FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

The county means business on the liquor question. Whether whisky or sound law shall rule is an important question. Several desecrators from Fort Douglas were caught by the city police to day. John C. Graham, Esq., editor of the Territorial Enquirer, was up from Provo to-day. The central part of this city, presents a fine fine field for the festive crossing-sweep. Read advertisement of O. S. Walsh about English bread tins and galvanized iron flour and wheat bins. The "sea of mud" will be performed every day this week, on the streets of Salt Lake. No charge for admission. The performance of "Our Boarding House," by the Home Dramatic Club, last night, "a success." It will be repeated on Saturday night. The rain! It was very heavy during most of last night, and more or less during to-day. The snow is disappearing, and the streets are adorned with many miniature mud lakes. The 21st Ward Dramatic Company will give a dramatic entertainment in the meeting-house some time next week. Pieces, "Old time next week," "The Old Phil's Birthday," and "The Toldies." Smallpox continues to spread in the West and Northwest. Five counties of California, along the line of the C. P. R., have got it bad. California has quarantined Chicago, from which the contagion was conveyed. Mr. A. J. Patterson, manager of the W. U. Telegraph Company and the Telephone Exchange, also engaged in several other public enterprises, left for the East on Sunday morning, in the interest of the telephone, street car and other undertakings. Mr. R. M. Merrill is managing the W. U. Telegraph office in Mr. Patterson's absence.—Ogden Herald.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

A Narrow Circle.—The smallpox circle around this part of the country seems to be gradually narrowing. It is north, southeast and west of us. It is to be hoped it will come no nearer.

Negro Deaf Mute.—A negro deaf mute was taken up by the police some time since for vagrancy. Having no visible means of support, he is charitably employed in doing odd jobs about the City Jail and Hall. He writes a fair hand, and takes that method of conveying his thoughts. He appears to be about 18 years old.

He Cannot Do It.—Prof. Barfoot frequently receives letters from different parties requesting him to forward orders to Washington for carp fish, unaccompanied by the requisite amount of money. Surely it should not require much reasoning to convince a person that he cannot pay any attention to orders unless accompanied by the cash. Promises to pay are not sufficient.

A Holiday Stock.—F. Auerbach & Bro. are out with a huge Christmas advertisement. Their wares for the season have been obtained from Japan, Germany, Switzerland and other distant countries, where great specialties are produced. They give a list of classes of goods which it will interest intending purchasers to read. Prices are as moderate as any house east or west, freight added.

We direct attention to the advertisement of Godbe, Pitts & Co. This house has established a reputation for fair dealing and for generous consideration towards the necessities that entitle it to the confidence and patronage of the public. They invite examination of their entirely new and personally selected stock of useful and ornamental goods for the holidays, and ask all to call and see them, where old and young are sure of the most courteous welcome, whether they purchase or not.

At South Jordan.—On Sunday Sisters E. R. Snow Smith and E. B. Wells were at South Jordan Ward, where they attended a very interesting meeting of the Primary Association in the morning. In the afternoon, after the administration of the sacrament at the regular assembly of the Church at that place, Bishop Billings turned the meeting over to the Sisters named, to be used as a Relief Society gathering. Both delivered appropriate addresses, and remarks were also made by the Bishop and other brethren. It was a profitable time in the interest of the ladies' organization.

Theatre.—The large audience present at the Theatre last night, despite the muddy condition of the streets, was a high compliment to the Home Dramatic Club, "Our Boarding House" was put upon the stage in excellent style. The chief interest of the piece begins with the second act and never flags to the close. Messrs. G. M. Wells and J. D. Spencer, as Gilford and Elvira, kept the house convulsed with laughter, so well and neatly did they perform their respective parts. Mr. Staley as Florenti, was a veritable Italian, not only in speech and manner, but in general appearance. He played artistically. Mr. Malben played well, and met with a hearty reception, and Mr. H. Taylor never showed to better advantage than last night. In fact there were no exceptions to the rule of creditable acting. Miss Colebrook and Mr. L. Cummings are worthy of special commendation for their excellent acting. Messrs. Wilton, Hovey, Owen, Horsley, Whitney, Mrs. Ardelle Cummings, Miss Lottie Clark, Mrs. S. H. Clawson, Mrs. L. Cummings, Miss Alice Dinwoody and P. L. Cummings, all performed with care and good judgment. We mention Little last, not because she is least in merit, but in statistics. Her performance was surprisingly good for one so young. The play will be repeated on Saturday night.

THE WHISKY FIGHT.

THE OFFICERS AOT UPON AN EXECUTION AND SEIZURE OF THE GOODS OF N. P. GRAY.

The fight in the courts between the liquor dealers and local authorities still goes on. In nine of the cases in which Salt Lake County is plaintiff execution has been issued from Justice Pyper's court. This morning Constable Hampton levied on the respective parties and placed keepers in the saloons to take charge of the property. The parties upon whose property the levies have been made are W. K. Conrad, Auer & Murphy, N. P. Gray, Tuft & Nystrom, Jacob Ait, Clabby & Hogle, Bernhardt & Stahl, Youngberg & Schade, and Hill & Trowella. The ground upon which execution has been issued is because the defendants failed to file a sufficient bond. The statute requiring the giving of a bond for double the amount of judgment was complied with but they failed to give, in accordance with the statute, a bond of one hundred dollars for the payment of costs. This latter objection should have been given five days after judgment, the costs not having been paid. Since the above was written, Constable Hampton and his aids entered the saloon of N. P. Gray, and seized the property levied upon. An employee of the establishment, a brother of the proprietor, became excited, and proposed getting a pistol, with which to prevent the officer going behind the counter. Mr. N. P. Gray, however, prudently pointed out his folly, and there was no further trouble. The constable directed the carrying away of a sufficient quantity of liquors and other property to cover the amount of judgment and costs in the cases of Salt Lake County against Mr. Gray. While the carting away of the property was in progress, a large crowd gathered inside the saloon, and around the door, in the Godbe building, on the corner of Main and First South Streets. The balance of the liquor dealers were considerably exercised over this decided and active proceeding of the authorities of the county. They proceeded to Justice Pyper's Court and tendered him the costs of his court in the respective suits which they had heretofore refused to pay. The Justice, however, declined to accept of anything short of the costs and amount of judgment. It is likely that the process of seizure of the property of the defendants will proceed against all the other defendants in the county liquor suits as well as Mr. Gray, unless they comply with the judgment entered against them. The whisky combination of this city has been running matters with a high hand, conducting saloons without license and refusing to be regulated by law. The only influence they have been willing to recognize has been that of their own inclinations. No such condition can long exist in any respectable community. It involves questions of too much importance for that. A leading point in the legal fight is whether a business which is the direct and indirect means of creating a larger amount of public expense than any other shall be allowed to go comparatively scot free from contributing to the public revenue. Another very important consideration is whether an acknowledged baneful traffic shall be allowed to increase its hurtful influence by eluding the healthful restraints of wholesome law. We do not believe that the liquor dealers will be able to sustain their fight against the local laws; not even if Judges can be found so far lost to a sense of the public weal as to put strained constructions upon the laws with an evident object to sustain whisky sellers who conspire to override them. We are of opinion that judges of that stripe will not long retain their positions, as they are obnoxious not only here but everywhere. The saloon keepers, on the start of their present course, announced that they were in for a stout legal fight. They are now having it and ought to be satisfied. The ultimate ending is easy to predict. Right will triumph over whisky.

A NEW BUILDING FALLS.

OLSEN BROTHERS NARROWLY ESCAPED SERIOUS INJURY.

Two young men named Olsen, one of whom has had a photographic gallery on Main Street, have been erecting a two-story adobe building with a brick front, near the head of Commercial Street, on the west side. It was nearly completed this morning, and the proprietors, who had, to save outlay, done a good deal of the labor with their own hands, were at work in the rear portion of the building. At half past seven nearly the entire structure came down with a great crash, causing the whole thing to become a heap of ruins. The Olsen Brothers had a narrow escape, but were fortunate enough to get off with a few bruises. The accident, however, will be a considerable pecuniary loss to them. It was their intention to let the lower portion to a produce dealer and occupy the upper floor themselves as a photographic gallery. The cause of the fall of the building was apparently the lack of a sufficient foundation, which was undermined by damp. The running of water down the north partition wall from the melting of snow on an adjoining roof, probably had something to do with it.

Birthday.—Yesterday was the 60th anniversary of the birthday of Brother George Goddard. He is hale, hearty, and lively as if in the bloom of youth, and fills up his time in usefulness in several important spheres well known to the public, perhaps the principal of which is among the children of the Saints as a forwarder of the cause of Sabbath Schools. He has neither tea, coffee, tobacco nor spirits, and feels as if he was going to live a good while yet. Long may he live.

Second Consignment of Carp Fish.

Applications for Carp fish, by cans, by express, from Washington, D.C., by sending the money to pay the express charges and price of cans, will receive immediate attention by the undersigned. $10.25 includes the price of one can. No orders will be forwarded until the deposits are paid. JOSEPH L. BARBOUR, Fish Commissioner for Utah, P. O. Box 332, Salt Lake City.

A Burglar Boom.—As we have remarked before, Ogden and its suburbs are being afflicted with a burglar boom. The Herald of that town says that while Mr. Thomas Farr and wife were at his mother's on a visit, their residence on Main Street, north, was entered by an unknown party, who gained ingress by prying the lock of a rear window with a spade, breaking both lock and spade in the operation. The burglar went through the house, opening all the bureau drawers, searching every pocket, and prying into every receptacle, emptying all the contents on the floor. A little girl passing by frightened the thief before he got to a trunk which contained both money and valuables, so he scampered off, his booty only amounting to between one and two dollars, found in a pants pocket. When Mr. Farr returned with his wife, at 6.30 p.m., they found everything topsy-turvy, but not a vestige of the burglar. The same paper also says that while Mr. Benajah Campbell and family, of North Ogden, were away from home, a brace of burglars broke into their house, ransacked it, turned everything upside down, cut the bedtick open, and rummaged every place where they thought any money or valuables were secreted. All the cash they found was 65 cents. Mr. Campbell was so fortunate as to have his pocketbook with him, containing the bulk of his money. When the thieves emerged from the house they were seen, identified, followed, and arrested at the Hot Springs, by Constable E. W. Wade. The name of one is John Petersen, that of the other is Alma Evans. Yesterday they were taken to Ogden, arraigned before Justice C. F. Middleton, and then delivered to the custody of the Sheriff.

An English Novelty.—Mr. O. S. Walsh, Kimball Block, has introduced an English specialty that will be likely to take in this country. We refer to galvanized iron flour and wheat bins, for household use. Their points of superiority over wooden bins are imperviousness to mice, greater economy, and cleanliness. Their price will probably not be more than what is ordinarily charged on the wooden article.
