Judge Wylie's Charge Continued.

WASHINGTON, 8.—The date of the contract was March 15, 1878 to run four years, John W. Dorsey, the contractor; the trips were once a week; the distance 50 miles, to which two miles had been added; the time was 14 hours. There were nine postoffices, but no towns on the route. Soon after the service was put on it was discovered that the actual distance was about 70 miles, and information had been distinctly and repeatedly furnished to the second assistant postmaster general. On December 30, 1878, the number of trips was doubled; on May 28, 1879, the route was practically assigned to the sub-contractor; July 15, 1879, the number of trips was increased to six, and the time reduced to ten hours, and increased compensation to $6,133; deducting an hour for delay at post-offices, the contractor was required to travel the 70 miles in nine hours, petitions and letters had been sent to, and it did not absolutely follow that this expedition was fraudulent. The jury then recessed to consider with any theory of innocence, then it must do it. A congressman of influence, Mr. Bennett, had asked for it, and the contractor considered. Soon after every postmaster on the route united in a protest to the department, saying the time was impracticable, and asked to have the 14 hours reduced to ten. Bennett endorsed this protest, and it was sent here. Just at this point this member of Congress, it seems, lost his interest for the time being. It was informed that it could not be done. After referring to the law relative to productiveness Judge Wylie inquired with indignation, manifestly had been in this instance. Reading from the records, he said that for one year it had been $251. He had called attention to this route because it had been ascertained that a member of Congress was responsible for the expedition. Yet in this case it had been expedited at the request of a member of Congress, and his resolution had been referred to the same member.

General Henkle interrupted at this point to remind the court that French had made the order in question, and that Judge Wylie had said that French had made the order by Brady's direction. Here, he continued, was an increase made, when it was actually decreasing. If the jury could reconcile that with the proper exercise of discretion, let them do it. It could not have been done through ignorance, manifestly it was purposely done. The thing to be decided was whether it had been done through a mistaken exercise of discretion, or purposely, and through wrong motives. The history of other routes was considered. Concerning false papers, said he, it had been urged that if they resulted in good to the public, no criminal law was to be made in making orders upon them. This was no correct view of the law. He had before referred to the case of Lord Bacon, and now wished to read to the jury his letter to the lords while he was in prison. Judge Wylie then read the letter and commented upon its fallacies. The proof of the conspiracy might be made out from proof of the consequences following the conspiracy, and Judge Wylie, taking up another branch of the subject, read from an English authority in support of this proposition. Reciting the circumstances of the operations of what are known as the three-card monte men in this city, he said that the only way in which the conspiracy could be made out was by circumstances following actual swindling operations. There was one further topic he wished to refer to, and that was the effect of the fact that if genuine papers appeared among the fraudulent papers filed in connection with the order for the order of expedition or increase must be attributed to the influence of the genuine papers. Such a doctrine could not be tolerated. The bad could not be saved by the good, and vice versa. Parties committing such frauds could not, after they found it to their advantage, use some truth in their operations. Fraud was not a crime, but the law was to be followed with a line of truth marshalled at their front. The more truth that could be worked in the better the chance of success. If you had a man employing both truth and falsehood in the commission of fraud, his offense is even more heinous. This was about all that he should say at this time. He wished finally to remind the jury of the difference between their position and his own. If they believed the charges against the defendants was not made out without reasonable doubt, then they should acquit them, without regard to any clamor or opinion of the world. He would refuse to believe that any juror was so base a coward as to refuse to follow his conscience. On the other hand, their duty to their country required them to bring in a verdict if guilty if they so believed. Yesterday's occurrence was a passing remark. If his information was true, then there were men engaged in "fixing the jury." It was natural that the jurors so approached should feel indignant, but they must not let that interfere with their calm, dispassionate judgment. Let them be so true to themselves as to follow the course of duty, and be influenced by these considerations.

Col. Ingersoll rose and asked the Court if it was his duty to direct jurors to fully and freely consider the case to one another all of the information they possessed touching these attempts at bribery. It was natural that the jurors so approached should feel indignant, but they must not let that interfere with their calm, dispassionate judgment. Let them be so true to themselves as to follow the course of duty, and be influenced by these considerations.

THE CASE OF AGITATOR

Ahead of all Other Competitors!

SALT LAKE CITY, August 12th, 1882.

J. W. LOWELL, Esq.

Dear Sir—The J. I. Case Agitator we bought of you last season is the best machine we ever saw or used; it will thresh more grain and thresh it better and cleaner than any other machine we have ever seen, and we can confidently recommend it to any persons wishing to purchase a good Thresher.

Yours, etc., G. W. LUFKIN, W. A. BARRON.

ASHLEY'S FORK, UTAH CO., Feb. 20th, 1882. John W. Lowell.

Dear Sir—The Agitator Separator and Woodbury Power that we bought of you, we can truly say give entire satisfaction. It beats anything that we ever saw to thresh and clean. We have run seven different kinds of machines, but this is the champion. The cleaning and the separating are perfect. We have not had a man find fault with it, and we believe that the people here will testify to our statement as being the truth. It comes as near being perfect as it is possible for a machine to be. We cannot tell you upon paper all its superior qualities or how much we think of it, but can say this, that could we get another like it, no money would buy it.

Yours truly, GEORGE BROWN, S. J. CAMPBELL, WM. P. REYNOLDS, ROBERT BODILY.

CEGAR CITY, Sep. 23rd, 1881. John W. Lowell.

Dear Sir—Our machine, Agitator, is doing excellent work. Cleans the best and threshes faster than any Thresher we ever saw.

We remain, VERY TRULY, YOURS, COREY & HUNTER.

LEHI, Utah County, February 7th, 1882. To John W. Lowell, Esq.

Dear Sir—As our opinions have often been asked about the merits of the Agitator Threshing Machine we purchased from you last fall, we take pleasure in sending you the following as our experience with it. To answer the numerous inquiries, and perhaps others who would like to know, we recommend the following points of superiority over all other machines we are acquainted with—

1st.—Lightness of draft. Our team of five span of average native horses and mules, being fully equal to the work, and without crowding or hurrying them, they gave us all the speed and power we needed.

2nd.—Thorough threshing and cleaning. And that without extra effort on our part; such a thing as the sieves being crowded or clogged, or requiring the attendance of one person at the tail end of machine having never occurred or been needed.

3rd.—Lightness of wear. After having threshed 18000 bushels of grain, lucern seed, etc., the general wear on the machine being scarcely perceptible.

4th.—Lightness of running expenses. By comparing notes with our friends of other machines, we find ours have not exceeded half of theirs.

We also consider the capacity for threshing in quantity, superior to other makes of machines. Although the farms here are small, necessitating a great deal of moving, and often to distant points, yet we threshed as high as 800 bushels per day.

We also consider the Straw Stack, End Shake, Elevator principle and many other points are all worthy of notice and examination of all persons who may contemplate purchasing a machine.

M. T. EVANS, M. T. WOODHOUSE, H. M. ROYAL, M. B. BUSHMAN.

I have helped wear out four machines of other kinds, and I heartily endorse all of the foregoing points.

A. D. RHODES, JR.

CEGAR CITY, March 18th, 1882. Mr. J. W. Lowell.

We bought one of the J. I. Case 22 inch Agitator Threshers last year and consider it by far the best Thresher ever brought to this country. It runs very light, saves all the grain and is a very durable machine. We threshed grain at the rate of 24 bushels per minute.

Yours, etc., COREY & HUNTER.

I also take the liberty to refer Thresher men to the following reliable people who have purchased the Agitator Machines: Messrs. Robbins & Simmons, Kayville. Bishop Peter Barton and others Kayville. Woolley, Land & Judd, St. George. M. B. Wells, Nevada. S. A. Worthington, Grantsville. Cummins & Matthews, Grouse Creek. Bishop H. Jensen, Mant. H. B. Stevens, Ferron City. Bishop S. S. Smith, Manassa, Col. Jas. Larson and others, Malad City. Samuel Co-op, Samaria. W. F. Garner and others, Ogden. Laketown Co-op, Laketown. D. Woodward and others, Willard. Slater & Sons, Elsterville. Bishop Kistner & Sons, Call's Fort. And many others.

I now have orders for over Twenty of these famous Threshing Machines, and those who want them should send in their orders at once to

JOHN W. LOWELL, SALT LAKE OR OGDEN.

Rocky Mountains was entitled to daily mail service, the jury must agree that opinion as the law. We should have a wreath of commendation placed upon the shoulders of the officers who were guided by the advice and requests of members of Congress even where consistent with public good.

Gen. Henkle said Col. Totten then went on great length to point out that one he regarded as neglected prayers the court almost uniformly refused to grant them. The reading and recitation then consumed so much time that it was nearly 6 o'clock when the jury was ordered to report.

The Star Route Jurors were taken to the National hotel, where rooms were provided for them. The verdict, should one be reached during the night, will not be announced until the opening of court at 10 o'clock to-morrow. It is the general impression here to-night that the jury will disagree.

The Commission will visit Pullman this afternoon. Adjourned.

A Terrible Crime.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., 8.—Yesterday afternoon, John Hurst, a fisherman living at Secretary Creek, upon receiving home orders, whipped his son, eight years of age, severely, when his wife and a friend interfered.
