Washington, May 21,-Secy. Taft entinues to come to the Capitol a the interest of the Philippines. He wants to get the Philippine tariff bill through, and so earnest is he in his effort to do something for the people of the islands that he will accept onehalf of what he first proposed and will ut out the provision that there shall be free trade between the islands and the United States in three years. Another scheme, by which it is hoped to abtain all the Democratic votes for the bill, is to have an absolute free trade-bill passed. This would meet with much opposition in the senate. In fact, it is doubtful if it could be passed. But through all the discouragement seey Taff is persistent and is working for the Fillpinos as if they were his

THE OREGON ELECTION.

About this time every two years there is generally a great deal of in-terest manifested in the Oregon elecwhich takes place early in June tion, which takes place early in June, but so far very little attention has been given the matter. Probably this can be accounted for by the fact that neither of the present representatives are interested in the result. They were not renominated, consequently they do not care much about the outgers. There is a senstrating deposit. they do not care into about the outcome. There is a senatorship depending upon the result, but even that has not attracted so very much interest, possibly because there is a general impression that a Republican will be elected to succeed Senator Gearin, who is serving under an appointment. Gearin is not overexpectant and does not show the keen interest that other men place felt when a legislature is to be elected which will choose their suc-cessors. Another feature about Ore-gon elections which is missed this year is the effort to make political capital at of it for the effect on the fall elec-

CALLED A BLUFF.

During the closing days of the rate bill in the senate Senator Tillman be-came impatient and one night moved an adjournment until 19 o'clock the next morning.

The Disease Yielded Readily to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills After Other Treatment Failed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism because they supply the necessary elements to the vitiated blood and en-able nature to east out the impurities able nature to cast out the impurities and effect a cure. Mrs. A. Baker, of No. 119 Fitch street, Syracuse, N. Y., will furnish living evidence of the truth of this statement. "There has been rheumatism in my family ever since I can remember," she says. "My grandmother was a great sufferer from muscular rheumatism and my mother also had the disease in a mild form. About a year ago I had a hard cold and rheumatism caught me in my left knee. There were sharp pains, confined to the neighborhood of the knee and they seemed to go right into the bone. The pain I suffered was intense and at times I had dizzy spells. I consulted physicians in whom my family had every confidence and took their medicine faithfully but it did me no good at all that I could see.

"The doctors called my trouble

"The doctors called my trouble urlatic and sciatic rheumatism. When I didn't get better under their trestment my brother-in-law suggested that ment my brother-in-law suggested that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought three boxes, and, by the time I had taken them, the pain and dizziness had entirely left me. I wanted to make sure of a cure so I bought three more boxes, but I didn't take quite all of them as I found that I was entirely cured before I had taken all of the sixth box. sixth box.

"Before I took the pills the pain was so severe that I had to cry at times and when I was cured I was so thankful and grateful that I have advised many people to try the pills and I am glad to recommend them to every one who suffers with rheumatism."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured severe cases of rheumatism, sclatica, nervousness, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia and St. Vitus dance that have not responded to other modes of treatment. They are also a specific for anaemia, chlorosis, or green sickness, and the special troubles of women and house of representatives, and naturally he might be supposed to be a man for peace. On the contrary, he is a member of the naval committee, and in a speech bristling with historical interest from the time of the man in the cave to the present he paid this tribute to the American soldier:

"Store Mitigales overcame the Asi-

to the American soldier:

"Since Militades overcame the Asians at Marathon and the Germans threw their legions against the hosts of Caesar, no nation has presented the fighting man equal in valor and intelligence to that of the North American soldier. His record shows that he has overcome his adversary in $2 per cent of the battles in which he drew the trigger or crossed the sword. The glory of his own country is the consideration that leads him to arms, while the milk of the American mother has furnished him all the stimulation required. His own performance is his just biographer. The American people have pronounced their benedictions. His fame is fixed."

of fun."

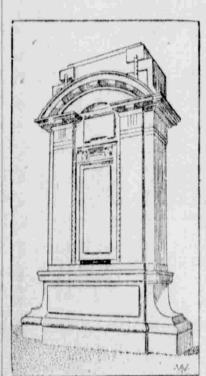

It was on the day that La Follette had offered a number of amendments which had been defeated by his own party friends and where he had cast his vote constantly with the majority of the Democratic senators when their amendments were defeated.

THE VOLUNTEER RETIRED LIST The effort to secure favorable action n a bill making a retired list for the clunteer officers of the Civil war who held the rank of or were brevetted brigadier generals has not met with any great success. In fact, the proposi-tion has been advanced at a bad time, coming just when there has been so much criticism of the present top heavy retired list of the army. Promptly the house rejected the amendment which would have created a half dozen more major-generals of the men who are now at the head of the staff bureaus of the army, and the senate quickly receded when the temper of the house was shown. Of course it is known that the Civil war volunteer did good service, but there is decided op-position to increasing the retired list.

Democrats and a faction of his own party. As to whether this statement is warranted by the conditions which ex-isted at the time of the break from the Hepburn bill and the introduction of the Allison amendments is something that never will be known, because the test never came, but if the president found that such was the fact and then made another alliance he would be carrying out a well known axiom with him, which is, "I work with such tools as I find at hand;" also, "if I cannot get all I want in the way of good legislation I get all I can."

embination such as was attempted between the factions of the two parties could have been successful, and that could have been successful, and that was in a hard and fast agreement that no amendment should be made to the house rate bill. To amend it in any particular meant chaos and a complete revision of the measure. Dolliver, Clapp and Cullom of the committee did not want the bill amended. Five other Republicans stood for important amendments. All the Democrats wanted changes, but no changes could be made in committee. It was in amending the measure in the senate that the first alliance went to pieces. Between those who thought the house bill was too radical and those who thought it was not radical enough, came the spirit of compromise and the Allison amendments. There was not much left of the Hepburn bill after that save the frame work. As to what tence uttered by Senator Aldrich: it will accomplish the future alone can

They are Indian affairs, post-offices, public buildings and grounds and claims. The aim is to have an odd number on every committee so that the votes will not occur, but the exigencies of placing senators some-times makes it necessary to increase the membership of some committee to give a senator a place.

"I am in favor of leaving the selec-tion of the members of the interstate commerce commission to the presi-dent," suld Senator Foraker. "That would be all right if you were president," observed Senator Lodge. "I am not president," responded For-aker. "I ought to be, but I am not."

are separated by all the other states, and between them are all the other senators. But this difference is only a question of alphabetical arrangement, the difference that separates "A" from "W." When the roll is called, Aldrich is the first man to answer, and Wetmore is the last. But when it is all over it is found, almost without exception, that these senators are on the same side. They may be far awart alsame side. They may be far apart al-phabetically, but that is as far as the eparation goes.
