CATARRH

Catarrh of the Nasal Cavities, Acute, Chronic, and Ulcerative, Hay Fever, or Rose Catarrh, Catarrh of the Eye and Ear, and Catarrh of the Throat.

SUCCESSFULLY TREATED WITH

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

CATARRH is a definite disease of the mucous membranes. Temperaments and constitutions vary in suffering in individual cases. Catarrh may arise from a cold or a concession of colds, frequent sudden changes of temperature, wearing wet clothing, or exposure to inclement weather, and becoming thoroughly chilled when the digestive organs are in a morbid or inactive condition, and this strength and vital forces exhausted. The disease may arise from a previous bad condition of the blood from Scarlet Fever, Measles, and Diphtheria, in which cases the ears and ear are generally involved and discharge quantities of matter. The discharges from the nose, the distinctive feature in all catarrhal cases from whatever cause they arise, may be in the early stage watery, and so acid as to cause irritation and excoriation of the skin with which they come in contact, or clear and white like the white of an egg. They may be an entire lack of secretion, the mucous membrane be dry and feverish. The following are some of the most startling symptoms of this disease: The excretion of a light, curdy matter from the nose, the discharges falling back into the throat, causing a sickening sensation, rendering breathing through the nose impossible, necessary to breathe through the mouth, permitting cold air to penetrate to the lungs, causing hoarseness and bronchial troubles. Some of the worst cases of Catarrh have a tendency to throw the head; pain across the eyes, dizziness, mucous dropping into the throat, sometimes profuse, sometimes scanty, and tasteless, offensive matter discharged from the nose and throat, the nostrils closed, and forced into scabs, which, when picked off, cause the nose to bleed. Sometimes, but rarely, ulceration of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, resulting in the destruction of the bones. Sometimes the disease is hereditary, and sometimes it is caused by a scrofulous taint in the system. Sometimes the disease is located in the throat, causing hoarseness, ulceration, and finally deafness. The throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs are in many cases affected by catarrh, and when prostration of the nervous system is superadded, such affections become alarming.

A brief survey of this mysterious disease warns all who are afflicted with it to make speedy preparation for its treatment before it becomes chronic. The advertised SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE is the one we confidently believe are to be found in no other remedy. Every step in its progress is a decline in the disease, and in a few days the patient realizes a marked change in one or more of the symptoms of the disease. The numerous testimonials from the best people in the United States attest the efficacy of which it is daily by those who have been thoroughly cured of the most destructive and dangerous disease with which mankind is to-day afflicted.
