injunction is that there are additional desires should constantly be for the right. What is vocally? I hope that every do we pray vocally? I hope that every Latter-day Saint engages in prayer at least every morning and overy even-ing —that is, in vocal prayer, upon the bended knocs of the body. I hope that is the practice and that it is universal morner all fatter-order. Saints D. error is the practice and that it is universal among all fatter-day Saints; it cer-tainly should be. But, after all, why do we pray vocally? If I were re-quired to answer that question in brief. I would answer it by saying, be-cause I have a volce to pray with and for the reside promon group officer. cause I have a voice to pray with and for the same reason, every other power or means of expression that I have should be employed in prayer. Every talent with which the Lord has blassed me I should be willing to use as one means of giving expression to prayer. Therefore, vocal prayer is merely the expression of that prayer which should be constant within us. The vocal expression my be once, tailed The vocal expression may be need, tailed or three times a day, according to our dedres, but the prayer of the heart must be constant and enduring. We can not help but pray. The trouble is that we do not always pray to God hence it comes to and that the

is that we do not always pray the hence, it seems to me that the injunction to "pray without cens-ins" should read, "pray to God without ceasing." Those dosires that are uppermost in our hearts will find expression in our lives. Whatthat are unpermost in our hearts will find expression in our lives. What-ever our destress are, he they good or evil, they constantly and continually find expression. In some way or other. If our destress he good, that prayer is unto the Lord and will find expression in noble dests—in prayer, in song, in everything that we do, in our business transactions, in our dealings with our fellow men. It will be present with us in everything we do, for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth will speak, and so will we find other means of expressing that which is abundant speak, and so will we find other means of expressing that which is abundant within us. If one desires are evil, those desires will likewise find expression. In the words of our mouth and in the deeds that we perform. Our deeds, as well sense useds constitute a prover but that we perform. Our deeds, as well as our words, constitute a prayer, but it is not always unto God. The life of It is not always unto God. The life of a righteons mun is a constant prayer to God. Therefore, when the Lord said, through His servants, that we should pray without censing, it implies simply that we shall see to it that our desires are pure and holy and worthy. The condition of the heart must be ap-proved of God. Whenever we de-part from that course we are praying to the evil one, we are wandering away to the evil one, we are wandering away from the paths of peace, we are wun-dering into by and forbidden paths. The Lord desires that we shall not go to the right or to the left, but keep our feet planted in the straight and par-row way. Our fidelity should be con-stant, unwavering, without ceasing: and in doing these things we are sim-ply yielding obedience to the funda-mental principles of life and salvation. It seems to me that these principles are so self-evident that all the world would accept of them. to the evil one, we are wandering away yould accept of them.

It is theless, there is still an awter group herween our present condition and the condition that will prevail when we have accomplished all that the gespel will do for us. It is leading us upward and onward, just in propor-tion as we are applying these orde-ciples. "He that endurath to the end shall be saved." We are to constantly whall be saved." We are to constantly do this thing means salvation. It is the cleansing from sin, by yielding obe-dience to this saving law; and still, aft-er all that we do, notwithstanding our rependance, we still have need of for-giveness, and the Lord has promised that He will forgive. "If we walk in the hight, even as He is in the light, then have we followship one with mother, and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sins." The doing of these It 18 ciples. "He that enduroth to the end shall be saved." We are to constantly apply these principles in our lives, and, eventually, we will find that through this light that has come to us, and through the atonement that was wrough out upon Mount Calvary, we shall be cleansed of all our sins. Then shall the Holy Spirit abound in us, and we shall partake of its divine power and influence, and that spirit which partakes of the things of the Father and of the Son and reveals them unto us will lead us into his silors. My prayer is that we may eventually obtain eleman life, through obedience to these laws and command-ments, which I mak, in the name of and the based of seeds chirat createstin us from all sins. The daing of these things will entitle us to the companion-ably of the Spirit of God. Can anyone be saved without a remission of sins? Can anyone be saved without having the Spirit of God? Certainly not. This is elevand life, to know Thes the true and the God and Law Chira the true is cternal life, to know fuce the true and living God and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent." If that be cternal life, and if men can know the things of that only by the Spirit of God, how then God only by the Spirit of God, how then can we be saved without that divine power and influence? It is utterly in-possible. Neither can we be saved i Jesus, Amen. which I msk, in the name of

It may not be known to all our readers that there are weekly meet-ings held in the Lion House, in the interests of this society. There are interests of this society. There are lectures on Genealogy given, with semi-weekly Bible classes, in which the Bible is read minutely, all the genealogical points being dwelt upon with clearness and care. All who are interested in this subject, and most si-pectally the members of the society, are cordinity invited to attend these meetings. They begin at 4 s'clock. Friday afternoons. There have been nome most valuable and interesting feetures given here; one recently by some most valuable and interesting lectures given here; one recently by that profound Bible student. W. W. Riter, on the "Flood," and one by Elder A. A. Ramseyer, assistant recorder at the temple on "Jewish Genealogy." There will be no meeting on the 19, the ball for the society being held on that date in the beautiful, renovated Social Hall. The officers of the society are auxious to restore in a measure, some of the old-fashioned spirit which made our balls in this historic place

Therefore, there will be efforts made to call the best elements together in the social features of this mere but eaching increasing society. togener in the social reaction of the new but expelly increasing society. In connection with these foregoing remarks, it may be encouraging to the readers of this department to know that recently, President John R. This melts the heart of the saint with gratitude to God, that He is thus moving upon the hearts of this covenant children. And it may please all to know that Pres-ident Winder also publicly attributed a portion of this enlivening influence to the devoted labors of those com-mented with the Genealogical society. Another gratifying feature of this work done this winter is the stremu-ous effort put forth by the secretary of the society to secure flew members renew their membership. Wells, and those like her; and this department extends to her grateful congratulations that she still lives to publish "glad tidings" amongst the daughters of Zion. Our worst wish for her is, that she may still live to see this society flourish upon the hills of Zion, staining the very place which God designed for it in its in-ception. And always, we look upon these few remaining ploneers in every field of endeavor, as our richest and best possessions.
