer Kelsey, it is stated that it requires 3,476 feet of abutting property on the street to defeat the improvement, and according to the analysis of the city engineer, the number of feet protesting on the petition were as follows:

Feet	Protested	Protested by agent
1,292.83	1,292.83	1,292.83
2,589.67	2,589.67	2,589.67
1,347.25	1,347.25	1,347.25
227.49	227.49	227.49
1,674.74	1,674.74	1,674.74
3,476	3,476	3,476

From this statement it will be seen that Mr. Kelsey has eliminated 1,574.74 feet from the original total, showing that the necessary two-thirds has not been secured in such manner as to defeat the improvement legally. The matter will come up at Monday evening's meeting of the city council for further consideration.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Experience of a Southern Man.

"Please allow me to thank the original Postum, which in my case speaks for itself," writes a Florida man. "I formerly drank so much coffee during the day that my nervous system was almost a wreck. My physician told me to quit drinking it but I had to have something to drink, so I tried Postum. To my great surprise I saw quite a change in my nerves in about 10 days. That was a year ago and now my nerves are steady and I don't have those bilious sick headaches which I regularly had while drinking coffee. Postum seems to have body-building properties and leaves the head clear. And I do not have the bad taste in my mouth when I get up mornings. When Postum is boiled and served strong, it is far better in taste than coffee. My advice to coffee drinkers is to try Postum and be convinced. There's a Reason."

AMUSEMENTS.

The New York Symphony—Salt Lake City, Utah, last night was a glimpse of what our own symphony orchestra is striving to attain. The visit of Walter Damrosch and his famous organization may well be termed the red letter event of our musical season. While Mr. Damrosch brought with him only a few of his best instrumentalists numbering something like 80, yet the pick and flower of his flock were there, and no such proficiency in instrumentation has ever been heard in our city before. Especially was this true of the brass, wind and wood wind instruments, those which are always most difficult to fill, and which last night were almost perfect.

Mr. Damrosch's organization is probably exceeded by only one other in the United States, that is the Boston Symphony, and even to that it is as good as second. The players are all of the highest degree of virtuosity; they have been associated so long under Damrosch that they respond to him as if they were a great unit. The program last night, which did not begin until after 8 o'clock, was of nearly two hours' duration. It was classic, almost severe, throughout, yet the audience was enraptured from beginning to end. Mr. Damrosch had an ovation on his entrance that rose to a whirlwind of applause after the notable numbers of the evening. He bowed his acknowledgments again and again, but yielded no encores, and gracefully waived his hand over his musicians, indicating that they too must share the credit for the evening's achievements.

The program opened with the always beautiful "Overture to Oberon," by Weber, and never have its grace and charm been so beautifully depicted. The big number of the evening, Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C minor, is one of the most prodigious of the master's works. Its rendition lasted about an hour, but it is so full of depth, feeling, splendor and variety that the listeners sat in absorbed interest throughout. Nothing could equal the tenderness of the second movement, which might almost be thought to depict the sorrows of Beethoven's sad life, or the grandeur of the finale, whose volume of sound and power of attack were in the breath-taking order. The Hungarian Rhapsody No. 1, by Liszt, which was full of the semi-barbaric color of that master's works, also had an ovation, and the closing number, "The River Moldau," a symphonic poem by Smetana, is a most beautiful conception and most beautifully was it rendered.

Mme. Mary Huse, De Mose, the soprano of the evening, did some fine work, first in the Mozart Aria, second in the familiar Polish song from Mignon. She has a well cultivated high soprano, and with the rare accompaniment the orchestra gave her, her numbers were among the most enjoyable of the evening.

The rendition of Mr. Shepherd's Overture Joyous was a feature not on the program, but one that was immensely appreciated. When Mr. Damrosch announced that he took pleasure in "giving a hearing to the talents of your fellow townsman, Mr. Shepherd, a young composer of high talents," there was a big round of applause, and the rendition by the orchestra, which consumed something like 15 minutes, was followed with the most wrapt attention. At the close, there was a huge burst of applause, which Damrosch smilingly acknowledged, and when it continued, he left the stage and endeavored to find the composer. That gentleman, however, was safely hidden away behind a pillar in the second gallery, and did not respond. It would be impossible to offer any just criticism of Mr. Shepherd's work without hearing it more than once. It impressed the audience as being of extreme difficulty, and in fact Mr. Damrosch's first utterance on beholding the parts, "This is certainly hard." The parts were only resolved in time to allow two rehearsals, though Mr. Damrosch had had a previous acquaintance with the composition, he having been one of the original committee that awarded it the Paderewski prize of $500. It showed the highest degree of musicianship, and was full of color, intricate movements, and variety, and expressed the swing of deep joyfulness its name indicates, but it must be said that it certainly belongs so much on the order of the classic as to give over the heads of those who are not skilled musicians, at least till they have heard it several times.

Mr. Shepherd said today that he was well pleased with his rendition, and especially gratified as this was the first time he had ever listened to the work. He wrote it in the score, for the full instrumentation, itself a heavy achievement. While he might have made a number of suggestions as to the tempo, had he been able to attend the rehearsals, Damrosch had certainly emulated, and Mr. Shepherd said the rendition had been one of high value to him, from an educational standpoint.

CITIZENS WILL PROTEST.

West Side Residents Will Meet Tonight to Plan Action.

A meeting of residents of the west side will be held this evening, at the Fifteenth ward hall, First South and Eighth West, commencing at 7 o'clock, at which protests will be made against the proposition to remove the red light district from Commercial street, to the block bounded by First and Second South and Fourth and Fifth West streets. The people living in that part of the city are determined that the change shall not be made, if anything they can do will prevent it.

POLICE ARE DISGUISED.

A Man in a New Uniform With White Vest and Tie is a Real "Copper."

Did you notice the Salt Lake policemen as they proudly walked their beats today?

Probably not, for the reason that you did not recognize them. It is extremely doubtful if you saw them. Tom B. Pitt will recognize his men when he returns Saturday from the convention of chiefs of police. So good has been the weather man that Acting Chief John Hempel issued orders when the 3 o'clock shift and the 11 o'clock shift went on duty yesterday afternoon and last night, to the effect that all the patrolmen were to change uniforms today.

The men changed, hence their strange appearance. White hats, short single breasted coats, white vests, white ties and patent leathers. Such is the order given yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Hempel, acting chief of police. None of the men kicked on wearing single breasted short coats, but some of them balked at white vests and ties, but the order is an official one, and must be obeyed.

DAUGHTERS OF PIONEERS.

The Daughters of the Mormon Battalion, the Nauvoo Legion and the Daughters of the Revolution will all join with the Daughters of the Pioneers in one grand encampment, to be held June 15, at Wandanere. The morning session will be held under the auspices of the general committee; the afternoon program will be divided between the four societies, June 15, being Flag day, a special flag will be developed by the loyal Daughters of the Revolution. The public is cordially invited.

BURGULARS OVERLOOK LITTLE.

Rooms of Fred Wolters and Ludwig Puls Ransacked.

While Frederick Wolters and Ludwig Puls, residing at 153 Hammond's court, were at the Salt Palace last night, thieves broke into their rooms and ransacked them in search of valuables. Wolters and Puls left for the Salt Palace about 6:45 and returned to their rooms shortly before midnight. The night that met their gaze was surprising to say the least. Dressers, drawers, trunks and boxes were cleaned out as to contents and articles of nearly every description scattered over the floor. The thieves secured a gold watch and chain, a special flag, two revolvers, a light overcoat, three suits of clothes, a silk opera hat, and other articles. The robbery was reported to the police but they were unable to secure any clue as to the identity of the thieves.

ONE WEEK'S WEATHER.

The local U. S. weather director has the following summary for the weather of the week ending Monday, June 8 last:

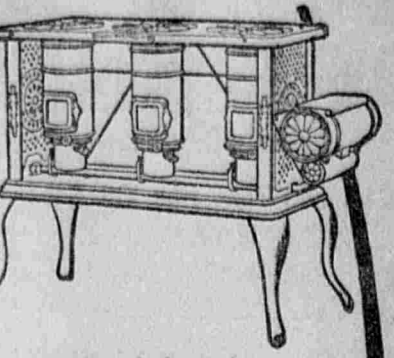

The temperature, like that for the previous two weeks, was much below the normal every day. Over the northern portion of the state, cloudy weather was almost continuous, and only two clear days were reported from a majority of the southern districts. Slight damage from frosts occurred in a few localities. High winds were general over the southern portion of the state, but were comparatively light over the northern half. A velocity of 65 miles per hour occurred at Modena on the 2nd.

The precipitation was very unevenly distributed. Heavy rains were quite general over the northern and south-central portions. Within the area, at some stations, rain fell every day of the week, and precipitation occurred nearly every day at the remainder. The rainfall was very light or entirely absent over the eastern and extreme southern counties. Thunderstorms occurred on the 3rd and 7th in some portions of the northern half of the state.

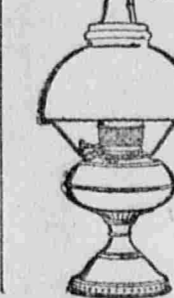

What Stove for Summer?

Nothing adds to kitchen convenience in summer weather like a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. Anything that any stove can do the "New Perfection" will do, and do it better.
