Percy Naisbitt Awarded Damages for Injuries Suffered in Elevator Accident at Z. C. M. I.

By stipulation of the parties concerned judgment was entered in Judge Armstrong's court this morning in the case of Percy Naisbitt by Fred Tayor his guardian ad litem against Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution against the defendant for $3,800 and costs, $3,000 of which is to be held by the clerk of the court until the ap-pointment of a guardian for the plain-pointment of a guardian for the plaintiff and the remaining $800 to be paid to Balley & Vickehy, attorneys for plaintiff as attorneys' fees.

The action was originally brought to recover the sum of $19,710 for personal injuries sustained by Percy Naisbitt in all elevator accident at Z. C. M. I., on the 27th of July, 1907, in which the plaintiff, who was 15 years old and employed in the store as cash boy, was seriously injured. In the complaint it is alleged that by reason of the accident he was totally incapacitated from performing any labor, as his right leg was partially paralyzed, his back and spine injured, his sight impaired and internal injuries inflicted from which it is claimed he could never recover. An amended complaint was filed in which damages for $30,710 were asked for, but by agreement the matter was settled for the amount named above.

Woman Goes Out to Work While Children Revel in Filth-Juvenile Court to Take Action.

A case of real poverty and squallor was revealed to the officers of the juvenile court last evening on a visit to the abode of Mrs. Johnson, who resides at 18 Pltt street, between Seventh and Eighth West and Third and Fourth South streets. The family consists of the mother and seven children, the eldest, a daughter, being married but separated from her husband. The next oldest, a girl of 15 years, was taken from school to take charge of four of the smaller children who are too young to attend school. Two boys younger than the second daughter are in school, while the four little ones run about the house, yard and street with scarcely enough clothing to cover their backs and no shoes nor stockings whatever adorning their feet. Underwear is also conspicuous by its absence from their little bodies, and how the family have gotten through the winter is a puzzle to the neighbors. Some assistance has been given the family be the county commissioners, some be the bishop of the ward, and the neigh bors have helped, while the mothe and eldest daugter work out whe they can; but the rude hovel in which they live is most devoid of furniture only a broken chair or two serving for an old table, small stove, and two beds covered with dirty matresses and dirtier bedding, being the main pieces in the two rooms. Not wishing to engage in an encounter with the two men, Mr. Christensen says he came downtown and stated the case to Mr. Daly. He says the latter treated him in a most insulting manner and told him he would do nothing in the matter, and if he wanted to regain possession of the treattes he would have to employe counsel and sue the two men. Mr. Christensen also laid his case before Chief Pitt and the latter stated that the men should be arrested for their offense, and advised Mr. Christensen to swear to a complaint. This he was willing to do, but says that Daly refused to consider the matter at all.
