BOY DETECTIVES ENSNARE BURGLAR

Frank Mattis Thought by Ogden Police to be Professional Housebreaker.

LICENSE MAY BE REVOKED.

Saloons Sell Liquor to Minors—State School Improvements—New School for Taylor.

OGDEN, July 15.—Frank Mattis, believed to be a professional housebreaker, is being held at the police station pending an investigation of his case and record. Mattis was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Officer Crompton after he had been followed from a house in the city which he had entered to a saloon on Twenty-fifth street. The detectives who effected the capture of Mattis are David Firth and Willard Farley, two 12-year-old boys.

When the boys saw the man safely behind the bars they told the police that they could bring the man there whose house was entered. They were told to do so and so returned with John Wahl, residing at 758 Twenty-sixth street, who identified Mattis as the man he had seen leaving his house. Seeing such a strong case against him that had been prepared by the amateurs, Mattis broke down and confessed to the charge. It is thought he is connected with several other crimes in the city.

VIOLATED SALOON ORDINANCE.

OGDEN, July 15.—At the meeting of the city council next Monday night, Chief of Police T. E. Browning will submit a communication recommending the revoking of the license of the Emerald saloon, on Washington avenue between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, as the proprietor Hugh McMartin pleaded guilty in the police court yesterday to the charge of selling liquor to minors. This action is taken following the passage of a resolution by the city council some months ago providing for the revocation of the license of saloonkeepers found guilty of the violation of the liquor ordinance.

The police have been advised that there are several other saloonkeepers in the city who have sold liquor to boys and also to young women, and a careful watch is being made of their establishments. If arrests and convictions follow the investigation of the police there will probably be more revocations recommended.

Whittever was awarded the general contract. Halverson Brothers the heating and plumbing, and G. A. Muller the painting.

OGDEN, July 15.—The board of inquiry appointed by Sup't. Mason of the Southern Pacific for the investigation of the death of John Morley at Montello last Saturday, has made public its report. He was stunned by the fall and unable to regain the engine before it had moved slowly into the round house striking engine 250 and jamming it against the wall and killing boiler maker John Morley, who was working on the pilot.

Smith of Lehi, met with the Provo Commercial club for the purpose of asking its co-operation in the matter of providing entertainment for the G. A. R. visitors. Messrs. Armstrong, Caine and Smith addressed the club stating that something over $50,000 had been collected for purposes of entertainment, and the finance committee still needed about $7,000 to carry out the plans, which had been desired. They would like Utah county to contribute about a thousand dollars of this amount. Each of the speakers took the position that the G. A.
