

ing cases, I have felt like saying, Shut up the scene.

If the strike were to end even now it would take many of the poor families years to straighten up their financial affairs and make their homes as comfortable as they were before the long strike. Besides the 200,000 out on strike, there are also many thousands idle on account of the cessation of home industries.

Since my last letter to the NEWS quite a number of pits have been opened, and coal is somewhat cheaper, but it is still sold at a high figure for poor people. Many home industries have resumed.

As regards missionary labors, it is still uphill work, and will be until after the coal crisis is ended. During the last few months a few baptisms have taken place, and a few other candidates are waiting for that ordinance to be performed.

October 28, 1893.—I am pleased to state that at last there is a hopeful movement of the coal crisis, ere long, terminating. Representatives from each side are to meet on the 30th inst., at which it is thought probable that a conference of the officers of the coal-owners and miners' federation will be arranged to be held in London the early part of November, to discuss the whole question without prejudice to either side. With this understanding the general feeling prevails that the end of the strike is now approaching. Today commences the fourteenth week of the crisis. If all goes satisfactorily, it will perhaps take two more weeks before the pits are re-opened. The prayer of hundreds of thousands is that the end of the struggle is nigh at hand.

VISITING BEAR LAKE.

Governor McConnell, of Idaho, is to be in Bear Lake county today, having left Boise yesterday, Sunday, for Montpelier. Bear Lake county is settled chiefly by Mormons, and the governor expects to receive a hearty welcome on his official visit. He made a similar call on the people of Oneida county last month, and addressed the Latter-day Saints at a Stake conference, his topic being the necessities of the time in advancing the material welfare of that part of the state. Of the welcome to be given him in Bear Lake the Montpelier Post says:

"All arrangements have been perfected for the reception of Governor McConnell on Monday. The city council will meet him in a body at the train. The Montpelier military band will accompany the city fathers and furnish music. A heavy delegation will arrive from the west side of the valley, accompanied by the Paris brass band, and will join in giving the executive a cordial welcome. It is understood the school children will also participate, under the care of their respective teachers. In fact no pains will be spared to make the reception a grand success. Everybody is requested to be present at the depot and aid in making the occasion a gala time. The occasion demands every citizen of the county, irrespective of politics or creed, uniting in tendering the chief executive of the state a grand welcome. Several features are unique regarding the governor and his visit to this section. He will be the first chief executive of either the state or territory of Idaho to take the pains and time to visit us in our homes in the small towns and villages of southern Idaho. He is the man whose signature completed the law by which the people of this region are restored to their franchise. During his recent tour in Oneida and Bannock counties he never told his politics in public nor in private, and did not ask the politics of anybody else, and it is not reasonable to suppose that he will do different during his stay in Bear Lake. He shows by his conversation and public addresses that he cares for the people and desires to know their wants.

DEATH OF MRS. BUCKLE.

About four o'clock Nov. 7th, Mrs. Sarah J. Galsford Buckle, wife of John T. Buckle, of the firm of Buckle & Mon of this city, passed from mortality. The deceased was a most estimable lady, and her loss will be deeply felt by her relatives, who have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends. She leaves six children. She was a native of England, and was in the 39th year of her age.

DEATH OF DR. STANDART.

After an illness of many years standing, Dr. A. C. Standart of this city died at his residence in the Walker Terrace on West Temple street Sunday morning, November 12th, at 5 o'clock.

He was long recognized as an able physician and was employed in that capacity by the Rio Grande Western. He was also at one time president of the local medical society and at the time of his demise was a member of the St. Mark's hospital staff.

The deceased was forty-one years of age and a native of Auburn, New Jersey. He leaves a wife but no children to mourn his death. His remains will be forwarded to Detroit, Michiga, for burial.

DEATH OF JULIUS LANGSTON.

The death of Julius M. Langston, of the Sixth Ward, Wednesday, Nov. 8, was an event that was entirely unexpected even by the family and immediate friends of the young man. He had been ill a very short time, and his sudden taking off is a heavy blow to his parents and relatives, who have the sympathy of a host of friends. The deceased was highly respected. Another feature that adds to the sorrowful situation of Brother and Sister Langston in the loss of their eldest son is the fact that a younger boy, about ten years of age, is dangerously ill. He was hurt a couple of years ago by being thrown from a horse, and ever since has been a great sufferer from the injury, which thus far baffles medical skill to repair.

DEATH OF MRS. LACHMAN.

Mrs. Althea Lachman, wife of Louis J. Lachman, traveling salesman for B. K. Block & Company, of this city, died suddenly and unexpectedly at the St. James hotel. The immediate cause of her death was hystero-epilepsy, a severe attack of which she was seized with last night. Dr. T. B. Beatty, the family physician, was summoned and labored long and faithfully with his patient but all to no purpose. Dr. Beatty says the deceased was perfectly well yesterday and that there was not the slightest indication that her condition was serious, though she had been subject for some time past to just such attacks as the one which proved fatal.

Mr. Lachman is in Butte, Montana, on business and has been telegraphed to regarding the demise of his wife who is spoken of as a lady of exceptionally fine traits of character. She was 24 years of age and had a host of friends in this city who will sympathize with the bereaved husband in the loss he has sustained.

Millard county Blade: The citizens of Oasli, Hinckley and Deseret met in the school house on Monday evening and effected a permanent organization of the Deseret chamber of commerce, by adopting a constitution and by-laws, and electing officers to serve for one year.

BUCKLE.—At about 4 o'clock this morning, Tuesday, November 7, 1893, after a three weeks' attack of typhoid fever, Sarah J. Galsford Buckle, wife of John T. Buckle. She was born in England, January 24, 1854, thus making her 39 years, 9 months and 14 days old. She leaves a husband and six children to mourn her loss.

LARSON.—At Randolph, Utah, of typhoid fever, Phebe, beloved wife of Oluf Larson and daughter of George A. and Jane Peart; born in Randolph May 12th, 1872, died November 4th, 1893.

The funeral services were held in the Randolph meeting house, November 6th. The speakers were many; all spoke of her sterling worth. Sister Phebe was an earnest worker. At the time of her death she was second counselor to the president of the Primary Association, secretary to the Relief and Y. L. M. I. Associations, a teacher in our Sunday school and a member of the choir. Her remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of our people in vehicles and on foot. She leaves a babe three months old, and a husband, father, mother, brothers, sisters, and a host of relatives to mourn her loss. Her reward is sure.—[Com.]
