Curbers Were Defeated in Yesterday's Ball Game.

THEY PLAYED NINE INNINGS

The Score Was 20 to 18-Harry Joseph's Great Work-Gate Recepts. $273.50, for Afflicted Scofield.

The Brokers defeated the Curbers yesterday afternoon in their game of ball at Walker's field. At 3:30 Umpire Maj. W. A. Stanton yelled play ball, and from that time until 6 o'clock the contest waged fiercely.

The game was replete with amusing incidents and none were lost on the good sized, enthusiastic crowd in atendance. There was one man, a Broker, who was distinctly the star of both aggregations, in fact he was the center of attraction. That man was Harry Joseph. Attired in white trousers, right red stockings and a sweater of all the colors of the rainbow, and having with him a pair of good hearty lungs he managed, from the first, to be both heard and seen. Every time he took the

He seemed to understand the game, or thought he did, better than the umor thought he did, better than the umpire, for every time there was a decision in favor of the opposing team Joseph sent up a mighty wall. In the third inning there was almost a bout between Joseph and M. M. Miller. The former averred that the latter was out on three strikes and the latter was on three strikes, and the latter said nay. Loud talk followed, and clouds darkened the ambient air, but only for an instant, for Ralph Guthrie scattered them. The gate receipts amounted to $273.50, which was turned over to the relief fund for the Scofield sufferers. The game was practically without cost. The diamond was free. The advertising was free, then there was Held's band, Dr. Higgins, Capt. Paul and the tele-phone company, who did all in their power to stir up interest in the game. The contest opened with the Curbers in the field. At the end of the first four innings the score was 11 to 10 in favor of the Curbers. In the seventh things were changed and it was 17 to 13, in favor of the Brokers.

The playe from then on were about even. Following is the line up:

Louisville. Louisville, May 2 .- Unless the weather man should go wrong in his fore-east, the biggest crowd that has ever vitnessed a Kentucky derby will be at the twenty-sixth time that event will be decided. Taking the work of the colts in their final trials, it will be a horse race from the fall of the flag to the wire, and as the event now figures on paper it is the most open in the history of the classic race. Lieut, Gibson is the favorite and his work certainly justifies much of the confidence his backers have in him. But Gibson will not have the easy race he figured on to enjoy two weeks ago, for since then Kentucky Farmer, Florizar, His Excellency and several others have by their trials become factors in the event, and it would not be surpris-ing to see any of the eight coits win the coveted prize, for it is believed that even if not eight will be sent away in Lieut, Gibson will be an even money or oddds on favorite when they go to the post tomorrow, with Kentucky Farmer second choice and the Scroggan pair, Florizar and Highland Lad, and His Excellency third in the public's favor. The track is in the best of con dition, and unless rain should fall, which is not at all probable, according to the weather forecast, it will be lightning fast when Starter Chinn gives the word tomorrow afternoon. The following were announced to-night as the starters in the derby: Lieut. Gibson, br. c., G. W. Johnson-Sophia Hardy; Chas. H. Smith, 117

His Insult to Admiral Schley Not the First Offense.

New York, May 3 .- A special to the Times from Washington says: The previous indiscretion of Captain Chadwick to which Secretary Long refers in his letter to that officer, was committed a long while ago, although it did not come to the notice of the department for several months after it was com-mitted. It was not a criticism of a superior officer, and in referring to it as "similar misconduct." Mr. Long did not mean to indicate any resemblance be-tween it and the insult to Admira Schley. The department considers the as in the present case, Captain Chadfidence of which the newspaper man proved himself unworthy.

After leaving Santiago Captain Chadwick allowed a number of important dispatches to be seen by this newspaper man. In fact, he left them in the man's possession for some time. The news-paper man copied the dispatches. He paper man copied the dispatches. He did not publish them in any newspaper, but prepared them for use in a magazine article which be intended to write. He did write the article; it was accepted by the magazine, and it was only on the eve of the publication that the navy department learned of the fact. It was impossible to prevent the publication, but the department destroyed the value of the publication to the magazine and the author by immediately giving out to the newspapers copies of the disthe newspapers copies of the dis patches. They appeared in the news-papers on the day that the magazine containing the article was issued. The department investigated the matter and found that Captain Chadwick was to blame. He escaped with a reprimand, and the fact that he was in fault and had been punished was never made public. The fact that Chadwick has again committed the same offense has evidently decided the department to try the efficacy of giving his act and punishment the widest publicity, for whereas the previous reprimand was carefully concealed from the newspa-pers, the present one has been given out to the press associations.

The correspondence which Chalwick turned over included all the official correspondence on the subject of the Sampson-Schley controversy and it was afterward printed by the Senate as part of an official document. The papers were sent to the Senate Feb. 6, 1899, in response to a resolution calling for in-formation regarding the promotions of Sampson and Schley. They were in-tended to Justify the department's action in recommending the advancement by eight numbers of Sampson and by six numbers of Schley, and they in-cluded the new famous letter of Sampson to Long, dated July 10, 1898, in which he used the expression "Reprehensible conduct," in regard to Schley, hensible conduct." in regard to Schley, As Chadwick was Sampson's chief of staff, the correspondence was in his hands and his indiscretion in giving papers of such importance for publication was regarded by the department as very great. The correspondence given out by him, however, included not only the documents relating to the Sampson-Schley controversy, but all the correspondence relating to the operations of the fleet before Santiago,
and the recommendations for promotion made after the battle,

The Blues.

Weak or worn-out nerves and an exhausted and irritable condition of the brain are at the bottom of all head troubles, such as dullness, pressure, rush of blood to the head, dizziness, headache, irritability of temper, the blues, poor memory, hysteria, melancholy, mania and insanity, no matter what the special cause that brought them about. A medicine that will strengthen and invigorate the shattered nerves, rest the weary body and soothe the tired brain is greatly to be desired. Such a medicine is Dr. Miles' Nervine. It is a nerve food and tonic that acts directly on the nervous system, toning it up into sound and vigorous action.

"I was troubled for years with severe spells of headache in the back part of my head, confusion of memory, nervousness and inability to sleep. After trying in valu to find relief I got the blues and at times thought I was losing my mind. When I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills all this was changed. I grew cheerful and happy and my health soon returned."
