EVENING NEWS Wednesday Denton

IN MEMORY OF PRESIDENT B. YOUNG. A mighty one has gone. From evil found relief. Many hearts are stricken With unutterable grief. The "Wise and Good" has gone to rest Among the legions of the blest. Many feel the stroke In sympathetic pain Asking of each other

"Shall we see his like again."
One who would do what duty claimed
Regardless whether praised or blamed. His words like living fire For many years have flow'd, The fruit of inspiration
Which heaven on him bestow'd.
Untimeh log for the truth he stood,
His motto "Universal good,"

The Co-operative Blacksmith Shop, build and repair spring wagons, make and repair springs, etc. Like all the truly great Who have visited the world, At him mangnant hea Unceasingly were huri'd.
But prudent, resolute and brave
He never was to fear a slave. His labors now are o'er In this the mortal state,

He mingles with the just Who full fruition wait-With them among the spirit throng lie moves Redesption's cause along-Gone from his bitter fors With all their words of gall, Though much they slandered him He triumphed o'er them all. They might as soon his glory mar Sell dry goods, boots and shoes, hats and caps, family groceries, flour, feed and grain, double-barreled shotguns and gene-ral merchandise, and buy dried fruit.

As blot from sight the morning star. Gone from the carcless once
Who heeded not his voice,
Built counsel them no more They now must take their choice.
While all the warnings be has given
Will clear him in the sight of heaven. Gone from his many friends But for a little space, Those fathful to the truth Again will see his face,

The treasurer of the Territory New Mexico can neither read or write, still he manages to receive and pay out the monies of the Territory with percision and accuracy. The wise man changes his mind, the ignorant man will not. The former will acknowledge his error and correct it, but the pertinacity with which the latter adheres to his opinion, always bears a just proportion to his ignorance.

Never attempt to introduce two persons to each other before making sure of their names. A. Wisconsin lady tried it the other evening, and forgetting the names of both, while in the very act, she became so chagrined and excited that she fell wines and liquors, wholesale and down and died of heart disease. A farm laborer near Seilhac in France, while plowing somewhat deeper than usual, found his plow arrested by what he thought a stump. It proved to be an ox hide filled with gold pieces of the reign of Francis I., worth $60,000 for their weight alone, without reckoning their special value as rare coins. (President B. People observed that a certain gentleman passed to and fro without paying. Being asked to explain, the fair gate keeper smiled, and said "she never tolled her love." (At Salt Lake Herald office, East Temp)

General: You are right, madame. In these days it is desirable even for ladies to know something of strategical movements, and I am sure I shall be most happy to enlighten you on any point. Lady: Tell me then, General, when a battle becomes imminent, which begins-friend or foe? (General col-

This good story is told of Spurgeon. His habit is to shut himself up on Saturday. On Saturday a man called and insisted on seeing Sell dry goods, groceries, hardware, glass and crockery ware, and merchandise gen-erally, wholesale and retail. him. "Tell him," said the visitor to the servant, "that a servant of the Lord wishes to see him." The message was delivered and the following returned: "Tell him that I am engaged with his Master."

Sell dry goods, groceries, carpets, hard-ware, crockery and glassware, boots and shoes, hats and caps, leather and findings, and all forts of general merchandise, whole-sale and retail. A Virginian has just compiled a genealogy of the decendants of Pocahontas. During the course of his labors he incidentally gathered the pedigrees of nearly all the prominent families of Virginia, and his investigations reveal the singular fact that nearly every fsmily in the State of any duration of residence may be linked lineally or collaterally. A poor tailor, dunning for an old debt the other day, wrote as follows: "Dear Jim—This little account has been standing for seven years, and I think it is high time was paid." To which Jim replied on the same sheet of paper, while Snip's boy was waiting; "Dear Sam—I don't; and may a difference of opinion never alter friendship."

The old Scottish hearers were The old Scottish hearers were very particular on the subject of their iministers preaching old sermons. A group of parishioners was observed to be somewhat merry on their way home. The minister asked the cause of this. "Indeed, sir" replied the beadle, "they were saying ye had preached an auld sermon to-day, but I tackled them, for I tauld them it was no an auld sermon, for the minister had preached it not six months syné."

A refined man is never "loud" in his dress, for refinement is allied to simplicity and a judicious and taste-ful employment of the means of the good and happiness which it has at command. It seeks to divest iself of superfluities, and aspires continually to the utmost possible purity. Refinement leads to personal cleanliness and elegant neatness, good taste and simplicity. Needless display and bashfulness are alike repugnant to its spirit.

Human nature is a beautiful and fragrant thing. If an employer whose profits permit him to employ one hundred men, discharges fifty of them and doubles the wages of the remaining fifty, all is pleasant in his factory. On the contrary, if he retains the hundred giving them only the pay of fifty, there is discontant, hard language, perhaps a strike. The man who is willfing to strike. The man who is willing to have his own pay cut down in order that another man may have imployment is dead, and his grave forty feet deep. — Louisville lousier-Journal.
