DISCOURSE
BY APOSTLE F. D. RICHARDS, DELIVERED
In the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Saturday Morning, October 6, (Semi-Annual Conference)
1883.
REPORTED BY JOHN IVINE.

Retrospective Review of the Providence of God in relation to the Saints—The wrath of God's people—The Order of God's Church perfect—The wicked destroyed by judgments while the righteous enjoy peace—The administration of the law of God in relation to the Saints—Should be resigned to the will of God in all things.

The Lord be thanked and praised for the many blessings which have been bestowed upon the Saints. We have had a most successful meeting together to contemplate the interests of His Kingdom, and our souls' salvation. The Lord has blessed us with His presence, and we have enjoyed His love and fellowship. We have been able to do much good work, and we have been able to do much good work.

We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.

We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.

We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.

We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.

We have been able to do much good work,
and we have been able to do much good work.
We have been able to do much good work, and proper as between the nation and any other part of the country man by his excessive propensity for figure, as we all know, made some very strange calculations; and then when one thing didn't work another seemed to, until our representatives in Congress were removed. By and by we are blessed with another one in Congress to represent us there, and in a short time we found that, with the special effort that was being made in Washington in our behalf, such a shadow of doubt was cast over a certain portion of the law, entitled the Block amendment, when it was thought advisable by the Governor to execute some three hundred commissions, more or less, to men whom he appointed to fill supposed vacancies in the office, which if carried out would have turned over the local authority of the Territory to the hands of the avowed enemies of this people, but the supposed vacancies did not exist and the offices continued in the hands of the incumbents. After all this confusion, however, the law was season when these offices were filled by the people's candidates. Thus we have occasion again to rejoice that the Governor has taken it upon him to do what is right, and that he has not been deterred by any of the obstacles that have been thrown in his way.

It is a singular feature in this matter
that the Governor has taken it
thrown in his way. We have seen that the Governor has taken it
that he has not been deterred by
thrown in his way.

times disturbed if we would allow it, yet, by the blessing of God we enjoy peace in our hearts, such peace as the wicked cannot give to us nor take from us. The role of the States is to be the voice of Gennesaret and commanded them to be still, speaks to us, and while the clouds are dark and the thundering and lightning roll over the political horizon, yet in the hearts, in the homes and in the habitations of the just there is peace, such as the wicked cannot give to us nor take from us.

Look abroad and see what the Lord is doing in the way of judgments.
There has scarcely been a year for many years past when they have not seemed so terrible as they have been during this present year so far. Think of one portion of the most populous States of the United States, and 100,000 people reported destroyed by earthquake and volcanic eruptions. And another where it is said some 15,000 people were likewise destroyed.
Think of it! And yet the Lord has preserved us in these mountains—in this region of country that might seem to be one of the most volcanic sections of the United States. The very face of the earth tells us its character by its extinct volcanoes, its silent craters, its smoking chimneys, its earthquakes, its lightning, its thunder, its hail, its snow, its floods, its droughts, its pestilences, its plagues, its grace, its truth, its faith, its
