THE GREAT PROBLEM

which is now being agitated is, How can the condition of the workingmen be ameliorated so that they will be enabled, as the truit of their labor, to enjoy not only the necessaries of life, out also the privileges and luxuries that are now almost wholly monopo-lized by the idle and wealthy? It is value to trust to governments or to abuses of monopoly are permitted to political economists to find a satisfac-tory solution to the problem. As Newton, by concentrated thought and in-vestigation, discovered the law of gravitation and made it of practical value, this question can only be worked out by those most interested and affected bending their minds and powers to the tisk before them. The workingmen of to day are being robbed by the rich, who revel in wealth, and rust in idlenesss. If a laborer earns $2, his composer takes one, while he who employer takes one, while he who carned the means is compelled to draz

to satisfy debt. In the eastern half of the country, in many places, such as coal mines, cotton mills, etc., children granaries of the land are overflowing with plenty. The class legislation of bogus reformers affords no relief, but binds the fetters more firmly. The social condition of the United States is one of perpetual panic with no sign of a future ending.
