THE BIG HEAD

You can cure it in no time by acting on your liver with Ballard's Peppermint. Isn't it worth trying for the absolute and certain relief you'll get? Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112 and 114 South Main Street, Salt Lake City, B.

PINK LINEN SUIT WITH DYED LACE.

Strawberry pink linen, a very beautiful as well as smart shade, was used for this dressy little affair seen at Longchamps. The heavy lace trimming, as well as the flat crocheted buttons, were dyed to match the linen shade exactly, and with the suit is worn a little tucked blouse of fine pink mull. A pink silk parasol and huge black hat complete this very Parisian costume.

In Woman's World.

Lovely woman is to be again beautified by the earring. The earring in all its varieties is with us again, and it has come to stay—probably as long as time, for it is now herald of the modern artistry added to it.

And all society is now agog over the designs, the beautiful cameo sets, the productions in Roman gold, the jet combinations and the thousand and one earrings shown by the jewelers to their fair patrons. It is almost an inconceivable variety that is shown, from diamond and pearl strands to the semi-precious stones of California, in a bewildering array of brilliancy.

'Tis the recrudescence of the earring! The earring has been used and known as an ornament to the human being since time immemorial, and by some of the people of the earth it has been deemed a sort of fetish against disease. Indeed, to this day the lower classes of Italy and of the lower Ragusan peninsula of Austria, among the people of the Balkans and the Turks it is considered a hygienic necessity to pierce the ear of man and woman alike in an effort to ward off possible disease. Of course, modern science does not admit that there can be any sort of merit in such an idea, and gradually the wearing of earrings by man is becoming a lost practice, but with woman it is different and, while of late years she has, in a measure, given up the earring, it cannot be denied that she did so reluctantly, and that now that it is going into vogue again, she will take to it furiously.

It cannot be denied that the earring is a charming adjunct to our make-up, and that it adds itself as a finishing touch to an otherwise unfinished picture as a most alluring complement. Woman has always hated the infliction of pain—that is, physical pain, and, while we are capable of sustaining a great deal of it ourselves, we do not like to think of its infliction upon others, and of late years the practice of piercing in order to have the ornamental appendages remain in place. It is as easy to put on and off as a hat

Inventive man has conquered this one great objection to the wearing of earrings. He has evolved a screw earring, which does not require the old method of piercing in order to have the ornamental appendages remain in place. It is as easy to put on and off as a hat and, in fact, much easier than some hats.

No more piercing of ears and blood letting and pain.

This was the forward step in civilization and now the clever designers of the world are to the fore with a new design for every day, for every hour and for every function.

The lady of quality today matches not only her eyes, but her gowns with her earrings, and at no time in the history of man has individual taste so governed womankind, and it is astonishing the amount of jewelry that is designed at home and then brought to the professional lapidary and jeweler to be made into shape for my lady's wear.

Jet is all the vogue in earrings with the widow, or other female mourner, and all old ladies, who are of the kind who have not decided to let go of life just because the frosts of age have crowned their heads, are wearing the most beautiful jet earrings.
