This will probmean the nomination of Bishop Callister.

I was acked I would know it. Don't you think so? Why of course you do. Then you fellows down there want to know that I can't be licked that easy any way. Say but the joke is a good one. If I had been home taking part in the primaries it is doubtful if I could have got a better lot of delegates. Think of it! Taink of it! Thirty-nine out of delegates. Taink of it! Thirty-nine out of 45 dele-gates are my delegates, any way, per-sonal friends of mine. That deesn't look so had does it? I don't think so. Yes 39 out of 45. That looks pretty good to William. If Senator Kearns can get any comfort out of the! I hope can get any comfort out of that I hope he'l enjoy it to the limit, for I am en-joying it here all right. Senator Kearn's crowd licked the Glasmann crowd did it? Well, look at that list and don't forget 39 and of 45. That is a good game to play any day of the year."

ANDERSON EXPLAINS.

Is Willing to Let the State Committee Pass on Matter if Desired.

As considerable public interest has been awakened by a letter published in the morning papers, signed by John Meteer, addressed to members of the Republican state committee, and ob-jecting to the state chairman naming the temporary organization of the next Republican convention, the "News" called on Mr. Anderson today for an explanation of the situation. Mr. An-derson replied as follows:

"After the adjournment of the com-mittee meeting of July 3. I was ap-proached by members of the committee and other prominent Republicans, who stated that I was establishing a bad precedent by permitting the state com mittee to name the temporary organi cation of the convention-that that work was the prerogative of the state chairman. I was reminded that I was the first state chairman who had ever permitted such a thing. The naming of the temporary officers had been brought up at the last meeting, and the matter was postponed to a future date. I wrote to the members of the state committee, calling their attention to the precedents established, and also followed by the Republican national committee. I consulted ex-state chairmen on the procedure followed by them, and was informed that it was the pre-rogative of the state chairman and ex-cutive committee to make the selections. I informed the committee of the situation. A few members objected to me taking action, others were willing me taking action, others were willing that past procedure be followed, and still others insisted that I should go ahead, and not get the committee to-gether again. The insinuation of Mr. Meteer, in his letter, that I have ulter-for motives in choosing temporary offi-vers, that some candidates might be herefited is undernified and say worther. benefited, is undignified and not worthy of a reply. "As the question has been raised, they wish to break down the rules es-tablished by precedents here and in other states, and by the national Republican committee, they shall have the privilege of doing so. The temporary organization could not benefit or hurt any candidate. The convention itself is master of the situation. If the tem-porary officers do not suit, it will elect others. The procedure usually follow-ed by Republican conventions gives the ed by Republican conventions gives the temporary chairman no appointive power whatever, the naming of com-mittees being done by the delegations from the different counties, one from cash county usually being on each com-mittee. The temporary officers are honorable men, who have the ability to perform the duty assigned them. As to their selection under the precedent, it is my right to name them, but as ob-

The choir sang: as the opening ymn, "We're not ashamed to own our hymn, "We Lord," etc. Prayer was offered by Patriarch An-us M. Cannon.

The choir sang the anthem, "Rouse, ye mortals." Elder Thomas commenced his renarks by saying. "The fundamental difference between

Mormonism and other Christian relig-ions is the conception of Christ. We have a true and fundamental concep-tion of the Son of God. We regard God tion of the son of God. We regard God as a father as well as a deity. The old prophets saw God—a perfect being. The records tell us that Adam con-versed with his Father. God is the su-preme person, not an indefinite etheral power. God is a definite concrete being, the same as He was in the Bible days, "The Lord now speaks to the people through His servants, the prophets. It is the way He has always talked, and always will. In the time of Moses the children of Israel saw God.

children of Istael saw God. "Jesus Christ and God are one, and Christ was a material person. Christ frequently stated that He was in the image of His Father, "Christ once said, 'Feel me, I am flesh

Christ once said, 'reel me, I am flesh and bone, not spirit.' If Christ was in the image of His Father, the latter must also be material. The Latter-day Saints are often called gross material. In answer we believe in a material God, who had desires, love and passions, the same as we have now We have a clear ame as we have now, We have a clear onception of the being we worship, "None but a material God could have created the mountains around us. Such a God is an entity, has shape and being. "Revelation is a fundamental princi-ple of the law which God gives to His people. It is one of the ways He com-municates with men. I do not see how a man can believe in unchangeable God a man can believe in unchangeable God unless he believes in present day reve-lation. God revealed Himself in the past. Why should He not do so now? The Lord has always talked to His peo-ple: He has always talked to His peo-ple: He has always had a medium of conversing with them. God has spoken in the past. He will speak in the fu-ture. Holy writ says these things shall continue until the end of time. God is the same today as He was anciently. "Because the Latter-day Saints be-lieve in these things—a material God and present day revelation—they are and present day revelation-they are often termed material and coarse. They believe in a true Christianity. If that is gross and material, why, so has Christianity been since the beginning of time. For the belief of Mormons is the same as the Christians thousands years ago.'

The choir sang the ant/rem: "Prom afar, gracious Lord," and benediction was pronounced by Elder Joseph E. Taylor | Taylor
