

GRIEVANCES OF VENEZUELA

Foreign Minister J. Jo. D Paul
Sets Them Forth in Letter to The Netherlands Gov't.

PERSONAL AGANIST DE REUS

Did Not Contemplate Sundering of Ties of Friendship Between The Two Countries.

The Hague, Aug. 25.—M. De Reus, the former minister of The Netherlands to Venezuela, arrived here this afternoon from the West Indies, and went at once to the foreign office to report concerning the difficulty between his government and President Castro.

The Netherlands government today received an unofficial copy of the second note sent to it by Foreign Minister Paul of Venezuela in connection with the difficulty. Its general tenor does not give the Netherlands government much encouragement to persevere in its attempts to reach a peaceful settlement with Venezuela.

The Venezuelan note, after making reference to the communication of July 1 relative to the handing of his passport to Minister de Reus, because he was considered incompetent to serve as medium for maintaining friendly relations between the two countries, says that the action of Venezuela, which is entirely personal against M. De Reus, did not contemplate a loosening of the ties of friendship between The Netherlands and Venezuela, a friendship which Venezuela desired cordially to maintain.

The government of Venezuela was convinced that when The Netherlands learned of the proceedings of M. De Reus it would give voluntary satisfaction to Venezuela; Venezuela did not believe that the offenses of the minister would be approved by The Netherlands. Continuing, Senor Paul says that since this time, however, other incidents have occurred which impart a grave significance to the actions of M. De Reus.

These incidents, the Venezuela foreign minister says, he considers it necessary to bring to the cognizance of The Netherlands foreign office in order that the good relations between the two countries, based upon mutual good will and esteem, may continue.

WHAT NOTE RECITES.

The note recites the arrival of The Netherlands cruiser Gelderland at Port Cabello and La Guaira without firing the usual salute either upon arrival or when she sailed with M. De Reus, and the refusal of the Netherlands commander to allow the port commandant to come on board. Nevertheless, the government did not hinder the embarkation of M. De Reus on July 23. The arrival of the Netherlands ship on the object of her coming was announced to the Venezuelan authorities as it should have been, and the port commandant would have been justified in forbidding all communication with the shore and the embarkation of M. De Reus. Desirous, however, of showing their good will, the authorities allowed the communication and even facilitated M. De Reus in getting on board the cruiser, thus recognizing up to the last moment the diplomatic rights of M. De Reus.

The note complains that even the Dutch consuls at Port Cabello and La Guaira, who went alongside the Gelderland, were greeted each by a salute of guns. This emphasized the omission to salute Venezuelan ports duly and properly fortified.

Senor Paul refers at length to the "shameful attack" upon the residence of Senor Lopez, the Venezuelan consul at Curacao, by the populace, who were urged on by a faction "that for some time past has been permitted by the Curacao authorities to wage a hostile propaganda against Venezuelans and against their government."

The minister recalled how the lives of the consul and the members of his family were endangered. The local authorities were powerless to protect the representative of a friendly nation, and after being stoned in the streets of Willemstad, Senor Lopez finally was saved by men from an American vessel in the harbor.

The note complains that although the Willemstad police and troops prevented the murder of the consul, no energetic steps were taken to assure the future security of the official, who consequently decided to place the consulate in charge of his German colleague and embark for Venezuela on an American vessel. Even after this the hostile demonstrations continued.

The foreign minister brings his letter to a conclusion by declaring that the gravity of the incidents cited will show the government of The Netherlands the attitude of the colony of Curacao toward the government of Venezuela, and explain how the hitherto friendly relations between the two countries have been affected thereby. In consequence of M. De Reus' offense against the government of this republic, the neglect of the cruiser Gelderland to salute the Venezuelan flag and the attack upon the Venezuelan consul at Curacao and the members of his family and the desecration of the residence of the consul at Curacao, Senor Paul declares, "the Venezuelan government finds itself obliged to declare to the government of your excellency that so long as the satisfaction and grievance referred to in this note have not been given, it cannot maintain friendly relations between the two countries."

"I take advantage of this occasion to convey to your excellency new assurances of my highest and most particular consideration."

QUEEN OF PICKPOCKETS.

Irene Hawley Gives Nevada Officers
A Merry Run Before Capture.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 25.—After cleverly robbing a Sparks bartender of $30, and two officers, who assisted in arresting her, of a valuable pin and a gold ring, Irene Hawley, alias Irene Duff, known through the United States as "Queen of pickpockets," was arrested last night after an exciting chase in which eight policemen engaged.

The theft was reported to Constable Maloy of Sparks and he came to Reno and arrested the woman. While taking her back to Sparks on a street car, he missed his money and a stickpin. He stopped the car and while he was searching for his valuables, the woman slipped off and jumped into an automobile standing close by and started for Sparks at full speed. Deputy Sheriff Maxwell with Sparks and a number of the runaway, procured an automobile and started in pursuit, accompanied by Capt. Cadle and Officer Berry. The officers met the speeding woman, whereupon she had the chauffeur turn for Sparks again. While going at full speed she jumped into a pond, thoroughly soaking herself and bruising her face. She escaped the officers and went to a roadhouse. The officers followed, their number added to by five other policemen, surrounded the place, where she was quickly captured and turned over to Maxwell.

While in the police station undergoing a search she slipped a diamond ring from the finger of an officer, but it fell from her hand to the floor.

She is being held in a criminal charge. She has procured counsel.

CAPT. P. C. HAINS.

Even in Jail He Changes His Clothes
Three Times a Day.

New York, Aug. 25.—Capt. P. C. Hains, Jr., who shot and killed William E. Annis, is keeping up the order of his life in the county jail, according to a statement made today by one of his counsel. The attorney said that the captain had three of his uniforms in his cell and makes his changes of uniform daily, as he would at Fort Hancock. He dons his service uniform in the morning; the fatigue after lunch and about dress parade time changes to his dress uniform and walks up and down the corridors in front of his cell. He retires at "tap."

The testimony of only two witnesses will be offered at the prosecution when the Hains brothers are arraigned for a preliminary hearing on Friday at Dist. Atty. Darrin carries out his present plan. They will be Dr. Walter G. Frey, the coroner's physician who performed the autopsy on Annis' body, and Charles Roberts, a close friend of Annis, who declares that it was T. J. Jenkins Hains that prevented him from going to Annis' aid when Annis shot Annis.

Mr. Darrin said he would oppose acceptance of bail for the prisoner.

WAS MURDER CALMY PLANNED?

Baltimore Police Believe Rosenbloom Was Killed for His Insurance Money.

WIFE STRONGLY SUSPECTED

Under Searching Examination She and Daughter Make a More Detailed Confession.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25.—In the light of developments today, the police this afternoon expressed the belief that the murder of Samuel J. Rosenbloom, the victim of the Camden trunk mystery, was planned deliberately to secure the man's life insurance and to get possession of his store. Today, under searching questioning, Mrs. Rosenbloom, wife of the dead man, and the daughter, Eva, aged 16, made a still more detailed confession, while they strenuously denied that they had anything to do with the actual killing. The police later said they did not believe these denials.

In the course of her examination Mrs. Rosenbloom said that she and Eva and Alexander had tried to induce Rosenbloom to leave them and settle $2,500 upon them; that he refused; that they quarreled; that during a quarrel shortly before the murder Eva struck her father in the face. "I did strike him," said the girl today. "He beat me and I struck him; that's all."

Mrs. Rosenbloom admitted today that she and her husband had been murdered by her son Alexander, but that she knew the body had been placed in a trunk and concealed in the cellar of their home for several hours.

Mrs. Rosenbloom said that after Alexander told her that he had murdered his father and had put the body in a trunk he went out and got Joseph and Louis Egler. Whether he told them all about the murder is not yet known, but at any rate, the Eglers arrived at the house the next night in a covered wagon.

The trunk was taken to Johnstown, Pa., and shipped to Camden, at which place they again met the trunk, secured a wagon and took it to the woods near Belle Mawr. Then they returned to Camden.

Eva Rosenbloom, in her statement to the police today, also admitted that she knew of her father's murder and that the body had been concealed in the cellar until her brother Alexander and the Eglers had taken the trunk away in a wagon.

The Eglers are now in custody in New York. The two women were taken to Windber, Pa., this afternoon and will be given an immediate hearing.

Before leaving here with Chief of Police McGuen of Windber, Pa., Mrs. Rosenbloom acknowledged that she herself wrote the letter purporting to have been written to her by her husband and subsequently to the time he was murdered, which directed her to discharge the clerk, Harry Friedman, on the plea that Rosenbloom could no longer afford to employ him.

We Invite the Children to a Maple Feast

If you have a child who doesn't know Mapl-Flake, let us buy you a package for it. Then the child, when it tastes the maple flavor, will ask you to buy it next.

The ideal food for hot weather.

Whole wheat, made wholly digestible. Flaked and toasted, and flavored with maple syrup. It gives one the maximum nourishment and produces the minimum heat. Meat acts the other way.

At least one meal a day, in summer, should consist of Mapl-Flake and fruit.

Comfort and good health demand it. None of the fad foods can possibly take its place.

Mapl-Flake is whole wheat, prepared by a process requiring 96 hours.

The wheat is steam-cooked for six hours. Then it is cured for days—a partial digestive process.

Then each separate berry is flaked so thin that the full heat of our ovens can attack every atom. Then those thin flakes are toasted 30 minutes in a heat of 400 degrees.

Flaked foods can be prepared without all this expense—prepared in one-fourth of the time.

But that long process, and that fierce heat, are essential to perfect digestion. In no other way can the particles be separated so the digestive juices can get to them.

The result is a food that's all food, because it all digests. The shorter process makes a half food—a food that but half digests.

Then we cook our wheat in pure maple syrup, mainly for the children's sake.

There is little use in making the best food if children don't like it best.

So we give it this enticing flavor—the most delicious flavor that a cereal ever had.

The result is, children want it as much as you want them to have it. You can't serve it too often; they never get too much.

One Package Free

One package of Mapl-Flake will make you a convert forever. You will never go back to inferior foods after you once try this.

So we offer to buy the first package ourselves, rather than have you delay.

Please send us this coupon—now before you forget it. We will then send you an order, good at your grocer's for a full-size package free.

Then you'll know. You will need no persuading to get it again.

department today presented to Senator Burrows as the representative of the senate committee on finance, the views of the department as to the changes made in favor of American revenue for the most part the statement follows the course of the recommendations made by Secy. Contelony in his recent report and many of the suggestions were of a highly technical nature.

Among the recommendations made was one for an increase of the exemption made in favor of American revenue turning from abroad. The present exemption, on account of personal effects, is $100, and the recommendation is that it should be increased to $200, which sum, it is believed, would provide for the purchases abroad of the average traveler and at the same time not be large enough to work injustice.

Another recommendation looked to putting of merchandise sent through the mails on the same footing as sent through regular customs channels. There is now no penalty for under-valuation of mail importation, and it is possible that much of the fraud may thus be perpetrated.

IOWA LEGISLATURE.

To Convene in Special Session to Deal
With Senatorial Question.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 25.—Late this evening Gov. Cummins issued his proclamation for the special session of the legislature to amend the state primary law, fixing Monday, Aug. 31, as the day for convening. The proclamation sets forth the governor's reason for convening the legislature—his belief that an overwhelming majority of the people of the state are in favor of expressing their choice for United States senator in the primary election. Nearly 1,000 Republicans were in conference here today in an effort to allay the factional strife that has torn the party during the last few years, and which is believed to menace the success of the Republican ticket in this state.

The feature of the occasion was Gov. Cummins' announcement that he had decided to call a special session of the legislature to dispose of senatorial matters, which since the death of Senator Allison have threatened to renew the old fight. This special session will be asked to amend the state primary law to permit the Republican voters to select the senatorial candidate at the regular election in November, instead of leaving it to a legislative caucus.

Many leaders of the party were present today and most of the members of the Iowa delegation in Congress.

Senator Dolliver was one of the speakers. He accepted the decision of the governor in good part, and declared himself unequivocally for a harmonious program. George D. Perkins, editor of the Sioux City Journal, and an opponent of Gov. Cummins for the gubernatorial nomination two years ago, announced that his reasons for asking that the senatorial question be submitted to a primary election was that it would make possible the election of all Republican legislative candidates and provide for an unbiased expression of the voters on the matter.

MINISTER ARRAIGNS CHURCH AND COMMITS SUICIDE

New York, Aug. 25.—Ill, half blind, criticizing the church on the score of untruthfulness and dishonesty and declaring that he could not worship "America's Trinity—success, pleasure and gold," Rev. Albert H. Trick killed himself in a room in Mills hotel today. He was once pastor of a Presbyterian church in Chicago, and later had a charge at Saratoga, N. Y. The former pastor left a letter to Charles N. Dowd, of this city which in part follows:

"I have never been able to conquer an inborn contempt for the place money has in this world, though knowing too well how absolutely a fair amount of it at least is necessary to all of us. I could never adapt myself in favor of my early ideas to the methods by which money is made. They are so transparently selfish and more or less unscrupulous, whether used by the church or the so-called 'world.' I could never worship America's trinity—success, pleasure and gold."

"I rejoice in the better day dawning when society with its superstitions and errors, like all the other religions of men, shall have passed away and religion itself, free and simple, religion that has passion for truth, justice, love and liberty, purity and humanity shall prevail. Ye Gods! what does the church care for these things—for truth, etc. It twists all the facts and expressions of liberty to make them square with their petty traditions and systems."

of a day. The day will soon come when the world will prove that sacred as the place that Jesus holds in the world's esteem, they are no more bound by what he taught, did and thought than they are by the precepts of Robert Ingersoll, and the modern church more nearly follows this exemplary and kindly and honest American than they do the originals."

"NEWEST THEATER."

Managers and Critics Will Compare
Audience, Public Being Excluded.

New York, Aug. 25.—If the plans of North Beck, the vaudeville manager, materialize, this city of many theaters, will have added to its list one of the most unique play houses in existence. Mr. Beck announced today that the construction of a new theater, which will be known as the "newest theater," will begin soon.

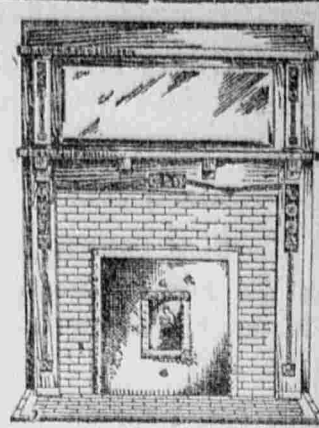

The theater is designed primarily as a place for the development of new material, for the vaudeville stage. The public will be barred from the new theater, managers and critics will compose the audience, and the productions will be largely those of unknown authors. Plays, sketches and ideas submitted and deemed meritorious will be given a private presentation with adequate mounting. The plans include presentation of entire acts as well as vaudeville acts and sketches.

NATIONAL RESOURCES.

Cincinnati, Aug. 25.—Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, president of the national rivers and harbors congress, was in this city today to confer with Capt. J. F. Ellison, secretary to the congress, regarding the Conservation League of America, a new organization which was recently formed through the initiative of the rivers and harbors congress.

The purpose of the league is to develop and preserve the natural resources of the nation, and has not only the hearty approval of President Roosevelt, but Mr. Roosevelt is honorary president, and Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft are honorary vice presidents. The active president is Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, and its members will be the great organizations that are especially interested in the conservation of natural resources.

The league is national in scope and non-political in character, its sole object being to secure proper legislation, both state and federal, for the conservation, use and improvement of our vast resources of earth, water, forests and minerals.
