

EDITORIAL NOTES.

This is a land of liberty. But no "Mormon" in Utah must shoulder a gun on the anniversary of American Independence.

The Twenty-fourth of July is the great "Mormon" celebration day, and this year promises a time of jubilation and rejoicing long to be remembered in Israel.

Not only the ladies have an advantage over the gentlemen during this hot weather, they can switch on their back hair and hang it on a nail while they cook.

The Constitution says: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." A one-man-power gubernatorial proclamation says: "No Mormon citizen shall bear arms on the Fourth of July."

"Ought we not to go into spasms of enthusiasm over the 'Glorious Fourth,' with a vivid remembrance of a former 'Independence Day,' when Federal soldiers were brought into this city with loaded weapons to prevent American citizens from carrying their empty muskets in a procession?"

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy has been conferred upon Miss Alice Bennett, M. D. of Philadelphia, by the old University of Pennsylvania. She is the first woman to receive a degree from that institution. She has been a professor in the Philadelphia Medical College for five years, and recently was placed in charge of the new Pennsylvania hospital for the insane. Woman's cause prospers.

The selection of Medford, Mass., have hit on a new way of putting down drunkenness. They have voted that the names of all persons who have been convicted of drunkenness during the past six months, and all persons convicted thereof in the future shall have their names posted in every licensed place, and the proprietors notified not to sell liquor to them under penalty of revocation of license. What a sensation and a howl would be the consequence of such a rule in this city?

The ravages of the army worm and other pests form the subject of a long article in the Brooklyn Eagle, which refers also to the terrible energy of the western cyclones, the burning forests, and the insect armies, and likens these modern afflictions to the plagues of Egypt. Long Island has been afflicted with four kinds of insect devourers, the potato beetle, the rose bug, the apple tree plague and the army worm. The last it appears is the worst though the others are overwhelming and lethal. It comes nobody knows where, but nothing stops its march, and desolation is the mark of its journey.

Bret Harte, who is one of the diplomatic corps of the United States in Great Britain, does not seem to sense the dignity which is supposed to attach to his position. The following handbill is in circulation in the old country, connected with an announcement of the performance of "The King of Shakers" and some other traveling mountebanks: "Brighton Aquarium. Saturday afternoon next, at 3 o'clock. Important notice. Engagement of Bret Harte, the renowned American humorist, and author of the 'Heavenly Chimes,' etc., who will give his celebrated lecture on the Argonauts of '49. An illustration of early Californian life, and the company's band. Admission, 1 shilling; stalls (numbered and reserved), 2s.; unreserved seats, 1s."

It is a question now whether Edison, "the wonderful inventive genius," has ever brought forth anything original. His new separator, if not a plagiarism is certainly not unknown to smelting experts, and a correspondent of the Scientific American, after seeing a description of Edison's "invention" in that paper says: "A device absolutely identical with this has been in use for the past ten or fifteen years by the smelter works at Chester, Hampden County, Mass. I there saw it in use myself in November, 1876, and was informed, I think by Mr. Ames, that it was patented, and that no valid patent could be granted upon it by reason of its long continued public use."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

The strange epidemic which on June the 15th suddenly attacked the people of North Adams, Massachusetts, has given rise to many speculations. Out of a population of six thousand, about one thousand persons were affected. They were seized with dizziness and nausea, followed by violent vomiting and purging, and in some cases delirium supervened. The malady seems to have been confined to a strip of country about three miles wide but several miles in length, and the number affected outside and inside the town amounted to about fifteen hundred. It was not fatal but extremely exhausting, reaching its climax in about twenty-four hours.

The cause was at once attributed to the water supply, and prominent journals have made the announcement the subject for long leaders on the necessity of pure water, and the noxious effects of drinking from springs or wells into which fecal matter has percolated through the soil. But investigation shows that while quite a number of persons who used the water said to be tainted escaped the malady, others who did not use it were attacked.

From this it would seem that the disturbance might be attributable to atmospheric rather than to aqueous causes. But such is only an opinion, and the affair is surrounded with mystery. We ought not to be surprised at new and previously unheard of diseases sweeping through the land or affecting certain localities, after the predictions concerning these things which have been uttered by the prophets of old and revealed anew in our own times. The Prophet Brigham Young has frequently referred to them, and within the past year President John Taylor has also in forcible language warned the people of just such events to come.

The North Adams epidemic is but a very small affair in comparison with calamities that are impending. The tribulations and judgments of the latter days, about which our sages have testified throughout all civilized world, are at hand. They will, we doubt, be accounted for by scientists and others who do not acknowledge the hand of the Lord, in a manner satisfactory to themselves, and may be traceable to what are called natural causes. But they will be sorrowful facts all the same, and a literal fulfillment of prophecy and divine warning.

All that has been written and spoken under the influence of the spirit of revelation concerning the tribulations of the latter times is about to receive its fulfillment, and among them are "diseases which will buffet the skill of the wisest physicians." It is declared that "judgment will commence at the house of God," so that the righteous will "scarcely escape." Therefore the Saints need not think that the danger will not come nigh unto them. But by a faithful course, living by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God, keeping their covenants sacred and regarding the laws and words of wisdom communicated to them, they will "stand in holy places and be not moved," and the destroyer will pass by them as the angel that slew the first-born of Egypt and touched not the households where the blood was sprinkled on the lintel posts. And while the power that layeth waste stalks through the land and the convulsions of nature and society and human governments spread dismay and terror, the wise will understand, and discerning and acknowledging the hand of the Lord in all things, they will behold the fulfillment of His word and be prepared for the coming of earth's rightful king, the redemption of Israel and the great consummation. Who is so blind that he cannot discern the signs of the times?

GENEROUS ENDORSEMENT.

The nomination of General Hancock seems to give universal satisfaction and in most cases genuine delight to the Democrats throughout the country, while not a few respectable Republicans admit the strength of the Cincinnati ticket, and eulogize the distinguished soldier whose name graces its head. Among these are Generals Sherman and Sheridan, comrades in arms of the Democratic standard bearer, who though "on the other side" in politics are yet generous and truthful enough to bear testimony of his worth. General Sherman, in answer to a question as to what he thought of the nomination, said that he never discussed political questions or merits of candidates "but," added he, "if you will only sit down and write the highest praises of the character of General Hancock as an officer and a gentleman, and say all the good things capable of being said of his personal character, I will cheerfully attach my signature to it." Gen. Phil Sheridan said: "I am not in politics; but Gen. Hancock is a good and great man. The Democrats have not made any mistake this time. They have nominated an excellent and a strong ticket."

More of the Mississippi inundation.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 1.—The news of another break has occurred in the levee near the first and second levees pouring through with great velocity. It is now said backwater will not wash away the wheat which is soaked and stacked, and that the levee breakers have been apprehended several days and farmers have driven their live stock to the bluff several miles east, also up the levee to the city and other places of safety. The river is now falling and if a rapid decline follows nearly all the corn and much of the cut wheat can be saved, but if the overflow lasts more than three days the loss will be total. The breakers have embraced fully a quarter of a million acres of highly cultivated and the most fertile bottom land in the State, more than half of which is in wheat. Many large farms there are owned by citizens of this city and should the overflow continue their losses will be very heavy.

Murder and Suicide.

San Francisco, July 1.—A Visalia dispatch says: Last night Charles Oellar shot Nellie Brady in a dance house, immediately afterwards shooting himself. Both died instantly. Oellar brought the girl from San Francisco recently as a mistress, forced her to support him by leading a life of shame and her desertion of him prompted the deed.

Train Collision.

Chicago, July 1.—A street bound train on the C. & N. W. R. R. this morning struck a cow on the track, near Mendota, and one passenger car and a sleeper were derailed, and about 15 passengers more or less seriously injured. Several persons were killed.

Inter-Oceanic Washington special.

Washington, July 1.—The Inter-Oceanic Washington special says: The Secretary of the Interior has accepted the advice of his old friend and patron saint, and has left Washington about the middle of the day.
