SIR GODFREY LAGDEN AND SCENES IN BASUTOLAND.

Colonel Lagden, the British commissioner in Basutoland, has about 200,000 warlike Basutos to look after. It is said that he has armed thousands of them and that they are stationed near the border of Basutoland, prepared to give the Boers a hot reception if they cross the border of the Orange Free State. Maseru, the capital of Basutoland, where the Basutos hold their parliament, is but a short distance from the Orange Free State border and is not far from Wepener and Ladybrand. Musupha, the king of the Basutos, whose picture is given above, wears a skullcap, a well worn cricket coat and an old pair of English infantry breeches. His royal secretary affects a silk hat and a pair of gigantic epaulets.

Rapid Communication Attending American Occupation of Philippines.

This 1,551 miles of wire was first laid in the wake of our advancing soldiers, in the wake of our advancing soldiers, thus keeping our firing line in communication with corps headquarters in Manila. Then, when time permitted, the light copper wire used for quick running during marches and fighting was replaced by an iron wire on temporary poles and eventually this second wire was replaced by heavy iron wire well strung on poles. Thus the 1551 miles of wire heapstrally been wire well strung on poles. Thus the 1,551 miles of wire has actually been laid three times. Our army on July 31, of last year had but 129 miles of wire in operation, and during the months of August, September, October and November, 329 more miles were added to this original 129. During December, this original 129, During December, 1899, the signal corps set up 415 miles of wire, during January, 1900, 402 miles and during February, 285 miles, these figures giving the total distance in operation today. The central office of this entire system is of cours in Manila. where eight trunk lines converge and

Our wires in these Visayan islands amount to 120 miles. From Hollo we have a line to Capiz through the interior and then to Hollo. On Negros we have lines north and south to Manalpa and Jamanilan respectively. On Cebu we have a line from Cebu, the capital, to the interior of the town of Karkat.

Not far from Cebu are the islands of Samar and Levic recently occupied by

Samar and Leyte, recently occupied by the Forty-third under Colonel Murray: the Forty-third under Colones address, these latter islands will be placed in communication with Manila by run-ning a cable from Cebu to the island of Bohul, then a land wire across Bohul, again a cable to Leyte and land wires again a caste to Leyte and land wires to the principal towns thereon. From Leyte the line will get o Samar by cable across the narrow straits of San Juanito, and in Samar it will run as far north as the town of Calbayog. This new branch will be about 250 miles with the idea of eventually placing the island of Mindanao in communication with the corps headquarters in Manila, a cable will be laid from the southern end of Cebu island to the northern shore of Mindanao. From the landing point on Mindanao wires will be run to Cottabatto, Ifligan, Misamio and Nakajalar bay. This projection will require about two hundred more miles of wire.

There are 1.431 miles of wire on Luzon and the island is theroughly well covered. From the twelve trunk lines there are many ramifications running into practically every town where we
