

TWENTY PEOPLE PERISHED IN WRECK

Chicago Limited on the Wabash
Runs Into an Open Switch and Strikes a Freight.

THREE COACHES WERE BURNED.

Train Consisted of Six Passenger
Cars, All Heavily Loaded—Car
Of Powder Near.

Litchfield, Ill., July 3.—The Chicago limited, on the Wabash railroad, due in St. Louis at 7 p. m., a half-hour late and running 50 miles an hour, was wrecked tonight inside the city limits. The engine ran into an open switch, and struck a freight train on a siding. The engine and the first three coaches were piled in a heap across the track, caught fire, and were consumed.

It is believed that 20 persons perished in these coaches, and that 40 were injured. Three of the injured have since died.

The last car on the train, a special from Wisconsin, was pushed back and saved.

Nearly all of the passengers were bound for St. Louis, and many of them were delegates to the Democratic national convention, I. R. Mills, one of the dead, was internal revenue collector at Decatur, Ill., and a prominent Republican. One of the injured is E. H. Rose of Riverside, Cal., who was hurt internally.

"We were in the chair car at the rear of the train, and it did not leave the track," said W. Bachelor of Chicago. "When the accident occurred the front cars piled up on the engine, took fire and burned. There were dead and injured people all around, and it seemed to us that there were 40 killed, and probably the number is not so great."

The train consisted of six cars, all heavily loaded with passengers. The three rear cars, a diner and two sleepers, were not derailed. The other cars were piled up in an indescribable mass, and with the crushed freight cars on the siding took fire. A rumor spread that one of the freight cars was loaded with explosives, and for a time this had the effect of retarding the work of the rescuers.

Dr. P. J. H. Farrell of Chicago, one of the passengers, directed the rescue work, giving medical attention to the injured. Temporary hospital headquarters were hastily established at Litchfield, and the injured were removed to it. A driving rainstorm prevailed. The dead were removed as speedily as possible to undertaking rooms. It is probable that the exact number of the dead will not be known for several days, as the passengers assert that bodies were cremated in the burning debris.

A. E. Darling of St. Louis, one of the passengers on board, the observation car, said:

"I saw two persons burned to death. One was a man and the other a girl. I do not know their names. Wreckage held them down until the heat became unbearable, and the men who were trying to save them could not remain another moment. There was another passenger, a woman, whose feet were pinned down by a heavy beam. It could not be moved and she begged that her feet be cut off. The flames drove everybody away before she could be saved."

F. Ward of Chicago showed particular nerve. One of his legs had been torn off. When he was carried out of the wreck he said: "I lay me down somewhere and go back and save the women and children."

The wounded were mostly taken to private houses in the vicinity of the wreck, and later on those who were able were removed to hospitals. The survivors of the disaster went on to St. Louis late tonight.

Charles Cornauk, station agent at Litchfield, said that the wreck was the result of malicious mischief. He said it was plain that the switch had been tampered with.

Alongside the train on a side track was a box car filled with powder, consisting of about 600 cans. All the passengers of the wrecked train who were able to help and many of the citizens of Litchfield removed the powder from the car and carried it a safe distance from the flames.

Mr. Clark said as to the basis of his petition: "To my mind it is a dangerous matter to transfer the

"One half the cotton is picked by negroes who do not wear enough clothes to make a whole shirt and the other half by barefooted children; this ant, to be of avail in destroying the weevil, must cover the entire field and any one who has had a few of the native ants sting him will realize that it will be impossible to get the cotton picked."

Japan After Cavalry Horses.

New York, July 4.—The Japanese government is stated to have practically placed an order for 10,000 selected cavalry horses with a New York firm which supplied many cavalry horses to Great Britain during the Boer war. It is understood that the order calls for the smallest type of cavalry horse of which a large supply is not readily obtainable. It is insisted by the Japanese that the horses shall be delivered at the rate of 2,000 a month to transports on the Pacific coast.

FRANCE AND ROME.

Post of Ambassador at Vatican Practically Abolished.

Rome, July 2.—The news that France has practically abolished the post of ambassador to the Vatican owing to the action of the budget committee of the chamber of deputies in suppressing the appropriation for the embassy, has produced the gravest pre-occupation at the Vatican, as the inevitability of a definite rupture is now clearly seen. The only hope still entertained is the fall of Premier Combes's ministry, in which the papal nuncio at Paris, Monsignor Lorenzelli continues to believe, saying that the opposition to the cabinet is growing on all sides. The general feeling here is that Lorenzelli has proved himself to be unadapted to fill the important post.

Consequently regret is expressed at the fact that he has not been removed from Paris before this. The main charge against him was that he was too anxious to keep on good terms with the Waldeck-Rousseau cabinet, thus alienating the sympathy of the Conservatives, so when the policy of the government against the congregations was pushed vigorously the nuncio found himself without friends.

The situation at the nunciature became worse under Premier Combes, and since the recall of Mr. Nisard from the post of ambassador to the Vatican, his position has been even more embarrassing, his presence in Paris doing more harm, than good. He did not ask to remain, but the Vatican authorities would not recall him, so as to be able to avoid a rupture.

According to later advices received at the Vatican, Premier Combes has expressed his firm intention to abandon the price ministry within a few months, considering that his program for the suppression of the congregations and the reform of public instruction has been carried out. Added to this reason, Premier Combes refused before the parliamentary committee to express the opinion of the cabinet regarding the separation of church and state and the abolition of the embassy—accredited to the Vatican, which he wishes to leave to the succeeding ministry.

SCENE OF KUROKI'S MAY DAY VICTORY.

The picture represents the Manchurian town of Kluniencheng and its vicinity. It was the scene of the Japanese victory of May 1. General Kuroki, with the Second division, attacked the Russians, who had retreated up the river to this point, and drove them still farther from Antung, six miles below, where they had made a show of resistance. Antung had been shelled by Japanese gunboats and was burned and evacuated by the fleeing Muscovites. The Russians had thrown up some earthworks on the Kinteto islands, near Kluniencheng, but they made no effort to hold them when the Japanese appeared.

AN OLD MONASTERY NOW A GROCER'S SHOP AND STABLE.

A famous old monastery at Poole, England, has descended to very plebeian uses. Where once the hooded friars spent their days in devotion at present there are a grocer's shop, a store and a stable. The cut, which represents the front of the ancient house of worship, gives an idea of the substantial way in which the monasteries were built, only one small breach appearing in the heavy wall, though centuries have elapsed since its erection.

Blood Troubles

Bad blood is the source of numerous aches and pains and the cause of nearly all stubborn, long-continued diseases. When the blood gets out of order, disease germs and poisons of various kinds find their way into the circulation and some serious trouble is the result. Rheumatism, Malaria, Old Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Anemia, and many pustular or scaly skin eruptions, like Eczema, Salt Rheum and Tetter, have their beginning in bad blood, and only a remedy that enters into the circulation and destroys the germs and poisons, can have any permanent good effect upon a disease of this character.

You can't check a blood disease by any external treatment; the sores and eruptions that appear upon the surface of the body are only manifestations or symptoms of some internal disorder that cannot be reached from the outside. S. S. S. antidotes the poisons, humors and acids that are the real cause of disease, cleanses and enriches the blood, and builds up at the same time the general health. S. S. S. invigorates all the organs and parts of the system and stimulates them to greater activity, and strong nerves and renewed health is the result. If you have any blood trouble, write us. No charge for medical advice.
