Morning Post has joined the ily Mail in attacking the ministry manding the reconstruction of cabinet, but this campaign has not ade any progress outside the newsoffices The party whips smile ulously whenever it is suggested that the government is in danger. The Standard, which has neither hot nor fits, represents the conservative ity more accurately than any other nglish journal, and it has not yet lost What is evipresence of mind. t to all observers is that the loss th without a second attempt ving the army across the Tugewould be more discreditable than a resh reverse of Buller's forces, and hat public confidence in the governwould be fatally impaired. John tull is, indeed, in a bad temper, and in to mood for explanations from any What he wants is news from the front, and under the censorship he gets little or nothing. The military writers for the press have lost their audiences, and the vet-erans at the clubs talk to blank walls when they explain that Buller probably in motion Warren's division on a ping movement east of Colenso, which depends for success upon secrecy and that it will probably end in the apture of a large portion of the Boer arce. Equally indifferent to details are the groups of club men gathering out the croakers who assert that Buller is waiting to discover by hook or crook where the enemy's guns are incealed, or to straighten out his mule transport service, or to get Lord Rob-rts' opinion before striking another No Englishman wishes to bethat Gen. Buller is waiting for anything except the chance to defeat the enemy by a strong attack and fine strategic combination that Lord Methuen's health has completely broken down. How long has this fact been within the knowledge of the war office? The London Morning Post's military expert observes:

There is a weapon with which the mobile Boers in certain cases can be held fast-the spade. The British game is to put a line of trenches along their front and prolong it around one of their flanks. Gen. Sherman used to drive back Gen. Johnston in this way, having himself the superior force. Gen. Buller's force may not be superior to that confronting him, but as soon as his men have dug themselves trenches a small party of them can keep back a large party of Boers. His mounted men can be used to push the lines beyond and round the Boer flank, being relieved as soon as they have won a position by infantry able to hold it.

"This would in ordinary cases end in forcing the retreat of the Boers. In Natal where, if they retreat, they free Ladysmith, it would bring on the de-cisive battle under conditions less un-favorable to the British than those of the 15th of December."

Chicago, Jan. 11.--A special cable to the Chicago Tribune from London says: Lieut. General Lord Methuen, commanding the column advancing to the relief of Kimberley, is to be relieved of his command within two weeks. Later he will be sent to Capetown and eventually ordered home. When he reaches England he will be retired. These facts have been confirmed by an official of the war office. Lord Methuen's case is a sad one. Always a man of rather frail physique, although a clever boxer and an all around sportsman, his constitution be-gan to show signs of breaking down almost immediately after he took command of his division.

Ten days after the battle of Belmont, Wolseley suggested to the offi-Gen. cials of the war office that Methuen be relieved. His advice was not heeded. The wisdom of the aged but keen commander-in-chief of the British army is now realized to the fullest ex-tent by the war officials who scoffed it his suggestion.

Friends of Lord Methuen insist he is only in broken health; that the strain of many campaigns has shattered his naturally nervous system.

Those who know the circumstances and the situation on Modder river equally well and who are willing to state facts plainly, say that Methuen's mind is unbalanced.

Constant proof of this has been coming to the notice of the officials of the war office for two weeks past. The commander of the Modder river forces has bombarded the government with some of the most remarkable messages ever received from a general in action. One received a few days ago, is a fair sample of the rest. It contained just three words: Darkness after dawn.

It is stated by those acquainted with the inner workings and plan of camthe inner workings and plan of cam-paign adopted by the war office that Lord Kitchener, the hero of Omdur-man, who with Lord Roberts arrived at Capetown last night, will proceed immediately to Modder river. He may not take active field command of the troops, but will put the column in working order again and then assign some one else, probably Gen. Colvilie, to take Methuen's place. Lord Methuen, in addition to his other eccentricities, has quarreled with a number of officers under him. Three of them, Col. Arthur Paget, Col. Gough and Captain Campbell, he ordered home. They arrived in London today. he ordered Col. Gough is seeking a vindication by court martial. When the enemy opened fire, Lord Wauchope, our brave general, who was killed, turned to us and said: 'Don't blame me, lads.' We hear he remon-strated with Methuen before we left camp about the plans for the battle, but Methuen only told him to obey orders.' Wauchope, no doubt, went out to find death," writes Sergeant Gray, 'when such a disastrous fire opened. He had previously shouted to the Ar-gyll Highlanders: 'Don't blame me for this. I received my orders and had them.' With proper handling to obey we could have cleared the Boers out in two hours. As it was, we were taken into a butcher's shop and left there." Dozens of other letters are printed, all of the same tone, So far as known there is no insanity in Methuen's family back of the present generation, but it is generally un-derstood all three of his sisters have been backward from childhood.

A dispatch to the World from London

England's present situation is due ore to trouble within the British lines than without, declare the expert military writers for the London morning newspapers, who say more things in private than the editors allow to get ito print.

Col. Gough, who commanded the cavdetachment in the battle of Magersfontcin, is in London, pressing for a court martial upon Lord Methuen's re-port that he declined to carry out orrs given him by the general in charge. Gough has been temporarily placarded and urged to postpone his personal demands until the war situation is more settled.

Gen. Yule, who conducted the retreat from Dundee after Gen. Symons' death. is also in London, but in the strictest seclusion. He is suffering, it is said, from mental collapse caused by his at-tempts to follow and save the troops which were in deadly peril from trying to hold the advanced posts in Natal without sufficient strength of cavalry and artillery.

The London newspapers without making any direct charge, make an-nouncements that Gen. Buller is not in good health.

It is known here that war officers receive little if any information from him directly, while Lady Buller gets a message every day from her husband briefly announcing that he is well. The gossips urge that this is exactly the step a thoughtful husband would take eassure his wife if he was not up to the mark.

The uncensored mail reports assert that Gen. Gatacre was sitting in the Molteno rallway station with his head in his hands bewalling the repulse of his troops when the general in command of the communications first reported the disaster to the Suffolk regiment, under Gen. French's command.

The first task of Lords Roberts and ener, who arrived in Capetown last Wednesday night, must be, the war critics urge, to rearrange the generals charge of the various British forces so that all may be brought up to an effective fighting point.

Gen. Hector McDonald and Gen. to South Africa. The war experts insist privately that neither Lord Rob. erts nor Lord Kitchener will take on the res of Lord Methuen or Sir Redvers but it is suggested that the two als from India will be sent to sude or ald Methuen and Buller, the new commanders now at wn will make an effort to throw nforcements toward Colesberg or Sterkstroom and then, reverting to the original plan of campaign, one or the other of them will attempt to unite Gat-acre's and French's forces and move against the Boers through the Orange

The London press is considerately suppressing the true state of affairs so far as Methuen's aliment is concerned, but the papers do not hesitate to print the hard facts about the battle of Magersfontein, which are just reaching London through the mails, all of which go to show, in the language of an offi-cer, that "the attack was that of a holders of Astor property in this city whose leases expire on May 1, 1900, that the ground rents will be raised from $350 a year to $750.

The rentals shortly to be increased are, for most part, on property belonging to John Jacob Astor. Many of the lease-holders have protested to the Astor agents, but they were told to make whatever complaints they had in writing and these would be forwarded to

Many tenants have been in possession of the property for from twenty to forty years, having bought on a mortgage and succeeded in paying off nearly if not all of the mortgage only to find themselves at an old age in a fair way to be deprived of the savings

The greater number affected by the increase have houses in the territory bounded by Avenue A to First avenue and Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets. The houses are, for the most part, four story tenements, twenty years old, and lacking in modern improvements. The landlords consequently have difficulty in securing tenants. The rentals for these houses average $1,500 a year when all the rooms and the stores on the ground floors are constantly occupied. With the ground rental of $50 now demanded and $300 a year taxes, which must be paid by the lease-holders, there is left $750 a year to the owners, from which repairs must be deducted. Said one tenant yesterday: Fifteen years ago I paid $14,000 for this property when the ground rental was $350 a year I paid out $1,000 in improvements and have since spent thousands in keeping the place in repair. Now that the Astors have raised my ground rent, I am caught in a trap from which there is no escape. We lease-holders are ruined and there is no hope for us."

Another owner said: "We told the Astor agents we would buy the ground. We were answered that the property was not for sale under any circumstances. We are jani-tors for the Astors and nothing else." Charles Lutz, president of the Tax Payers' association of the Seventeenth ward, in which the property lies, said that the increase in the ground rentals would further tend to depreciate property in the neighborhood and would prove the ruin of many of the poorer lease holders.

Bryan and Expansion.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.-In an interview today, W. J. Bryan said: "I am a firm believer in the enlargement and extension of the limits of the Republic. I do not mean the extension by the addition of contiguous territory nor to limit myself to that. "Whenever there is a people's intelligent enough to form a part of this Re-public, it is my belief that they should be taken in. Wherever there is a people who are
