

that he should enter into recognizance before that court for his appearance.

To the 9th section of the House bill we added the provision of the Senate as to unlawful sexual intercourse between two married persons. This the House bill had not provided for.

Section 11 of the House bill was left out because it was deemed unnecessary.

Section 13 of the House bill was left out, because this being only an amendment to a former statute section 13 was unnecessary.

Section 18 of the House bill has been amended by requiring the surplus of the property of the corporations therein mentioned, not provided for in the bill or decreed to those entitled thereto by the courts, shall be used for school purposes in said Territory.

Section 17 of the House bill has been left out as unnecessary, the law now controlling writs of error from the Supreme Court in the cases of bigamy or polygamy or of any offense under the act March 22, 1882, is not affected by this act.

Section 18 of the House bill has been changed by leaving out to all religious societies, sects or congregations so much real property for the erection or use of houses of worship, and for such purposes as shall be necessary for their convenience and use, the title to be in trustees named by them.

Section 21 of House bill, annulling legislation as to water, timber, or herd rights has been left out because the conference committee did not know the full possible effect of that section, and because it is believed that existing law furnishes an adequate remedy for any illegal act done in the premises.

In section 22, House bill, the conference committee in section 1, which defines the terms "lawful wife," believe it best to leave that matter to the courts. Sections 26 and 27 of the House bill were so amended as to strike out all the authority therein granted as to the appointment of officers in said Territory except that the President of the United States by and with the consent of the Senate is required to appoint a prelate judge in each county.

FIGHTING FIRE AT ANACONDA.

A FATAL CONFLAGRATION NEAR BUTTE, MONTANA.

At half past four Saturday morning (the 12th inst.) the people of Anaconda were aroused by pistol shots and cries of "fire." Over half the population of the village were congregated on Main Street, between Front and Cherry. By this time dense volumes of smoke were issuing from the building occupied by Allen & McDonald as a saloon and by Mr. Murray as a barber shop.

The roofs on the east side of Main Street were quickly manned with a large force of men, who kept the front of the buildings wet down as much as possible with buckets of water and shovelfuls of snow. Blankets and bedding of all description were wet and hung up in front of buildings and stores. The fire spread with rapidity, and soon all efforts to save any of the wooden buildings on the west side of Main Street were abandoned. The large brick building of D. Cohen, Sr., offered a great obstruction to the fire, and appeared the best place to oppose its progress. Next door of this was a frame building owned by Morgan Evans, in which Cornelius & Brown were running a saloon. An attempt was made to tear this down, but the flames were too quick. All efforts were then turned towards Cohen's building on which the safety of many others depended. The building was two stories high and had cast iron shutters on the side towards the fire. The shutters were closed and the building left to stand the heat. When the liquor stock of Cornelius & Brown's, next to the Cobbe building, took fire, the heat became intense and drove the crowds from the sidewalks on the opposite side of the street. At this time the front of the Butte Hardware Company's store on the opposite side of the street caught fire but was extinguished. By this time the greater part of Spary's chop house had been burned away, and it became apparent that the fire was not likely to make any further progress.

Probably the heaviest loss will be on the Continental hotel, which was entirely destroyed. The hotel was valued at $5,000. The building was owned by E. M. Ratcliffe, who is living on his ranch in the flathead. J. A. Barta, who owned the furniture, estimates his loss at $1,500, of which $500 is covered by insurance. A part of his furniture was carried out, but in the excitement of the hour was much damaged. The heaviest losers are Albertson & Morehouse. They are the owners of the saloon run by George Kendall. Their loss amounts to $8,000, with no insurance.

Morgan & Evans owned two of the buildings which were destroyed. Their value was about $3,000, on which Mr. Evans held insurance amounting to $4,500. Tom Daly owned the building which he occupied, and he places his loss at $5,000 on his building and saloon fixtures. His insurance is $700. Murray places the loss on his barber shop at $1,000. He carried $400 insurance on his furniture.

Cornelius & Brown are losers to the extent of $1,500 on their liquor stock and saloon fixtures. They had no insurance. Proulx & Murray place the loss on their saloon at $2,000. No insurance. The loss of Allen & McDonald is in the neighborhood of $600.

The brick building belonging to D. Cohen was damaged to the extent of $300. Mr. Cohen has the building insured for $5,000, so that part of his loss is fully covered, but his stock is damaged to the extent of $600, on which there is no insurance.

The total loss by the fire on the basis of the above estimates, amounts to $31,000, while the total insurance is $11,000.

The minor losses sustained by merchants on the east side of Main Street were largely caused by the breakage of glass and losses incident to the moving of stock out of threatened danger. They were St. Louis Beer Hall, $75; J. W. Barker, $50; P. Murray, $50; J. E. Van Gundy, $250; M. S. Aschheim, $500; J. L. Hamilton, $150; Butte Hardware Co., $150; Barrett, Jackey & Kramer, $150; Wm. Read, $200; R. Fenner, $150.

The following is the amount of insurance losses. All the policies were written by Geo. F. Marsh, the insurance agent, of this city:

The prevailing opinion is that the fire resulted from the work of an incendiary. The fire was first discovered issuing from Allen & McDonald's saloon and Murray's barber shop. There are neither waterworks nor a fire department in the village, and the people are entitled to much credit for their hard work in confining the flames to the buildings burned. Crowds stood around the burned district all day, and the Review showed its enterprise in getting out an extra containing full particulars of the fire.—Butte Miner.
