THE FOLLOWING

advices were received by a late mail: The Bolivian government has sent a new prefect to Beni to endeavor to suppress the Indians, who are in open revolt. Three more tribes have joined the movement, and many whites have succumbed. If the government does not act promptly all the settlements on the Beni will be destroyed.

The governor of Aucht, Peru, was recently shot and killed by an Ecuadorian, whom he had insulted.

On July 28th a severe earthquake shock was felt in Arequipa.

Under the heading "Merida and Trujillo" the Paz de Tach Ira, of Venezuela, reports that eight political supporters of that paper have been murdered in the towns mentioned within two months.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 3.—It has now been definitely ascertained by the Jersey city police that Mrs. Mary E. Ford, the unfortunate woman from California who lost her children on Wednesday, went to Scep's restaurant, on Exchange Place. The woman claims she left her children in a restaurant, but does not recognize the Steep place as the one. The proprietors say they were not left there. No clue to their whereabouts has yet been obtained.

TUCSON, Arizona, Sept. 3.—The four Apache Indian scouts recently tried by court martial for shooting the chief of scouts, Eber, have been sent to San Diego barracks, pending the approval of their sentence. The other twelve Indians engaged in the outbreak will be turned over to the civil authorities for trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—By the steamer Alameda, from the islands, it is learned that the expedition in New Guinea, dispatched to inquire into and punish the perpetrators of the recent massacre of missionaries and native Christians at the mouth of the Heath River, attacked a Morai village and had a fight with the natives, several of whom were killed and a number wounded. One of the attacking party was wounded by an arrow, but not seriously. At a subsequent expedition the natives fled and their village was burned.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 3.—The political fight between the liberal and clerical parties is becoming animated, the Maximilian incident serving as an additional provocation to embitter the attacks and counter-attacks on the press of the capital and interior. The Monitor Republicano has a leading article this morning devoted to the alleged plots of the clergy against republican institutions. It says there appears to be a well formed plan to destroy religious liberty in Mexico, and adds: "It is feared that the clergy contemplate repeating on Mexican soil the horrible atrocities of St. Bartholomew's Day in France."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—On July 9th last John H. Stairengli arrived in this city by steamer from Australia. On July 18th the British consul here received a cablegram from Melbourne requesting the arrest of Stairengli if he was still in San Francisco, for forgeries aggregating seventy-five thousand dollars on the Union Bank of Melbourne. The matter was reported by the consul to the police and Stairengli, who was here under an assumed name, was located by detectives and has ever since. By yesterday's steamer the necessary papers arrived and Stairengli is now in custody. It seems that Stairengli is a member of the firm of Geo. Synnot & Co., wool brokers, at Greelong, Victoria, Australia. Stairengli was manager of the firm, which is rated high in business circles. This standing enabled him to make overdrafts in the firm's name at the Union Bank to the extent of about $12,000; he is also alleged to have negotiated forged notes on other firms to the amount of $3,000. Losses in speculation led to forgeries. As soon as the extradition papers can be received from Washington, Stairengli will be returned to Australia.

DUBLIN, Sept. 4.—Ten thousand persons assembled at Ennis to attend the meeting of the Irish National League. The police last night took possession of the hill of Ballycorree, where it was intended to hold the meeting. At 2 o'clock including Messrs. Timothy Sullivan, Dillon, Cox, Sheehy, William O'Brien and Philip Stanhope, all members of the House of Commons, and several priests moved toward Ballycorree Hill, the approaches to which were guarded by soldiers and police. The procession finding further progress barred, halted in a field and Messrs. Sullivan, Stanhope and O'Brien made speeches from their carriages. A troop of hussars headed by Colonel Turner, ordered the meeting to disperse within five minutes. Stanhope handed Colonel Turner a copy of the resolutions adopted by the meeting claiming home rule, declaring adherence to Parnell, thanking the liberal party, to the proclamation of the league and denouncing land grabbing. Stanhope declared the proceedings of the meeting were legal, and that if a collision occurred it would hold Colonel Turner responsible. Turner replied that he was bound to execute his orders. The procession returned to Ennis and O'Brien addressed the crowd in O'Connell's Square. Soldiers and police again appearing, the procession passed on to a hotel, which the leaders entered and the crowd dispersed quietly.

PLEDGING RESISTANCE

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The ship Falls of Bruar, of Glasgow, bound from Hamburg to Calcutta with a cargo of salt, foundered off Yarmouth, the cargo having shifted. Five of the crew were rescued and 24 were drowned, most of whom were Germans and Swedes.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Six thousand German warriors marched in procession to-day to the camp ground of the North American Kriegerbund. It was the fourth anniversary of German-born American citizens who had shouldered arms for the sake of their fatherland. Representatives from almost all the large cities in the United States were in line at the park. The day was given up to volkfeast, an affair corresponding to an American picnic. The only event of a formal character was that Wm. Vocke, of Chicago, delivered a festival address. He eulogized the German soldiers and urged his hearers to be loyal to the United States as they had been to Germany.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Over eighty organizations, including fifty-six trades organizations, nineteen assembly district clubs and five purely socialistic societies, sent three delegates each to a conference of socialists in Webster Hall to-day. These were nearly all from this city, Brooklyn and Buffalo. Delegates from other states were not admitted, as the conference was of the New York State labor men who had been barred out of the labor party at the Syracuse convention. A committee was elected to prepare a platform for the party, the Central Labor Union platform of last fall to be used as a basis for the new declaration of faith.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 4.—The controversy regarding Maximilian's conduct at Queretaro, is growing more interesting. Another note purporting to be an autograph letter from Maximilian is published to-day, in which it is stated that certain military officers, not named, were to be paid $100,000 by the imperial house of Austria, valid only on the day of Maximilian's complete salvation.

LIEGE, Sept. 5.—The social congress here is attended by a large number of delegates, including the Archbishop of Rheims, Prince Lowenstein, several German deputies and French political writers. The Bishop of Liege in his opening address to-day dwelt upon the necessity of the spirit of fraternity between masters and employees, and declared it to be the duty of the state to intervene in favor of the working classes. He expressed approval of the workman's bill provided by the government labor commission.

DUBLIN, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Maloney, a bedridden woman, who was evicted at Herbertstown on Wednesday last, died on Saturday. All the shop-keepers in Bruff closed their shutters out of respect for the deceased. An inquest will be held.

LAMBURG, Sept. 5.—The Prince of Wales departed yesterday much improved in health.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 5.—The Ottoman Bank has stopped disbursements abroad on account of the Turkish government's failure to make deposits.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The death is announced of Wm. F. Jaffray, the oldest son of E. S. Jaffray and until recently a member of that great firm. He had been much out of health for two or three years past and in the summer of 1886 was compelled to retire from the firm and go to the German baths. He returned apparently improved, but it was an illusive hope. He was a gentleman of rare social, as well as business abilities.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 5.—The News and Courier's review of the earthquakes' work will show that in the past year over 6,000 buildings have been rebuilt or repaired and that two hundred and seventy-one absolutely new buildings have been erected. The whole cost is four million three hundred thousand dollars, of which Charleston has at least three million.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Wm. Hogmarkham, ex-paymaster of the British man-of-war Esper, who was arrested in Kansas City for embezzlement committed in China, was yesterday handed over to Inspector Matthewson, of the Hong Kong imperial police, who arrived yesterday with extradition papers and after securing his prisoner left for San Francisco, whence he will sail for Hong Kong.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In round numbers it is estimated that the invading army of doctors now contains about 5,000 individuals. The work of registration is still in progress and the exact figures are not yet obtainable. Of these nine-tenths of three or four hundred foreigners present there are florid, portly Englishmen, swarthy Italians, Turks, Persians, blonde Russians, Norwegians and Swedes, with Frenchmen, Danes, Germans, Servians, Mexicans, and South Americans in every type of eminent respectability. French appears to be the favorite tongue for the international commission, but there are not a few among the foreigners who seem to turn without any effort from Servian to Spanish, and from Norwegian to Greek. Before the hour for opening the congress, every seat in Albaugh's Opera House was occupied.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND,

Secretary Bayard and Speaker Carlisle were escorted by Dr. Garnett to seats upon the stage at 11 o'clock, and were greeted with applause by the audience. The assemblage was called to order by Professor Henry M. Smith, of Philadelphia, chairman of the executive committee. He said it was known to all present as well as to physicians throughout the world that in May, 1884, representatives of the profession in the United States decided to send a fraternal greeting to the Eighth International Medical Congress then about to assemble in the capital of Denmark, and to ask that the might meet in the City of Washington. This invitation being accepted, an executive committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements and the result of their labors was seen in this large assembly which the register showed contained many of the most brilliant and distinguished medical minds of Europe, Asia and America. To welcome these guests of the profession and to show his interest in the great humanitarian object, the President of the United States had consented to open the congress for organization. He had the honor to announce honorable

GROVER CLEVELAND,

President of the United States of America. The President, when the applause had subsided, said:

"I feel that the country should be congratulated to-day upon the presence at our capital of so many of our own citizens, and those representing foreign countries who have distinguished themselves in the science of medicine and are devoted to its further progress. My duty on this occasion is a very pleasing and very brief one; it is simply to declare that the Ninth International Medical Congress is now open for organization and for the transaction of business."

The chairman of the executive committee then proceeded to nominate the gentlemen agreed upon by the committee to be officers of the congress. Dr. Nathan Smith Davis, of Chicago, was chosen president of the congress by acclamation.

GREENVILLE, Ohio, Sept. 5.—The county treasurer's safe doors were found open this morning, and $48,000 missing. The treasurer, John S. Simon, is not at home, but it is rumored he only went to Versailles last night to visit his father and is on his way back.

THE ANARCHISTS.

THEY WILL HAVE TO HANG—POWELL'S CHANCES IN OHIO.

Special to the Denver News.]

CHICAGO, August 30.—The seven condemned anarchists will hang. There is no longer any doubt. Information has been received through reliable sources that the supreme court will affirm the death verdict against the anarchists when they meet at Ottawa next Monday. The opinion in the case will then be filed by the justice who made it and it will receive the signatures of all the other justices, who, it would appear, are fully acquainted with the contents. No justice of the supreme court has given out this intelligence directly. All of them, in fact, refuse to talk about the decision, but to a friend who recently asked him about the case, Justice Magruder guardedly said:

"There will be no dissenting opinions because the justices are all

OF ONE MIND."

It is known that Justice Magruder entertains a very decided opinion about the merits of the case, which was not favorable to the claims of the anarchists, and his friends think that if the opinion which will be filed Tuesday was for reversing the opinion of the jury that he would undoubtedly write a dissenting opinion.

The case has already been decided by ballot and the verdict would have been made public long ago if the opinion could have been prepared earlier. The record of the case has so much ground to cover that the justice to whom the task of preparing the opinion was assigned did not get it ready until a few weeks ago. When the ballot was cast, after the justices had privately and considered the case, it was found that there was no dissenting voice. The vote was unanimous in favor of upholding the finding of the lower court.

Chief of Police Ebersold and Sheriff Matson have already received an intimation of what is coming, and they have been making active preparations to meet any emergency that may arise. Chief Ebersold declined to-day to admit that he had received any direct news from the supreme court, though it is known that the members of the court promised him last February to put him on his guard if they thought it necessary to do so. The following interview with the chief may throw some light on the subject:

"Have you been making any unusual preparations on account of the anarchist verdict that is expected next week?" he was asked.

"We have been prepared all the time," was the reply.

"Have you assigned special men to look after the anarchists you consider dangerous?"

"The captains and lieutenants got their orders two weeks ago, and they know exactly what to do," said the chief. "For some time past we have had a considerable force of men who have done little else but watch the known anarchists."

"Do you anticipate trouble?"

"I only know what some of these fellows have been saying. If they intend to put into effect some of the threats they have been making then there will

BE TROUBLE.

However, we are amply prepared for any emergency that may arise."

That Sheriff Matson has also received a direct intimation of the action of the court is evidenced by the extraordinary precautions he has been taking lately in keeping suspicious persons out of the jail.

Everybody who calls to see the Anarchists is closely watched while in the jail and not a few visitors are denied admission. The night guard outside the jail has been strengthened within a week and the sheriff has issued positive orders to the officers in command to admit nobody but persons having urgent business with the night jailor. Everybody who attempts to pass through the Criminal Court building is submitted to a and examination, and nearly everybody but reporters and officers are denied admission.

An official who has watched the sheriff closely, said last night: "Matson has not been to the jail for a week or more, a most singular sign. It is not a secret that he has looked forward to the decision of the supreme court with a kind of terror. No wonder he feels as he does. Upon his shoulders will fall the duty of hanging the seven condemned men."

CHICAGO, August 30.—If some magician of fable or fairy fiction could have touched with a magic wand the iron grating and wire screen of the visitor's cage at the county jail this morning and turned the cruel metal into a mirror, Nina Van Zandt would have seen a very pretty picture of herself. She stood graceful, unaffected and bewitching in attitude. Both hands rested on the screen above her head. Her face was turned upward toward that of her August, and if ever "eyes looked love to eyes" hers were molten with a woman's adoration. Probably she saw or believed she saw an answering light in the rather beady little eyes into which she gazed, but a practical spectator of the scene could not detect it. She was dressed in a handsome tailor-made dress of fawn color, which showed her form to advantage. Her hair was coiled high on her head, her

FACE WAS PALE

almost to sallowness, and her eyes looked almost unnaturally large and bright. She came over with a basket of delicacies for her August and stood talking with him until the hour and a half had expired. Spies needed a number of things. One of them was a shirt. He wore a cheap white undershirt and the air of confident assurance that men sometimes affect after they are sure of their sweetheart's devotion. But Nina loves him, or, to state it more correctly, she is passionately infatuated with him. There is no doubt of this. She often put a white finger through the screen and tapped him lovingly on the cheek or lips. When the hour came for the prisoners to be locked up she put on a broad-brimmed black hat, turned up at one side and surmounted with costly plumes. The hat gave her a rather dashing look. August took his basket of dainties and went to his cell. He is being well fed and is

GROWING STOUT.

Parson's dusky wife brought him several bundles. She was accompanied by her two children, who were admitted in the corridor with their father, where they were kissed and petted by the anarchist. Mrs. Parsons came late to-day and seemed to be a little out of humor. She only spoke a few words with her husband, who devoted most of the time to his children.

Engel sat on a chair and talked to his wife, who occupied a chair on the other side of the grating a few feet away.

Fischer was talking to a little careworn woman who, like Mrs. Engel, was seated in the cage.

Lingg lounged near by, smoking a cob pipe and chatting with a crippled prisoner who leaned on crutches.

Fields had evidently combed his heavy whiskers with care and looked better fed and more self-possessed than ever.

Neebe and Schwab kept out of sight on the opposite side of the jail until the closing hour. Schwab is, of the crowd and is letting his hair and beard go untrimmed, but keeps them well combed. He wore short black calico sleeves over his shirt-sleeves, like one who is employed at a desk.

THE PALEST ONE

All of the other anarchists, except Spies, were in their shirt sleeves, all having been letting their hair grow and all are looking better than they ever did before in their lives.

Acting probably under advice of their attorneys, the anarchists refuse to talk to strangers or reporters, but their manner shows that they are getting anxious as the 6th of September draws near. One week from to-day the Supreme Court will meet at Ottawa. The decision on the appeal of the anarchists will be one of the first things attended to. If the decision is against them the court will set a day for

of the sentence. The anarchists and the public await the decision with interest almost equally keen, with motives as unlike as possible. It is hinted that Sheriff Matson will be given an advance "tip" as to the character of the decision, and that should it be unfavorable to the prisoners they will at once be searched and placed in separate cells. The visits of the friends and relatives will also be stopped and every possible precaution will be taken to frustrate any scheme or plot for their release or for the escape of any of the number.

Just what step will next be taken, should the sentence and judgment of the lower court be affirmed, is a mooted question. The counsel for the defense say they will endeavor to get the case before the Supreme Court of the United States, but some of the oldest and most experienced members of the bar do not hesitate to aver that there is not a

SOLITARY FEATURE

In the case which would warrant a justice of the Supreme Court in issuing a writ of superseadeas. If this view of the matter proves correct, nothing remains but an appeal to the clemency of Governor Oglesby. Little is expected from the court of last resort, although the defense committee, which will resume its work next Wednesday if the decision is against the defendants, say the appeal will be backed up with a petition miles long, the signatures upon which will represent every state and territory in the Union.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—An Ohio gentleman, who has recently made an extended tour of the state and whose many sources of political information are unusually good, says there is every probability that Colonel Powell, the democratic candidate for governor, will defeat Governor Foraker at the next November election.

"In the first place," continued the News informant, "Democrats will make an aggressive campaign. Their platform favors a high license. They are going to let the liquor men alone. By doing this they will not alienate the moral element of the party. A majority of the will vote with the democrats for the simple reason that the republicans give them no encouragement and they have nowhere else to go. In other words, the democrats have taken no radical stand in their favor, nor have they gone far enough to antagonize them. Then again, the democratic platform pronounces unequivocally in favor of tariff reform, and the sentiment is growing very rapidly in Ohio.

"But the principal thing that will help the democrats is that quiet, deep-seated distrust of Foraker by many of the strongest men in the republican party. They are jealous of his sudden political rise. They realize that if he carries the state this autumn that nothing can prevent his securing the vice presidential nomination next year. The older men of the party, especially those who are nearest to Senator look upon Governor Foraker with great disfavor. They regard him as the enemy of their chief, and too ardent an admirer of Blaine. Outwardly, these men will work for the ticket, but way down in their hearts they will hope for its defeat. What is more, they will do all in their power to bring about this result.

"This dissatisfaction will help the democrats amazingly. I may say they count upon it with great certainty to encompass Governor Foraker's defeat, and, per contra, to insure the election of Powell."
