

OF COURSE POLICE KNOW OF GAMBLING

One Ernest A. White of Woodland, Summit County, Tells His Experiences.

CAUGHT RED HANDED IN ACT

Officer Walks In On Game and Walks Out Again—Dealer Says It Is Fixed at Station.

That the police are in collusion with the gambling element and are in hand and glove with the Commercial street harpies has been asserted time and time again and never successfully disputed, despite the spasms of virtue on the part of the Tribune prior to election time.

The latest accuser of the "American" party's lack of faith is one Ernest A. White who writes to the "News" from Woodland, Summit county, and tells of his experiences on Commercial street recently. Mr. White admits that he sought a card game and found it in the rear of a saloon. He avers that while the players were seated around the table with considerable money in plain sight a policeman who answered to the name of Ben walked in, took in the situation, walked right out again. The dealer subsequently called Mr. White's attention to the fact that the policeman had been there, and that there was no danger, the police were fixed, besides it was near election time.

Here is Ernest A. White's letter to the Deseret News: "I was in Salt Lake last month stopping at the Lincoln House and heard from my room the loud talk on Commercial street the morning the colored man was shot. I rushed to the place after the shooting and went into a saloon, No. 22 Commercial street. I entered into the back room and there was a poker game going full blast. Seven were playing. They said to me 'take a hand.' I did so and soon found that there were only two of us suckers playing against six, so I quit. In about 10 minutes in walks a policeman. The dealer looked up and said 'Good morning, Ben.' As there was considerable money on the table Ben said, 'Are you gambling?' 'The dealer said, 'No,' so the cop walked out of the back door. 'I said to the dealer, 'I am mighty glad that I was not playing for I might have been arrested.' 'The dealer said, 'No danger, we have it fixed at the station, furthermore, it is near election time.' 'I visited several other saloons and they all had a game going. Respectfully, "ERNEST A. WHITE."

OPEN MEETING FOR CLERKS.

Retail clerks, but more especially women clerks, are to hold an open meeting next Tuesday evening in Federation hall, with Mrs. Emma L. Amphen as addresser. She is working throughout the country for the amelioration of the condition of women working in stores. She says conditions on the Pacific slope are better than those in the east, but the lowest sum that a woman can work for and live. An advancement in wages would result in better service, to say nothing of the betterment to the worker. Mrs. L. Amphen wishes to organize the women clerks of this city into a union.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The storm that raged at theater time last night, cut into the attendance—indeed, it was surprising that anyone should venture out on such a night with nothing more alluring than a play with a title like "The Cat and the Fiddle," to serve as the magnet. However, those in attendance evidently knew about what to expect, and they received it. The show is one of the big fantastic extravaganzas, with 15 or 20 rapid changes of scene, and almost as many changes of costume on the part of the heavily taxed chorus, and with the usual conglomeration of dancing and singing, the artists being on the fair to capable class, without any special claims as to brilliancy. The story work was done by Mr. Selton, as "Happy," a child of fortune, while Jennie and Mammie Elmore did some clever acting and singing. The best individual feature was the grand opera burlesque, while the girls' chorus, "Under the Sea," also contributed a very catchy air.

The bill is largely built for children, and will no doubt draw a heavy matinee tomorrow.

Orpheum—The popular bill this week is drawing to a close. Good turns are nightly in attendance.

Grand—Miss Florence Stanley and her company close their bill this week. Next week's feature will be Sanford Dodge in a new and complete production. "Faust" will be one of the features of the week.

Lyric—Tonight's the last presentation of the "Chimes of Normandy" act, to be followed by the usual weekly change tomorrow.

Orpheus Club—The big concert to be given by the four Metropolitan Opera company headliners, next Monday night, under Orpheus auspices, is on the tip of everyone's tongue. Subscribers can have their seats reserved on application at the Beesley music store today.

Daily Trips to Emigration Canyon. Two cars daily will be run to the head of the canyon, 9:15 a. m. and 2:15 p. m. Special excursions on Sundays.

Among the former were Senators Smoot and Sutherland and other prominent Republicans. This afternoon the club members are open again, and those serving will be Mrs. T. D. Lewis, Mrs. Frank G. HOTEL GOSSIP.

J. M. Grant Geddes, manager of the Oregon Lumber company of Baker City, Or., has been spending several days at the Kenyon. Mr. Geddes says prospects are for a lively season at the logging camps of eastern Oregon the coming winter. "While the big sawmill of the company will be compelled to close down about Christmas time on account of cold weather," said Mr. Geddes, "the log camps continue running all winter. During the past year another sawmill was erected by the company at Austin, the terminus of the Sumpter Valley railroad in the Blue Mountains, with a capacity of 40,000 feet of lumber per day, and this, with the mill at Baker, which turns out from 800 to 125,000 feet per day when going at full blast, places the company in shape to supply a great deal of the lumber market of this section. Our box factory has been rushed to get out orders all summer, and a night shift has been run to help out. The factory turns out two and three carloads of box shooks per day. The fruit season has been extra heavy all over the west this year, and it has been almost impossible to supply boxes in which to take care of the crop." The Oregon Lumber company properties are owned by David Eccles and associates of this state.

Willis Johnson of Richfield, senator from Sevier county in the last legislature, is at the Cullen hotel. Mr. Johnson has devoted his attention principally to business during the past two years, but has not entirely lost his interest in politics. Mr. Johnson says business conditions in his part of the state are satisfactory with prospects for improvement.

L. G. Cannon, vice president of the Nevada Northern railroad, is in Salt Lake on a business trip. Mr. Cannon says that conditions are picking up all over the Sagebrush state, and he believes the winter season will see the return of normal conditions there. He states that Ely in particular is recovering her lost ground, and that during the last month the Nevada Northern hauled out of the mines 12,000 tons of ore. Mr. Cannon said the Nevada-Utah mine management had 200,000 tons of ore blocked out which would go from 40 to 50 per cent lead. This property is located 16 miles south of Ward, and is considered to be a very valuable one.

J. H. Edgell of Nephi, woolbuyer at large and sergeant-at-arms of the senate of the last legislature, is registered at the Cullen. Mr. Edgell says the wool situation was somewhat more satisfactory at the end of the season than at its beginning, the price going up to 16 cents a pound before the fleeces were all marketed. He says he thinks the eastern storage plan a good one, and that it will redound to the benefit of western growers.

ARRANGING PRELIMINARIES.

High G. A. R. Officials Will Be Here In December.

The commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. and members of his staff will be in Salt Lake in December to look the situation over in reference to next year's annual encampment in this city, with special regard to the place of holding the sessions, hotel accommodations, rail and stage fares. One of the officers will be Col. J. B. Starrett of the executive committee, whose business it has been for years to examine and pass on all arrangements made for national gatherings of the G. A. R. Local veterans' societies are being urged to make up their minds as to what they will do for the occasion. It is proposed among a number of posts to organize a special parade for the purpose. Another feature will be the appearance of the United Musicians who figured in army bands during the Civil war. They are uniformed and equipped with instruments.
