

INFURIATED MOB AFTER MURDERER

Wanted Life Blood of Patrick C. Casey, Who Killed Thomas Heslip's Wife.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Crazed With Grief Over His Wife's Death He Took Cyanide of Potassium.

Goldfield, Nev., Aug. 17.—Infuriated by the suicide of Thomas Heslip, the well known mining man who ended his life by taking cyanide of potassium today while crazed with grief over the death of his wife, who was shot and killed by Patrick C. Casey last night, a mob organized later in the day, determined to storm the county jail in which Casey was confined and string him up to the nearest telegraph pole. The mob also determined to wreak a similar vengeance on Martin Sheridan, who has been awaiting trial for wife murder for six months.

It was the purpose of the mob tonight to dynamite the jail, which understood an attack last night just after the killing of Mrs. Heslip and the wounding of Mrs. Frank Mann by Casey. The plan was defeated by Sheriff Callahan, however, the prisoners being smuggled out of the jail and carried to Tonopah in automobiles which were manned by heavily armed guards. Because of the fury of the citizens the district attorney has called the grand jury to act on both cases without delay.

CASEY IN COUNTY JAIL.

Tonopah, Nev., Aug. 17.—Patrick Casey, charged with the murder of Mrs. Heslip at Goldfield last night, was lodged in the county jail here today after having been smuggled from the Emerald county prison to save him from lynching. Sheriff Callahan telephoned to Sheriff Owens of Nye county, asking that officers meet him 12 miles out on the Goldfield road. An automobile crowded with deputies hastened to the scene to discover that the machine in which the Goldfield prisoner was being brought here had broken down. Repairs were made and the whole party hurried to this city where Casey was placed in the county jail with a strong guard about him.

RIO GRANDE WRECK.

Road as Well as Crew Blamed for One At Husted, Colo.

Colorado, Springs, Aug. 17.—The coroner's jury which investigated the head-on collision on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad at Husted, Colo., Saturday morning, when 10 people were killed and three score injured, late today returned its verdict. The verdict finds that the wreck was due to criminal negligence on the part of the train crew, composed of Engineer Leslie and Hollingsworth, Fireman

Wright, Conductor Dalton, and Brakeman McElhern. The verdict also declares that the evidence shows that a defective system for issuing train orders was employed by the railroad at the time of the wreck. An order was sent to Denver to arrest the members of the train crew.

WOULD DEPRIVE BELGIUM OF HER CONGO POSSESSIONS

London, Aug. 18.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has written an eloquent protest to the Times on the misgovernment of the Congo Independent state. He urges the powers to convene a European conference to deprive Belgium of a trust so dreadfully abused, to make other arrangements for the proper government of the Congo and redress or revenge the wrongs inflicted upon its people.

BIBLES FOR C. B. & Q. PASSENGER TRAIN LIBRARIES

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road has adopted the practice of including Bibles in the supply of books furnished in the library departments of its limited trains. So far as known the Burlington and Pennsylvania are the only roads following the custom.

IN QUEST OF SISTER.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Price Williams is Here from Wales.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Price Williams is in the city, who left Ebbw Vale, in Wales, about 22 years ago to come to Utah. Mrs. Williams is located at room 317, Luxor hotel, or may be found at the Bureau of Information building, where any information concerning her sister will be thankfully received.

Louisa Price, the sister, received the gospel in the old country and emigrated to Utah about the year 1885 or 1886, along with a company of saints in charge of the Roberts brothers, who had been performing missionary work in Wales. She was able to emigrate at that time through funds received from the perpetual emigration fund. The Roberts brothers were natives of the Merthyr-Tydfil district. The names of her parents were William and Maria Price, the mother dying about 12 or 14 years ago in Monmouthshire. There were four brothers in the family, Benjamin, John, James, and Ephraim, and a younger sister, Elizabeth, who is now dead, besides the sister who is here and who was called "Polly."

Mrs. Williams is anxious to locate her sister Louisa if she is still living, or to ascertain in what part of the world she is now. Any information addressed to the Bureau of Information, or to room 317, Luxor hotel, will be appreciated by her.

MEETS DEATH BY INHALING POISON

Corydon W. Higgins Enters Apartments Where He Encounters Fatal Gas.

JANITOR FINDS BODY LATER.

Sad Ending of Married Life but Recently Begun—Young Wife Prostrated With Grief.

The lifeless body of Corydon W. Higgins, one of Salt Lake's most popular and respected young men, was found yesterday afternoon stretched across the threshold of the apartments in the Oxford flats on North Temple street, which were being prepared for occupancy by him and his bride of two months.

The death of Mr. Higgins in its circumstances forms one of the saddest tragedies to occur in Salt Lake. Unaware that the apartments in which he and his young wife were to make their home in a few days were being fumigated with hydrocyanic gas, Mr. Higgins went to the rooms yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock to inspect them, and walked into the poison-laden chamber. So deadly is its strength is hydrocyanic, that but a few inhalations of the gas will result in almost instant death.

Mr. and Mrs. Higgins, since their return from their honeymoon tour a month ago, have been occupying apartment No. 3 of the Oxford flats, which were prepared to receive them. Preparatory to their occupancy, the new apartments were being disinfected by the West Disinfecting company. Yesterday A. M. Rice, the agent of the disinfecting company called upon Mrs. Higgins and requested that she remain away from the apartments until 3:30 o'clock at least as the work of fumigation was to be done in the day. Mrs. Higgins spent the afternoon at the Orpheum theater, but Mr. Higgins had evidently been unaware of the warning for shortly after 1 o'clock he left his office to go to the flats.

The supposition is that he opened the door and with the first breath of the poisonous gas was gripped with insensibility and plunged forward to the floor to sink into death.

DEAD BODY FOUND.

The tragedy was not known until after 3 o'clock when Mr. Rice went to the apartments for the purpose of ventilating the rooms. When he found the body he dragged it into the hallway and attempted to revive Higgins, but failing sent for Dr. C. F. Wilcox. The condition of the body showed, however, that life had been extinct for two hours and that death had been almost instantaneous. Acting Coroner Stanley A. Hanks was summoned and after an examination ordered the body removed to the mortuary of Joseph Wm. Taylor.

One of the most tragic features of the death was the manner in which the young bride learned of her bereavement. On account of the work at the apartments Mrs. Higgins with her mother, Mrs. Thomas H. Atkins of 335 west Third North street, had attended the Orpheum, and it was not until 5 o'clock that she was advised of the death. The shock completely prostrated her and her condition required medical care.

WAS POPULAR HERE.

Corydon Higgins was well-known and was extremely popular in college circles and fraternities. He was born in Kansas April 5, 1885, and when but a boy came to Salt Lake with his father William C. Higgins. He graduated with honor from the Salt Lake High school in the class of 1905, and during his senior year was the editor of the Red and Black. He then entered the University of Utah, taking the mining course and won honor among his classmates there, being president of his class during his sophomore year and editor of the University Chronicle during his junior year. Higgins was an active and influential member of the Alpha Pi fraternity.

He left the university at the close of his junior year and since then has been associated with his father in the publication of the Salt Lake Mining Review, of which he was associate editor. Mr. Higgins was married June 16 of this year to Miss Carrie H. Atkins, also a well known graduate of the High school and University.

JUDGES ARE SELECTED.

Directors of State Fair Association Will Submit List to Governor.

At the meeting of the directors of the Utah State fair held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce building, the judges for the Inland Empire exposition were selected from the lists of those presented by the national live stock associations of the country, as being eligible for the positions. As soon as contracts are signed with those selected to act as judges of the various departments, their names will be made public. They will be all outside men, as it is thought that will give more satisfactory results. The names of about 25 new members of special committees, who live outside Salt Lake City, were selected to serve as members of the fair board, with the view of making it a still greater success. Their names were sent into the governor this morning for approval after which they will receive their appointments.

"The American Weekly," published at San Francisco, is preparing to make a great feature of the Utah State fair in an early issue. This week reached Secretary Ensign today in a letter from manager H. E. Munro, asking for photos of the grounds, officers and prize winners.

A letter has also been received from the American Coopeing company, which is in the construction and equipment of the new poultry house will be one of the best poultry show houses in the United States. The new exhibition rooms are all being ordered from the east, and in addition to being portable and collapsible they may be subdivided into small spaces to suit almost any requirement. In the Utah handicap running race of eight furlongs for a $500 purse, it was decided that all entrants must have resided in the state for at least 60 days, and must enter horses which cool under the classification of Utah stock.

The dog show, which promises to be bigger than ever this year, also received some consideration. F. L. Hansing, who will be supervisor, says that in respect to class and pedigree at least it will surpass any other show. It is said to be practically settled that the young bride learned of her bereavement. On account of the work at the apartments Mrs. Higgins with her mother, Mrs. Thomas H. Atkins of 335 west Third North street, had attend-
