CITY COUNCIL.

Proceedings at the City Council on Tuesday evening, February 8th, 1881, Mayor Little presiding:

A petition was submitted from the Salt Lake City Railroad Company, asking the Council to repeal the law requiring said company to pay a per capita tax upon passengers carried, upon the following considerations: That the railroad company were entitled by law to charge for single fares over its road 15c. each; that said company had paid to Salt Lake City a property tax on all its taxable property for the past five years; that the city in making permanent improvements on the streets, were continually changing the grade of said streets in different parts of the city, necessitating the company to raise or lower its track in conformity with said grade, at considerable expense, as was the case three months ago on South Temple Street, from the Utah Central depot to the Eagle Gate; that all the railroad iron and cars of said company had to be imported from the east at a very high rate of freight, all of which was extra expense over the liabilities of eastern companies; that the said company now charged for fares over its road as follows: A single fare 10c., four fares 25c., twenty fares $1—or at the rate of 5c. each; that said company did not wish to raise the price of fares, which it would be compelled to do if the per capita tax were collected; and that the public continually caused said company considerable expense, especially on the Warm Springs and First Ward lines, by using its track and road bed as a wagon road in the fall, winter and spring, cutting and breaking the ties and spike heads and injuring the road bed generally. Referred to the committee on ways and means.

Mr. Charles S. Burton verbally petitioned the Council to have the grade of Fruit Street established, as he was desirous of building and considered the determining of said grade necessary before the building could be commenced. Referred to the committee on streets and alleys, with the city surveyor associated.

The committee on construction of canal reported that $4,895.91 had been paid out on account of material, bridges, right of way, etc, during the month of January. Expenditure approved and report filed.

The committee on construction of canal also reported that they deemed it advisable to adopt the upper route from Big Cottonwood to Wm. Casper's premises, a distance of about one mile, and assigned certain reasons for the change. After explanations, the former action of the Council so far as it related to adopting the lower survey upon this district of country was rescinded, and the upper one adopted as recommended by the committee.

Alderman Pyper presented the Police Court report for January: Sixty-eight cases had been tried, $384.50 had been collected on fines in cash, and $924.50 in labor. Total cash and labor, $1,309. Approved.

A. Gould, bill for coal delivered to City Hall in January, $65, was allowed.

Henry Dinwoodey, bill for repairing linoleum at City Hall, $2.50, was allowed.

The committee on license, to whom was referred the petition for curtailing the liquor traffic of the city, reported a bill for an ordinance establishing new regulations and restrictions for prohibiting the illegitimate sale of spirituous and fermented liquors and for checking, so far as possible, the growing evil of intemperance. The bill was read and referred to the committee on municipal laws, with authority to have the bill printed in open lines for the use of the Council.

The committee on municipal laws reported back the bill for an ordinance establishing Washington Market, etc., slightly amended, and after consideration the bill was passed and referred to the committee on enrollment to be enrolled.

Adjourned for one week.

"Life and Death of Worlds."—Another large audience, including many of those who attended Monday night, was at the Theatre last evening, to hear the second and closing lecture of Professeor Proctor's astronomical series. The stage was somewhat differently, and decidedly more comfortably furnished than on the preceding night. The illustrative screen was much nearer to the audience, and the stereopticon was placed on a stand inside the orchestra. The Professor came upon the stage from the left first entrance, unannounced, the formality not being necessary this time, as he was at once recognized by all, and after the applause his appearance elicited had subsided, immediately began his lecture on the "Life and Death of Worlds." As he had fairly presented his theory the first night, he now had more leisure to enter into details, which he did, merely dwelling long enough upon generalities to connect the threads joining the two lectures and remind his audience of things he had told previously. He specially mentioned the planet Venus, which is nearest in actual size to the earth, but dwelt longest upon Mars and the Moon, especially the latter. Mars is still able to sustain life, but is in the decrepit stage; hence older than the earth and much less in magnitude. There is snow, air and water upon this planet, which still has seasons and weather variations, but its land is growing and its seas diminishing. As it is an older planet than Earth, its proportion of land is more and its proportion of water less than those of our Earth. The Moon is comparatively near to us, and hence can be easily studied. It is dry and desolate, with neither air nor water, and hence totally unfitted for the production or sustenance of life. Its sky is dark, and in it the stars shine incessantly. It has great subterranean disturbances, its mountain sides give evidence of glacial action, and the dark spots on its surface show where the seas have finally disappeared into the interior.

The lecturer gave many other interesting statements on the science of astronomy. He again referred to the unpleasantness of his theory, which he does not claim as strictly original, but rather in accordance with the theories of the most advanced thinkers. Said it seemed perfectly reasonable to him that worlds were born to die, just as man and other animals; what was true of men, beasts and insects on the small scale, ought to be true of worlds and systems of planets on the large scale. He admitted his belief, however, in the probability of the existence of a higher state of things, a purer kind of matter and a rarer order of universes than any yet known to man, and which his feeble powers of comprehension could not grasp at the present time. Science is a boundless sea, and man with all he can possibly learn is ignorant, and the undiscovered [illegible] will [illegible] will show him his littleness afresh, and furnish him with new phenomena upon which to base novel and stranger theories than any yet brought forth by human mind.

The visit of Professor Proctor to Salt Lake, will long be remembered by the many who have been repeatedly enchanted by his sublime lectures.

The "Big 4."—Hooley's celebrated minstrels, numbering upwards of 30 performers, will open an engagement of three nights and a matinee, to-morrow evening in the Salt Lake Theatre. They come heralded as ne plus ultra in the burnt cork business, by all the leading papers of the country. The New York Dispatch has this:

"One of the brightest and most mirth-compelling performances that has been seen in New York in many a day is the performance of the 'Big Four Minstrels,' who are rapidly gaining a warm place in the estimation of the public at the Standard Theatre. The company is a large one, and includes many excellent performers, and if there are none of them who are so well known or so popular as some of our local players, there are some that are no less good. The singing in the first part is excellent, as a rule, and some of the character pieces are admirable. Scarcely less good is the work of the original 'Big 4,' who do songs, dances, and posturing, capitally. Such a performance as that of these minstrels affords perfectly pure and innocent enjoyment, and a great deal of it, and cannot meet with too much encouragement from those who believe in harmless and perfectly proper amusements, which are at the same time exceedingly clever."

Comfort and Relief for the Afflicted

At last there has been an article found which is a certain cure for all Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing and all Affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and Lungs, leading to Consumption, which is known as Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. This remedy is compounded from the favorite recipe of Dr. Hale, a celebrated physician of Europe, who for many years used it with the most complete success in his extensive private practice. The beauty of this medicine is that the patient is not obliged to continue taking it for weeks before receiving any benefit, but on the contrary, the first few doses give relief. One bottle is sufficient to cure any ordinary Cough or Cold, and from six to twelve bottles cure the worst cases. Sold at all drug stores and at Crittenton's Central Medicine Warehouse, 7, Sixth Avenue, New York City. Prices, 50 cents and $1. Great saving by purchasing the dollar size.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of Wm. J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a VIOLENT BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will be induced to take DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared and I shall soon be able to go to work. Sold by all druggists.

IT IS TRULY WONDERFUL

TO SEE what improvements now exist as compared with railway travel only a few years ago. To become convinced of this, one has only to select for his route East, the popular and well-known

CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY.

Palace train, composed of Pullman Hotel Cars, Pullman Sleeping Cars, elegant Day Coaches, Smoking, Baggage, Postal Cars, etc., ready to convey its passengers through Iowa and Illinois, and into Chicago. Gliding smoothly along over the superb track of steel rail, through thriving cities and villages, comfortably seated in this train, one scarcely discovers the high rate of speed at which he is riding. Trains of this road are always on time, connections sure, and passengers seeking pleasure, comfort, safety and ease in traveling, will find the "North Western" in excess of their expectations, and the greatest of all routes to Chicago and the East. By Universal Accord,

AYERS' CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by Physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effective purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other pills can be compared with them, and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are specially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild, but effectual cathartic is required. 4dsw
