Diphtheria has made sad havoc casus alona no less than 40,000 children have been slain by it. The Russian, however, does not fold his hands in the presence of gigantic disaster, and exclaim, like our friend the Turk, "It is the will of Allah." A plan for a great campaign-a Russian aggression-upon the dreadful epidemic has been worked out by Professor Bystroff and adopted by a commission of experts to whose examination it was submitted. We learn that there is someting else besides nihilism occupying the Russian mind when we read that it is purposed within the next fortnight to idispatch 80 selected physicians and 300 Sisters of Mercy to Poltawa, for the doctoring and nursing of those selzed by the disease. Each physician is to recaive 300 roubles for traveling expenses and 100 roubles a month as salary, while each sister receives 100 roubles for cest of journey and 25 roubles as monthly pay. As far as earthly means can be made available the Russian authorities are determined that they shall be
