Erick Nelson, a Furnaceman at
The Bingham Con. Smelter,
Expires Suddenly.

EXACT CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN.

Thought, However, That He Was Killed by Coming in Contact With an Electric Wire.

(Special to the "News.")
Bingham Junction, July 13.—Erick Nelson, aged about 24 years, and a furnaceman at the Bingham Con. smelter, was found dead here this morning, in a dark place back of the furnaces. It is supposed the man met his death through coming in contact with an electric wire, but as there are no burns on his body, this theory is not very well established, and it may develop that he died from either heart trouble or apoplexy. Nelson was on the night shift when he met his fate, and his dead body was discovered shortly after 5 o'clock. He lived at Sandy, where he leaves a wife and two children. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Benson of the New York & Utah Paper company, to recover $5,000 alleged to be due on a contract for the sale of 50 shares of the stock of the company. It is alleged that defendants sold the stock to plaintiff as an investment, with the agreement in writing that if he should not be satisfied with the investment by Jan. 1, 1903, they would purchase it back from him at the price he paid. Plaintiff notified defendants 60 days before the above date that he was dissatisfied, and offered to return the stock. The defendants refused to take the stock, but later paid plaintiff $120 on it. Plaintiff asks judgment for the full amount, with interest from May 8, 1903.

OLD SALT LAKER COMMITTS SUICIDE.

N. B. Manning, Former Superintendent of Paving Here,
Destroys Himself.

WAS SICK AND DESPONDENT.

Found Dead on a Steamer in San Francisco—Took Carbolic Acid—
Statement by His Wife.

Word was received in Salt Lake today of the dramatic suicide in San Francisco of N. B. Manning, an engineer who was well known here in the early nineties. He had charge of the work of supervising the laying of the pavement through the business district, being in the employ in that capacity of the Culmer-Jennings Paving company. The story of his death is told in detail in the following newspaper clipping from the Sacramento Record-Union:

According to a press dispatch from San Francisco, Nelson B. Manning, the stationary engineer who for several years was chief engineer at the Street rump, committed suicide in a steamer of the steamer Weber at San Francisco some time Monday night, by swallowing carbolic acid. The telegram is as follows:

San Francisco, June 28.—A man supposed to be N. B. Manning, a steam engineer, killed himself by drinking carbolic acid last night aboard the steamer Captain Weber, which lies between San Francisco and Stockton. His body was found in his stateroom today by H. Auld, the steward. In one of his pockets was found a card of Local No. 10 of the International Union of Steam Engineers. The card was made out to N. B. Manning and showed that he had paid his dues to date. He left no word to explain his act. Deceased was about 45 years of age.

BREAKING THE NEWS.

Nelson B. Manning lived at 726 O street, where, it is reported, he last night broke the news to his wife, Catherine, and her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Jeffrey.

Mrs. Manning was greatly shocked at the news, though she said she had tried to prepare for the worst. She said:

"My husband had been in ill health for about two years, and while he was cheerful, I knew that he was sadly depressed. Since he quit work at the street rump, he had been employed on the city street roller, but the employment was not steady.

"A week ago today—last Tuesday—after he had had his dinner, he went out, and I supposed he had gone to the city hall to draw his money, that being pay day. He did not return, but a friend of ours telephoned us that he had told her he had heard of something to do in Suisun and had gone to that place.

"Until last Sunday we did not hear of him. On that day I had a telegram from a friend in San Francisco—Mrs. Williams—asking me if Mr. Manning had returned to his home in this city. NEWS FROM THE MISSING MAN.

"This (Tuesday) morning I received a letter from Mrs. Williams to the effect that my husband had stayed at her home three days, had then left, saying he would return to dinner, but that he had not done so. She said he was quite poorly when she last saw him.

"Mr. Manning's domestic life was pleasant, and there was no cause for his act except dependency on account of ill-health. I was prepared to hear the worst, because I had no word from him, and what I heard of him was discouraging. He had employment, though not steadily, but it was his ill-health that bore heavily upon his mind.

"I have no doubt that the man found his husband, because no one else would have had his card."

THE STEPPAUGHTER'S STATEMENT.

Mrs. C. E. Jeffrey, who was Mr. Manning's stepdaughter, corroborated the statement of her mother. Mr. Manning, she said, had been sick a long time and his sickness preyed upon his mind. She said she had expected to hear some bad news of him. Her husband, C. E. Jeffrey, who is a commercial traveler in the employ of Henderson & Longton, was at Chico, and Mrs. Jeffrey telephoned him an account of the suicide.

MEMBER OF ENGINEER'S UNION.

Nelson B. Manning was a member of the local International Union of Steam Engineers, No. 210. He had lived in this city for many years. He superintended the laying of the macadam surrounding Capitol park, and afterward was chief engineer of the 8 street sump pumping station. He held that position for several years, but about a year ago lost his place in the general clean-up of sump engineers and firemen made by the city board of trustees.

Since losing his place at the sump Engineer Manning was employed most of the time to operate the steam roller in this city.

The family of the deceased will take steps today to have the body brought to this city for interment.

AN OLD RESIDENT COMES BACK HOME

John Isaac, Now Secretary of the California Horticultural Commission.

LOOKING INTO UTAH FRUITS.

Says He Does Not Believe They Are
As Good Now as They Were
Years Ago.

John Isaac, secretary of the horticultural commission of California, is in Salt Lake today, meeting old friends and conferring with those who are able to give him a clear idea of horticulture as it has been developed in Utah.

Mr. Isaac is an old resident of Utah and a personal friend of Charles W. Fenrose, editor of the Deseret News, with whom he has spent part of the day. They met in London in 1883, and it was with a great deal of pleasure that the acquaintance was renewed this morning. Mr. Isaac came to Utah from England in 1886 and remained until 1874. He was an associate of Stehhouse during the latter's earlier journalistic adventures and was with the Tribune when that paper was first established. Later he became one of the editors and owners of the Utah Mining Gazette.

Upon leaving Utah, Mr. Isaac went to San Bernardino, Cal., and founded the "We have the Times" index. He has been a regular contributor to the Examiner and Chronicle of San Francisco and is well known in newspaper circles on the coast.

Some time ago Mr. Isaac was made secretary of the horticultural commission of his state and he is vitally interested in all questions relative to fruit culture. He remarked that he does not believe Utah has as fine fruits now as in early days, when "Mormon" missionaries were urged to send home or bring with them the very best quality of seeds obtainable.

"We have in California," said he, "the royal apple, undoubtedly the best fruit of the kind in the state. I am endeavoring to find out where it originated and am inclined to believe that it was introduced in California by 'Mormon' missionaries who brought it, probably from the gardens of Wilford Woodruff. At any rate I remember President Woodruff taking me into his garden and showing me the same fine specimen. It came originally from the Royal Palace gardens at London, from whence it got its name."

A very interesting experience of the visitor was his discovery of a lot of boxelder trees which he planted on Third South street in 1864. He quickly secured a kodak and made snap-shots of them, which, he says, will be framed and hung conspicuously in his office.

Mr. Isaac expects to remain here for about two weeks visiting old friends.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Ex-State Senator Abel John Evans is in Salt Lake today. He is very enthusiastic over the nomination of Judge Parker and believes the Democratic party will elect him without doubt. Utah county Republicans, he says, have been buying the Democrats about the gold standard developments at St. Louis, but Mr. Evans does not believe they will make much thunder out of it, inasmuch as their national platform is a good deal more emphatic against silver than Judge Parker's letter. As to the governorship, Senator Evans said he knew only that Utah county would have the name of Wm. M. Roylance to present for that nomination before the state convention.

James M. Campbell, of the Third precinct, announced himself today as a candidate for the lower house of the Legislature on the Republican ticket. Mr. Campbell is at present in the office of County Treasurer Carbis and is making an active campaign.

The new quarters of the Young Men's Democratic club in the Atlas block present a scene of activity today. The carpets and rugs are being laid, electric fixtures installed and most of the furniture has been received. The Women's Democratic club made application this morning for a room in which to hold their meetings. They will get it. The formal opening of the headquarters will take place on Monday evening, if it is possible by that time to get the rooms in perfect order.

The Republican state committee having lost the ratio of apportionment to the state convention as one delegate for every 60 votes cast for Howell, the following by counties will be as follows:

SHORT CIRCUIT.

The street cars in this city were stopped for 20 minutes yesterday afternoon by a peculiar interference with the high tension wires on Thirty-first street near the foothills at Ogden. The heavy windstorm blew the wire of a tree across the wires, short circuiting them and at the same time the wind blew down the wires of the Telluride company, and the Logan line. The Big Cottonwood system and the steam plant however, closed up the gap, and the services were quickly resumed. Singular to relate, neither the wires nor to limb of the tree were burned.

REASONS WHY MINERS

DID NOT SEE PRESIDENT.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 13.—Secy. Loeb today explained why he refused the miners' delegation from Pennsylvania to go to Sagamore to see the president, when they came here yesterday. Mr. Loeb said there is a rule here that no delegations shall be received by the president unless they have arranged an appointment with the president. This rule has been strictly adhered to during the stay of the president here, and it will be enforced during the remainder of the time the president is here for the summer.

Mr. Loeb said the labor leaders came to Oyster Bay and took him unawares when they demanded to see the president. Had the men announced previously that they would be here on Tuesday Mr. Loeb says an audience with the president might have been arranged for the delegation, but under the circumstances Mr. Loeb says he could do nothing but refuse to allow them to see the president.
