THE EVENT AT LOGAN.

THE chief object of interest with the Latter-day Saints just now is the Logan Temple. It is the grandest completed structure in all this western region. Its site, in the northeast suburb of the city, is commanding, the position of the building being such as to cause it to attract the eye from every direction, being by far the most conspicuous object in the fertile valley of Cache, which is now clothed in richest verdure.

The impression made upon the beholder when he first sees the Temple is in reference to its majesty, next its beauty, then its purity. Seen by the eyes of a Latter-day Saint, it at once assumes a heavenly aspect, and he is apt to exclaim in his heart—"The towers of Zion soon shall rise, above the hills and reach the skies."

The impression created by the external appearance of this important structure is heightened to intensity when its interior is viewed. It simply surpasses description. The paintings by Brothers Weggeland, Armitage and Kirkham have been executed with artistic skill, as also the ceiling decorations by Brother Hurst. But the leading impression conveyed by the prevalence throughout of spotless white so far as it is attainable, is purity, and then beauty, while these two elements are interwoven with the all-prevailing sentiment from base to roof, of order.

The intensity of the desire of thousands of people to view the interior of the Temple, and to be present at sacred services within its walls is beyond description. Never had we beheld so keen an interest upon any other subject. All other sentiments in the hearts of the Saints seemed held in abeyance for the time being. The capacity of the Utah and Northern Railroad was tested to its utmost to accommodate the streams of people flowing into Logan from every part of this mountain region. Each of the three days—Saturday, Sunday and Monday—when services were held in the House of the Lord, for hours before the time of opening every road leading into the capital of Cache County was lined with teams and vehicles—formed in long processions—filled with people anxious to be numbered among the favored throng of worshippers in a veritable Temple of the Most High God.

The kindly interest taken by the venerated President of the Church and his Counselors, exhibited in their efforts to afford all who were deemed worthy an opportunity of viewing the interior and being present at the services, was a marked feature of the event. President Taylor repeatedly walked through the various rooms and halls at the head of large companies, and judging from his activity, overflowing kindness and affability and the satisfaction with which his countenance beamed we doubt not that the occasion as a whole was one of the happiest events of his life.

For the purpose of accommodating as many of the Saints as practicable three services were held, distinct tickets for each being issued, those composing the bulk of the general assembly at any one of the services being excluded from the other two. The Presiding Priesthood who occupied conspicuous positions in the grand hall were, however, in accordance with the priestly order, in their places at each of the gatherings. Each day when the proceedings proper were concluded, Presidents Taylor, Cannon, Smith and members of the Quorum of the Twelve headed a line of procession through the building to enable the public to view the entire interior.

The spirit that pervades the building can perhaps be most fittingly defined with one expressive word—peace. Those who are Saints indeed who enter its hallowed precincts can say in truth—"unspeakable peace is here."

Every soul who was present at the sacred feast had an individual experience of a nature in unison with the extent of his personal harmony with heavenly influences. The witness of the Spirit bearing testimony that God had accepted that Holy House was there, and the sentiments that filled the hearts of the bulk of the assembly were beyond expression. Many found an outlet for the flood of joy in silent weeping, which speaks volumes when the heart is full. The glorious privilege had been given them to behold another sacred structure completed and dedicated unto the God of Jacob. By the power of the spirit they were enabled to grasp the gigantic consequences resulting from so important an event, knowing that the joy which animated their hearts was responsively echoed by myriads of the spirits of the departed who were awaiting the vicarious administration of gospel ordinances for them, that they might be permitted to join the throng which will constitute the ransomed of the Lord.

But the occasion was not only a day of rejoicing with those who were present at the opening exercises in the building which is to be devoted to the service of God, by being sacredly used for the performance of saving ordinances for the redemption of the living and the dead, but it was a day of congratulation in all Israel inhabiting this region, where their feet have been made fast, and where the Lord has delivered them from every impending difficulty. This interesting event is another step in advance, and an additional link in the grand chain which, in consonance with one of the chief keys of the latter-day dispensation committed to Joseph Smith, binds the hearts of the fathers to the children and the children to the fathers. This welding process between the intelligences of time and eternity will continue, until they finally become one inseparable family, the one division being incomplete without the other. Thus the work goes on with majestic and progressive strides, which no power can hinder.

The spirit of peace and brotherly and sisterly kindness which marked the dedication of the Logan Temple radiated from the sacred edifice as from a grand centre, and permeated everywhere. The town was thronged with visitors to an extent never before witnessed. Everywhere was heard the voice of kindly greeting and friendship. During our stay, extending over several days, we never heard the slightest approach to a harsh remark or expression. The hospitality of the good people of Logan was taxed to its utmost capacity, and their response to the requirements of the occasion was more than noble. Every place where accommodations existed was crowded, and none of the citizens appeared to feel any hesitancy in suffering personal discomfort for the benefit of the sojourning strangers.

AN ERROR REFUTED.

THE New York World's issue of May 4th, contained the following paragraph:

"I was shown the other day a copy of the original Book of Mormon, for which, they say, the Latter-day concourse of Salt Lake Saints are paying great sums, whenever they can lay hands on it. Their purpose is to destroy the early edition of the book, which contains very distinctly an edict levelled at the practice which is of all others nearest and dearest to them. The Mormons are even more determined on the advantages of revised editions than are their more morally reared neighbors—the common, every-day Christians. They certainly have good reason to be if they purpose going on in the cause of polygamy. The Book of Mormon, which was shown me is an old, yellow-leaved, calf-bound affair, and it contains some inconveniently rigid laws of morality. In one instance it comes down flat-footed, and commands the followers of the faith to take unto themselves, under penalty of severe retribution, no more than one wife. This admonition is several times repeated in terms so unmistakable that nobody who reads it can very well wonder at the anxiety of the Mormons to get the book out of sight. It is rather odd that what has now become a main feature of their faith, and certainly the only feature that brings converts to their cause, should have been the point to which the original "boomer" of the faith was most persistently and emphatically opposed. It is quite likely that the Mormon religion dwindled until a feature was introduced into it which enabled believers to adopt at least one practice allowed by no other sect and forbidden by all civil laws.

The following response, which covers the ground of the World's error, appeared subsequently in the same journal:

To the Editor of the World:

In your issue of Sunday, May 4, under the caption "The Town Listener," the writer magnified the importance of "an old, yellow-leaved, calf-bound Book of Mormon," for which, he claims, to have heard, the Latter-day Saints are paying great sums in order to destroy the early edition of the book, because it comes down flat-footed and commands the followers of the faith to take unto themselves, under penalty of severe retribution, no more than one wife. Now, as a matter of fact, the first edition of said book and the last are precisely alike, word for word. And the Latter-day Saints have no more interest in destroying the first edition than they have in destroying the many subsequent editions. They all contain the same prohibition against plural marriage, but that prohibition was to a people who lived over 2,000 years ago, and consequently was not a prohibition in the following provisional clause, which is found in every edition of said book—page 133, last edition: "For, if I will, saith the Lord of Hosts, raise up seed unto me, I will command my people; otherwise, they shall hearken to these things." Yours very truly,

JAMES H. HART,
Grand Central Hotel.

A PREDICTION FULFILLED.

AMERICAN FORK, Utah,
May 19, 1884.

Editor Deseret News:

As the details of the earthquake at Colchester, England, come to hand, I am forcibly reminded of a prediction which was uttered in my hearing seventeen years ago.

I was residing at Colchester, Essex County, England, and was visited by two t avelling Elders, who spent the evening with me. One of them, as we were seated around the fire, suddenly broke in upon the conversation by saying, "there will be an earthquake in this place, which will shake it from centre to circumference." This was in the spring of 1867.

The seemingimprobability of such an occurrence caused me to pay a little more heed to it, and as I have seen so many prophecies fulfilled that were uttered by Elders of this Church I subsequently very naturally began to watch and look for its verification, which I felt sure would come in due time.

In these momentous times such events only engage serious attention by the amount of horror that may be connected with them. It is possible that the earthquake at Colchester may attract very little attention at this distance. But it shows plainly to me that foreknowledge of events is possessed by Elders of this Church and that other predictions will be as surely verified as this one has been, 17 years after utterance.

Respectfully,

HENRY CULLUM.

MISSIONARY EXPERIENCES.

A COOL RECEPTION.

ROCK HILL, York Co.,
South Carolina, May 10, 1884.

Editor Deseret News:

It was one year the 10th of April since I left my "Mountain Home," in Bountiful, Davis County, Utah. On arriving at Chattanooga, Tenn., Elder C. E. Robison, from Idaho, and I were assigned to South Carolina, where I labored with President J. M. Easton two months, in Spartenburg County, trying to effect a new opening, but with no success. I was then appointed to labor with Elder Angus McKay, to open a new field. We traveled through six counties in North Carolina, distributing many tracts, but in so doing the people generally preferred "The heels towards the door," unfolding out who we were. They would say they had heard enough about the Mormons through the press. On one occasion a gentleman in good standing in the Baptist Church, on enquiring who we were, asked if the people of Utah were all heathens, and said on the previous Sabbath they got up a collection to send a missionary to Utah to labor among the heathens.

AMONG THE CHEROKEES.

We arrived in Swain County, North Carolina, August the 13th, among the Cherokee Lamanites, who are situated on the Oconalufta River, where an Elder of the Church of Jesus Christ had never been. The Cherokees number about 2,000, own a large body of land and live as the whites. We appointed two meetings but they would not come out to them as the Baptists, Methodists and Quakers had made it their business to tell them we were bad men. We stayed in that vicinity about one month but as only a few of the Lamanites could talk the English language we could accomplish but little good. We had several interviews with the chief, who seemed to be much interested. He had a limited education. We left with him a Book of Mormon and Voice of Warning. He said he calculated to visit Salt Lake City.

During our stay we attended a protracted (distracted) meeting composed principally of Baptists. They took for a text "Beware of false prophets," and said, pointing to us, "They are among us now and will devour the very elect, for they have the Scriptures on the end of their tongues." We prayed in our hearts that they might be confounded. Suddenly two men in the congregation began fighting, and the meeting was broken up.

THE MEMORY OF ELDER ROBISON.

We returned to headquarters, where we learned that Elder C. E. Robison was very sick. Elder J. M. Easton, J. J. Humpherys and myself went and assisted his companion, Elder H. Miller, to bring him to headquarters as he had been laboring among the Catawba Indians. He was beloved by all that knew him and sowed seed in his last days that since his demise has taken root. He departed this life at 10 minutes to 2 p. m., Sept. 26th, 1883.

CATAWBA INDIANS AND WHITE PEOPLE BAPTIZED.

I was then appointed to labor with H. Miller. The Catawba Lamanites are situated on the Catawba River, York, Co., S. C., many have forgotten their mother tongue. They all talk the English language. Many of them have light eyes and hair. They married and intermarried with Whites, which accounts for the light eyes and hair. They number about ninety and are healthy, industrious and law-abiding citizens. They own 666 acres of land. We baptized, on the 11th of Nov., 1883, five of the Catawbas, these being the first to receive the Gospel.

Elder H. Miller was now released to return home on account of sickness. Then Elder J. J. Humpherys and I were appointed to labor together, and on one occasion we went to Fort Mills after our mail and were followed through the town by a crowd of men who were under the influence of bad whiskey. They made many threats, but kept their hands of us. Since then we have baptized 17 Lamanites and four whites, and organized a Sunday School which is in a prosperous condition. We have blessed eight children and think the good work will continue among the Catawba's until they are all "born again." Those who have been baptized are the leading men, and they have Spirit of Gathering. On the 17th of April, Elder R. M. Humphrey arrived and is now my companion. We are holding meetings every Sunday talking by the fireside every night, and have the promise of a coat of tar and feathers. But as corn-dodger and genuine buttermilk are plentiful, and have made our backs broad, we hope by the help of the Lord to endure if put to the test.

The Wool Growers.

CHICAGO, 20.—The national mass meeting of wool growers of the United States was resumed at 10 o'clock this morning. A committee was appointed to draw up an address to the wool growers of the country for the purpose of arousing them to a proper realization of the necessities that exists for if they would retrieve the great industry in which they are engaged from its present depressed condition, and from impending danger of a still more serious nature.

THE REPORT.

The undersigned members of the committee firmly believe that the existing sad condition of the interest you represent has been brought about largely, if not altogether, by adverse congressional legislation, and that it will not again be prosperous until Congress shall reverse its action at its last session, and restore the rates of duty to those which prevailed under the tariff of '67, by which, for the first time in the industrial history of the country, equitable relations were established between the duties on wool and those on woolen goods. It can be conclusively shown that the tariff act of that year gave to American producers of both wools and woolen goods steady markets, and secured an expansion of production, and at the same time gave consumers

CHEAPER WOOLS AND WOOLENS

than were ever before known in America and brought prices for all grades of ordinary wear, and of many kinds for fine and luxurious wear, lower, or as low as they are known in Europe or elsewhere. The repeal of the tariff of '67 on wool and woolens was not asked for, as has been alleged by the conservative business sentiment in the country, or by any considerable number of the American people. It was brought about wholly through the efforts of importers and others interested in securing in the United States, a market for foreign wools, aided by few parties who desired to make use of the foreign product with which to subdue the American markets and upon whom they were necessarily compelled to rely for nine-tenths of the wool required in this business. These combined influences, unpatriotic and un-American, led to the passage of the unwise, abortive and suicidal tariff act of 1882, to which we firmly believe may be attributed the present depression in the condition of the wool industry. You have doubtless, gentlemen, heard much of late touching the soundness of the policy of putting raw materials of manufacturers, including wool, on the free list. We trust you will

RESENT SUCH A PROPOSITION

Whenever, and wherever, with made the indignation which it justly merits. Wool is a finished product of the million flock owners, who have by years of intelligent and patient labor and the expenditure of large sums of money brought their product to its present high standard of excellence. To class it simply as raw material, something that has been produced almost without cost or expenditure of time and labor, is an injustice, and one against which we trust you will enter an effective protest in arguments used in defense of the principle of protection apply at least as forcibly to wool as to any article in the tariff schedule. Growing wool is equal with growing food and forests, and with the manufacture of iron and steel. The maintenance of a commercial marine and navy, of a national military, the primary element of national defense in war, and of financial security and independence in peace, the loss or neglect of which would derange our entire monetary system and, place the entire country to all intents and purposes in a condition of

to foreign producers, equally fatal to the happiness, and unbecoming to the dignity and honor of a nation whose annual increase in wealth is now three fold that of any other nation, and whose population now gives it the second rank among civilized empires, and first among free self-governing and enlightened people.

The appeal finally declares that the wool growers have a right to ask Congress for the restoration of the measure of protection and concludes in the following terms:

Finally, believing that desperate diseases require

we specially urge you to sustain at the polls for legislative offices, only such candidates as are in favor of adequately protecting and encouraging this great industry of sheep husbandry, by voting to restore the wool tariff of '70, or rates of duties at least as protective as those embodied in that act." The report was unanimously adopted. The remainder of the session was taken up by the discussion of methods for a united action in the pending national political canvass, in making the power of the wool growing industry felt. Adjourned.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "28 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 29, 1882.

"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the inclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the SARSAPARILLA in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882. Yours gratefully,

HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

Florist, Seedsman and Preserver of Fresh Flowers,

HAS REMOVED

To his new place of business, Third South St., No. 240 W., 2½ blocks west of Cliff House.

HIS BUSINESS PLACE OCCUPIES NOW 1¼ acres of ground. A very large, new greenhouse was built on the ground last Fall and is now in good working order, filled with plants of all kinds for spring sale, such as house, bedding and basket plants in great variety, and at moderate prices.

Garden seeds, pure and reliable, in bulk as well as in packets, in great variety and at moderate prices, also peas, beans, sweet corn and herb seed.

All floral decorations made to order of live flowers, for weddings, funerals, etc., such as wreaths, crosses, anchors, hearts, pillars, etc., also hand bouquets, table bouquets, etc. Fresh flowers preserved cheap and perfect by the embalming process, so they will keep for many years. The largest stock of fancy baskets, everlasting flowers and ornamental grass in the city.

Fruit trees, shade trees and shrubs, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, tomato and egg-plants by the hundred or thousand in season. Orders by mail or express promptly attended to. Catalogue free to all customers. Visitors are cordially invited to look at the greenhouse.

Residence in the two-story house on the ground. The Denver & Rio Grande street cars pass by my place every 15 minutes.

Flower Seeds Over 300 Kinds.
