

DESERET EVENING NEWS THE SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS

THE GREAT COUNTRY PAPER OF THE WEST

Is issued Mondays and Thursdays and contains all the cream of the Daily and Saturday News

LOCAL BRIEFS.

While in bathing near Hunniball, a number of the Y. M. C. A. boys who are camping out in that section, were robbed of valuables taken from their clothes.

Through an inadvertence the name of Bishop McMillan, Bishop of the Twenty-eighth Ward, was unfortunately omitted from the list of speakers at the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown Stoker, held on Sunday last. Bishop McMillan also dedicated the grave in the cemetery.

The Ministerial association enjoyed a picnic yesterday afternoon, at Liberty Park, with addresses from members of the association. Resolutions of regard were adopted regretting the coming departure from Salt Lake of Rev. T. W. Pinkerton of the Central Christian church, and wishing him well in his new field of labor.

The brutal assailant of the little Mason girl is still at large. Officers from the police and sheriff's department have been searching for him, but Justice Lakin has stood by and also in the neighborhood of Birmingham, but no trace of him has been found. The officers are keeping up the search, however, and hope eventually to capture him.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Sophia Young, aged 26 years, wife of William H. Young, will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the new Presbyterian church on C and Brigham streets. Friends are invited to attend and can view the remains at the family residence, 561 North First West street, from 1 to 1 p.m. Friends are invited to attend the funeral services. Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

President H. H. Smith of the state Christian Endeavor union received word this morning from General Secy. von Vogt of the United society at Boston, stating that he would be in Utah Sept. 8 to 16, en route to the Pacific coast, and therefore available as a speaker at the annual Christian Endeavor convention of the state. The executive committee of the state union will hold a meeting this week to decide whether to hold the state convention in Salt Lake or in Ogden.

The state board of pardons will meet Saturday, to consider the petition of Samuel R. Pruitt of the state prison, convicted of "polygamy" in having three wives. His wife, sister Pruitt says that he left Indiana when he was under the impression that a divorce had been granted separating him from his wife, and under that impression he married again, in this state. But presently No. One found out what he had done, and instituted proceedings. He says he had never been arrested before.

The romance of the four children who tried to walk to Grand Junction, after sleeping in Pioneer square three nights last week, came to a happy ending last night, when General Sup't. of the Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad sent them on their way to their former home on the evening train. The children slept Sunday night at the home of Engineer F. L. Cowan, who picked them up near Bingham Junction, and yesterday rested prior to undertaking the long journey homeward.

A young man named R. W. Williams, who is on his way to California from Ohio, fell in with a couple of grafters at the fair last weekend yesterday afternoon and when he fell out with his mindless simeons. He was robbing the money by the old trick of matching dollars. The grafters won $60 from him, and when he made a "holder" they gave him back $10. One of the men then seized the $60 and started off. The other man said to Williams: "You go that way and I will go that way and we can't let the fellow and make him give the money back." Williams did as he was told and that was the last he saw of the fellows. He told his troubles to the police and they are in hot pursuit.

We pay 4 per cent interest per annum on $1 to $5,000, Zion's Savings Bank & Trust Co., Joseph F. Smith, President; George M. Cannon, Cashier.

C. S. Martin Coal Co., Rock Springs, Cumberland, Castle Gate and Clear Creek lump, nut and slack.

It costs no more to buy Royal Bread. Our own label guarantees quality and purity. At all grocers.

SALT LAKE PHOTO SUPPLY CO., Developing, Finishing, Main and 3rd So.

CHURCH NOTICES.

The Lesser Priesthood conference of the Pioneer stake will be held Tuesday, July 18, 1905, at 7:30 p.m. in the Seventh ward meetinghouse.

W.M. MC LACHLAN,
SYLVESTER Q. CANNON,
CHAS. H. HYDE,
Presidency.

Chasted Death.

Kidney trouble often kills fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, escaped death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, and as I find they have no equal." Z. C. M. J. Drug Dept. guarantees them at 5c.

DON'T FORGET.

When you get ready to take that trip east or west, don't forget that in order to get the best economy service and equipment over the mountains your route should be the "COLORADO MIDLAND RAILWAY." Call at ticket office 77 west Second South for illustrated literature and souvenir postal cards and beautiful Mountain Scenery on the "MIDLAND ROUTE."

Attorney Russell argued that the DEATH OVERTAKES REV. DR. LEILICH.

Former Head of Methodist Missions in Utah Passes Away in Pennsylvania.

HIS STAY HERE WAS STORMY.

Trouble With Local Ministers Was Very Bitter, and Several Left The Field.

The Original.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a third line of goods, and with the growth in merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. Ask for FOLEY'S Honey and Tar and you are sure to get it. Any仿制 will give the same satisfaction. It is mildly laxative. It contains no opiates and is safest for children and delicate persons. Sold by F. J. Hill Drug Co.

court had no authority to make an amended commitment. Assistant County Attorney Hanson argued that it did not make any difference how many erroneous commitments were issued, and that the only good one the officer could hold the prisoner. He said that the complaint charged burglary in the second degree and the mere fact that it was termed housebreaking was not a fatal defect in the paper. The court upheld his contention and denied the petition.

This

Day In History.

JULY 19TH

AMUSEMENTS.

The Bittner company was much at home in "Pop" Hinckley's Home," which opened at the grand last night. The play, which is of Civil war days, gives Mr. Bittner an opportunity to appear in his favorite role of an indulgent and kindly father, while Miss Rowan has plenty of heavy emotional opportunities. There is one feature to it which is the most popular scene of the popular stock melodramas. It is a scene of a barn home, into which enters the villain, hissing, "Now at last, Nancy O'Flannigan, I have you where I want you. This day I bought the mortgage on your home, and you must marry me or face the gallows." The curtain falls.

1852—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1859—Dome of infallibility proclaimed by the pope.

1862—John Cook, American author, died at Springfield, Mass.; born 1827.

1889—Horatio G. Alger, famous as a writer of stories for boys, died at Natick, Mass.; born 1832.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia" and "Crown of Scotland." Jones' flagship, the Bonhomme Richard, captured the Seraph after a desperate battle. Jones finally settled in Paris, where he died during the revolution. His body was interred in the church of the Ursulines, Paris, and his tombstone is in the Pantheon.

1890—John Paul Jones, American naval hero, died in Paris; born in Kirkland, Mass. Jones engaged in the merchant marine service and became a master mariner when 17. He was appointed "senior first lieutenant" of the American colony navy in 1777 to the crew of the frigate in the Tripolitanian War and attacked the British coast. On Sept. 28, 1779, a vessel, the "Reindeer," captained by French, he attacked an English fleet of 46 merchantmen convoyed by the warships "Caledonia