

HARRY THAW KILLS STANFORD WHITE

Scene of the Tragedy was the Madison Square Roof Garden.

TROUBLE WAS OVER A WOMAN.

"You Have Ruined My Home," He Said, Drew Pistol and Shot Him.

New York, June 26.—Perfectly calm, Harry Kendall Thaw, who last night shot and killed Stanford White, a prominent architect, faced a coroner and a number of police officials early today, absolutely refusing to make any extended statement as to the motive which led to the tragedy on the roof of Madison Square Garden at the first night's performance of "Manon Lescaut" which was being sung to a close.

While Thaw in his immaculate evening dress sat in a cell in the tenderloin police station, detectives were securing the city for his wife, formerly Evelyn Florence Nesbitt, before her arrival at a chorus girl and an artist's model.

Mrs. Thaw disappeared as her husband was being hurried from the playhouse by a policeman and after throwing her arms around his neck and crying: "Oh, Harry! Harry! Why did you do it, Harry?"

She is said to have entered an automobile and then whirled away before the crowd or police recovered from the excitement caused by one of the most sensational tragedies in New York's criminal history.

It was after 2 o'clock this morning when Coroner Dooley, after viewing White's body, ordered it removed to an undertaking establishment and then gave permission to have it taken to the palatial White residence in Gramercy square.

CORONER QUESTIONS THAW.

The coroner then went to the police station and questioned Thaw. He asked the young man if he had any statement to make.

"No," replied Thaw. "I don't care to say anything, coroner; but I wish you would notify my lawyers, Mr. DeLaford and Mr. Longfellow."

"They have been notified; they are out of town," the coroner replied.

"Then I wish you would notify Joseph H. Choate or Judge Hornblower," Thaw said.

All this time Thaw was pacing up and down in his cell. He had put on his long dress overcoat and was wearing his straw hat as if expecting to secure his release when his counsel should come.

Capt. Hodgins said he had talked with Thaw and the latter acted in a dazed manner.

SEEMED OUT OF HIS HEAD.

"I thought he seemed out of his head," said the captain. "No further statement was secured."

Thaw was unable to reach his counsel early today and finally consented to accept Daniel O'Reilly, who will represent him in court this morning.

POLICEMAN DEBES' ACCOUNT.

Policeman Harry Debes, who arrested Thaw, gave this account of the shooting:

"I found the people almost crazy, trying to get out of the place. I jumped into the mob and saw a woman lying down. She had fainted, and then I saw White.

"I said to Thaw, 'Did you do it?' and he replied: 'Yes, I did. I did it. I ruined my life or wife.' I don't know which he said, but it sounded like that. Then he went on saying: 'That man ruined my home. I guess he won't ruin any more homes. Is he dead?' I told him he was, and he said he was damn glad of it and he was glad he 'made a good job of it.'"

WIFE KISSED HIM.

"When I arrested Thaw, a woman, who I believe was his wife, came up to me and kissed him and said: 'I did not think you'd do it in that way. It is all right. It is all right.' Thaw told her: 'Then he whispered something into his ear. I don't know what she said to him.'"

DOCTOR CURED OF ECZEMA

Maryland Physician Cures Himself of Eczema with Cuticura Remedies. Prescribes Them and Has Cured Many Cases Where Other Formulas Have Failed—Dr. Fisher Says:

CUTICURA REMEDIES POSSESS TRUE MERIT

"My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies, and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for sixteen years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. You are at liberty to publish this letter, or any part of it. I remain, very truly yours, G. M. Fisher, M. D., Big Pool, Md., May 24, 1935."

CUTICURA—THE SET, $1. Complete Treatment for Every Humor from Pimples to Scrofula

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle; dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal; and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent Pills to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set, costing but one dollar, is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, and scaly skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

"Down in the hall and in the street a lot of women gathered about us and shook hands with Thaw and sympathized with him. Why did you do it? Why did you do it? they kept asking."

CONFERENCE WITH THAW.

Capt. Hodgins, Sergeant McCann, Lawyer Daniel O'Reilly and Burr McIntosh held a conference with Thaw shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, but if he told them anything they decided to divulge its import. White's body, covered by a sheet, laid in the spot where it had fallen until early morning. The coroner, after an examination, said that one bullet had hit White between the shoulders and had perforated his lungs. The second had entered the left eye and had come out on the right side of the head. This seemed to indicate, according to the official that after the first shot in the back White had tried to wheel on his assassin and had turned only half around, as the bullet literally went through the corner of his head in a glancing direction. That the second shot did not hit another in the crowd of more than a thousand persons present was remarkable.

It was reported this morning that Mrs. Thaw had been heard to direct that she be driven to 148 West Forty-ninth street. She was not found at this address, however.

CROWD AT STATION.

Well into 4 o'clock this morning, a big crowd surrounded the police station, with every little while some alleged friend of Thaw trying to get to see him, until a special detail of officers was required to keep the crowd in check.

Lawrence White, son of the murdered man, was informed of the tragedy about midnight. He went to Madison Square Garden, and after arranging for the care of the body, summoned his father's partner, Mr. McKim, and both drove away. It is believed they went to a Long Island town where Mrs. White is, to break the news to her.

TRAGEDY NOT UNEXPECTED.

The tragedy, while a shock to the friends of both men, was not altogether a surprise to them. They knew, and have known for several years, that against the architect Thaw had the most bitter feeling. It dated back to the time when he first fell in love with the young woman who now is his wife. He made no secret of this feeling.

WHITE WAS WARNED.

It had come to the ears of White, and his friends had often discussed it with him, some had even warned him to be careful but, declaring that there was no reason for the feeling, the architect went about his business as usual. Mr. and Mrs. Thaw lived in Pittsburgh, and the incident was first becoming forgotten until the early part of this spring, when the young couple came to this city and took apartments. The warnings were renewed, then, on the part of some, but at all these the architect laughed.

BEGINNING OF TRAGEDY.

The beginning of the tragedy last night was in the Cafe Martin at the dinner hour. It was on the roof a few minutes after 11 o'clock in the first scene, Mr. and Mrs. Thaw, her father and another man were dining together when Mr. White and two other men entered and took places nearby. According to Mr. Thaw's own words to a reporter, he did not know of the presence of the architect until the arrival of his wife attracted his attention. He asked a question, to be answered by a note, saying:

"That dirty blackguard is here."

WHITE GOES TO ROOF GARDEN.

White left the cafe soon afterward, visiting his studio in the tower of Madison Square Garden, which is one of the many buildings he designed, then going to his club, and finally to the roof garden. Mr. and Mrs. Thaw were there. Mrs. Thaw had gone back of the scenes to visit some friends, and immediately her husband began pacing up and down the floor. It was while Thaw was on the western side of the building that White came in, sat down, chatted a moment with Harry Stevens, and then as Stevens left looked at the stage. Thaw watched him a moment from one of the entrances, then began to throw his way forward.

OPPOSITE HIS VICTIM.

Without looking to the right or left, bracing his weapon, throwing all his weight forward, he walked slowly toward the table, until he leaned forward over its edge opposite his victim.

As he did this White recognized him and made a move as if to arise. But there was no time. With some muttered-impression the young man, drawing a large automatic revolver, began firing. Three shots rang out, but two took effect, and White was dead.

is here. Then I turned and saw that fat scoundrel sitting there, big and healthy, and then I saw her and how she was looking at me.

"Did White make any motion to attack you?"

"What?" said Mr. Thaw. The question was repeated. Thaw nodded his head in the affirmative.

From his pocket when he was searched there was taken a leather revolver such as policemen carry their weapons in. He had $165 in cash and several blank checks, besides a gold cigarette case.

THAW NOT ANXIOUS.

Mr. Thaw did not display the least anxiety about his own welfare nor about the effects of his shots. He never asked a question about White. He did not ask any questions of the police at all. He seemed unconcerned as if he had been a chauffeur instead of facing an accusation of murder.

As he talked with a reporter he reverted again and again to his wife's attack of shiver when she saw White in Martin's.

"That poor, delicate little thing, all nervous and shaking like a reed," he said, half to himself. "And there he was, the big healthy scoundrel!"

William Thaw, a nephew of the man charged with Stanford White's killing, was in the city yesterday and left for Pittsburgh in an evening train.

EVELYN NESBITT.

Evelyn Nesbitt, who became Thaw's wife in April, 1925, is a flower girl in "The Treador" company. They were married in Pittsburgh by Rev. William E. McKim of the Third Presbyterian church. Thaw's mother, Mrs. William Thaw, a widow of a banker, was present. Miss Nesbitt is the daughter of C. J. Holman of Oakland, a suburb of Pittsburgh.

MEET ACTRESS IN PARIS.

Pittsburgh, June 25.—Harry Kendall Thaw is about 36 years of age and is the son of the late William Thaw, who was vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh. He is a graduate of the University of Western Pennsylvania, and when in Pittsburgh made his home with his mother at Lyndhurst, Beechwood boulevard, in the east end of this city. Since his graduation from college and the attainment of his majority Thaw has lived little in Pittsburgh. Much of his time has been spent abroad, and he was in Paris that he met Evelyn Nesbitt, a Broadway actress, who was married, and who was with him when he did the shooting tonight.

Harry Thaw is a brother of J. Copely Thaw, the Countess of Yarmouth, who was Alice Thaw, and also of Mrs. Gen. Lauder Carnegie of Cumberland, Pa. He is also a brother of Benjamin Thaw.

Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry, sailed for Europe Saturday on one of the slow steamers. She is on her way to visit her daughter, the Countess of Yarmouth. Harry and his bride were booked to sail on Wednesday of this week. No reason for the shooting can be assigned by friends of the family in this city that could be reached tonight. The Thaw residence on Beechwood boulevard did not respond to telephone calls, and later it was learned that it was closed except for caretakers. While attending the university in this city, Thaw was a student of quiet habits. After he attained his majority he developed a fancy for traveling, and after a short residence in New York left for Paris.

His prospective trip upon which he was to start on Wednesday was for the purpose of joining his mother in Europe and visiting his sister, the Countess of Yarmouth.

VICTIM WAS PROMINENT.

New York, June 25.—Stanford White was a native of New York, having been born in 1856. He was educated at the University of New York and received his architectural training with Charles G. Gombrell and H. H. Richardson, being the chief assistant of the latter in the construction of the famous Trinity church, Boston, Dr. Phillips Brooks' church.

Since 1881 the firm of McKim, Mead & White designed among other structures, Madison Square garden, the Century and Metropolitan clubs, the University of New York, the Washington arch, the University of Virginia and the pedestal for the principal statues of St. Gaudens, the sculptor.

He was a member of the Municipal society, New York Botanical Garden society, Metropolitan Museum of Art, Zoological society, University club, the American Institute of Architects, the Racquet, Kismet, Players' Century, Manhattan, New York Yacht, Union Club, the Knickerbocker, League clubs, and the American Fine Arts society. He was also vice president of the Madison Square Garden.
