The seat left vacant by the passing of "Father" Triplit, has been empty ever since the late autumn, but every Sunday afternoon the eyes of the singers would turn to that chair to see if the venerable form was there, and as their gaze was turned away unrewarded they would wonder if those old familiar features would ever be seen there again, and the half sad mood awakened by such musings would sweep over the choir and find its way into the majestic music that fills the vast aisles of the Tab-

Elder Nephi L. Morris Preaches

Interesting Discourse.

APOSTASY FROM THE GOSPEL

Convincing Evidences Brought Forth To Establish the Falling Away-Gospel Acting as a Leaven.

The services in the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by President Angus M. Cannon and opened by the choir singing the hymn, "Come thou glorious day of promise.

The invocation was offered by Elder Richard R. Lyman, after which the choir rendered the anthem, "Hark hark, my soul.'

Elder Nephi L. Morris delivered the sermon of the afternoon and began his remarks by saying that it was always interesting to meet with the Saints of God and contemplate His dealings with the people of the world. It is a general idea among those who are regarded as masters in the field of thought, to believe that God is separated from His children by an impenetrable vell.

The speaker then quoted from the articles of faith, of the creed of a learned Boston clergyman, who declared that he believed in the motherhood of God; in the holy trinity of father, mother and child, and that God is as near the people of the world now as He ever has been; that He did not create the world and then retire to a remote corner and let it run itself. This idea of motherhood as well as fatherhood in Delty, the speaker said, was due to the Influence of the Gospel as it had been revealed to the Prophet Joseph Smith. He also affirmed that it was quite generally conceded in the Christian world that the faith intro-duced by Jesus Christ did not remain pure as He established it. Elder Morris then pointed out some of the innova tions that began to creep into the Church after it had been in existence of course, deny that there was an aposcan trace in an unbroken line the authority from Peter down to the present pope. The speaker said that the Catholic popes may claim to succeed Peter, but he was reminded that the Jews could trace their genealogy to Aaron and Moses, yet they committed grievous sins and lost their standing with the Lord. They must have lost all divine authority for when John the Baptist was called to preach repentance and prepare the way for the coming of Christ, he did not receive his authority from any priest of his day. Yet Christ said of him that no greater prophet had been born of wo-man. According to the Prophet Joseph Smith, John received his priesthood from an angel. If the Catholics were able to trace an unbroken line of popes from Peter down, that would be no

If there were no apostasy, said he, then the Protestant churches are without excuse for existence. Other strong and effective arguments were to establish that the apostasy from the Gospel was a fact, and it was again pointed out how many learned men, while denying the divinity of "Mormonism," have a cepted some of its truths. Some of th rational truths that are thus working their way in the world are the mother good of God, the eternity of the man riage covenant and the pre-existence
