Forest Lyman Has Life Crushed Out Under Horse.

Special Correspondence.

Cardston, Alberta, Canada, Oct. 9.--Word was brought today of the acci-dental killing of Forest Lyman, out near Woolf's Ranch. He had been riding horseback on Sunday afternoon and not extermine to Sunday afternoon and not returning to the place where he was employed no notice was taken of his absence, as it otten occurs that boys of his age would remain over night at one of the neigh-boring ranches. Yesterday, Monday, a Mr. Lowe was riding the range and found Forest dead under the horse he had been riding, the animal having its neck broken. It appeared from the way the boy lay under the horse that he was not killed instantly, in fact must have lived, some time after the accident,, for his position showed that he had struggled to free himself from the weight of the dead animal until his
