chicago, 4.—Gov.Schuyler Crosby, of Mentana, formerly U. S. Consul to Florence, Italy, who has been spending a week or two in this city,

The House decided not to take up the special order.

Cox of New York said the shipping bill was also a special order, but he proposed in good faith that the Pendleton bill be put upon its passage without debate. [Loud applause and cries of "Yote! vote!"]

Kasson—Is the gentleman authorized to speak for that side? [Ories of "Yee! yee!" from the democratic gained as compared with December, of "Yeef yee!" from the democratic side.]

Bland of Missouri rose to a point of order. The bill must be considered in committee of the whole. The Speaker overruled the point.

The Pendleton bill was then read at length. At the conclusion of the residing there were lend cries of "Vote!" Kasson moved the previous question. Carried by a storm of "ayes," amid applause.

Kasson, Townshend, Bucker and Calkins, spoke in favor of the bill.

Willia of Kentucky said the democratic party had demonstrated to the country that it is in favor of the bill. Kasson, Townshend, Bucker and Calkins, spoke in favor of the bill.

Willis of Kentucky said the demonstrated to the country that it is in favor of the bill and sneers in its support.

Kasson closed the debate with a short speech in favor of the bill, which, however, he did not consider so efficient as the bill previously is ported by the House committee. The people revoluted against the translation in the bill to put a stop to it. He did not favor prohibiting private parties from ask ing for money for legitimate election purposes for to de that would be degrading the manhood of every government and increase and there was a provision in the bill to put a stop to it.
