EUREKA.

Isaac J. Barnard and Miss Margaret Bonner, two of Eureka's most popular young people, were married on Saturday last in Salt Lake, and returned to this city the following day and are at home to their many friends in their residence on Church street. The ceremony which united these people in marriage was performed by Bishop Scudlark at the Catholic parsonage in Brigham street. Mr. Edward Bonner, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Miss Eliza Bonner, sister of the bride, attended her. There were but a few other intimate friends present to witness the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Patrick Bonner of this city and has resided here from childhood. Mr. Barnard has for several years been connected with the Central Eureka mine as head bookkeeper and is one of the company's most trusted employees. The young couple start out in life with the best wishes of hundreds of friends. Upon their return to Eureka they found that their home had been invaded by their friends who had left many beautiful presents, among which was a costly silver service from the employees of the mine and several pieces of cut glass from the Masonic fraternity of the camp, and their beautiful and costly presents.

The members of the Ladies' Republican club held an interesting meeting Saturday evening, at the city hall. There was an exceptionally large attendance. Mrs. Gus J. Harwood will entertain the members of the club and other Republican ladies next Monday evening at her home on Main street.

James Baird and his mother, Mrs. Isabella Baird of Ely, Nev., are in Eureka for a visit with the family of Mrs. P. Bonner.

F. D. Kimball arrived in Eureka Tuesday for the purpose of looking after the affairs at the McCormick & Co. bank.

Con Sullivan, of the Bay State property, was over from Silver City Tuesday.

Mrs. Margaret Sheehan returned last Monday from Park City, where she spent a month visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Whiteley.

Miss Pearl Stewardson returned to school at the L. D. college Tuesday after a few days' visit with her mother.

Ed Bonner is home again from Nevada where he has been for several months.

D. J. Sullivan returned Monday evening from Butte, where he has been on a visit for several days.

Miss Nellie B. Hulsh, after a visit here for two weeks with her brother, C. E. Hulsh, returned to her home in Payson Monday afternoon.

Miss Ruby Fullriede returned to Provo Monday after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fullriede.

Nels Nelson was called to Victor, Idaho, this week.

The dance to be given by the Eagles next Wednesday evening promises to be one of the most pleasant affairs of the season, and the committee in charge is going to make a special effort to see that those who attend shall have a good time. The Eagles have established a reputation for splendid dances. The one coming forward, however, will be the best ever.

CLUB CHAT.

The Western Association for the Blind met this week and elected officers for the coming year, with this result: S. W. Jenkins, president; John Fowler, vice president; M. H. Jones, general secretary; Miss Marie Hansen, treasurer. The directors are Mr. O. A. M. Talmage, Mr. H. Jones, Mr. Fredrickson, Mrs. Riches, Miss Marie Hansen. Among the guests present were Mrs. A. S. Rown of Fort Douglas, Mr. Driggs of the state institution at Ogden, and J. A. Snider, librarian for reading room for the blind.

A number of prominent club women are interesting themselves in the question of aiding the Detention home, in the way of contributing to the furnishing of a sitting room, or gathering room for the boys, no such convenience being now provided. There are at present only absolute necessities in the room, and articles in the way of furniture, pictures, books, etc., are needed to make it comfortable. Any one inclined to donate such articles or means for their purchase will confer a favor on the officers of the juvenile court under whose charge it rests.

The Daughters of the American Revolution met this week with Mrs. Grace Hampton, and enjoyed with delightful attention. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. L. C. Miller and Mrs. Frank Stevens will be chairman of the day.

The Utah State Council of Women met this week at the Exponent office with a large representation from various states. The chief business transacted was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Emily S. Richards; vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Elmore; second vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Hayward; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Cohen; assistant secretary, Mrs. Anne T. Piersey; treasurer, Mrs. Hannah Laphin; Mrs. Bonhomme B. Wells was made a member of the national executive board, and Mrs. Margaret Zane Witcher chairman of the local executive board.

The meeting of the Daughters of Pioneers which was to have been held yesterday, has been postponed until next Wednesday afternoon. It will take place then, at 3 o'clock, in room 21 B. Y. Memorial hall, and an exceptionally interesting program is promised in a lecture upon "Pioneer Music and Musicians," by H. G. Whitney, and "Personal Reminiscences" by Utah's veteran musical director, Prof. C. J. Thomas. The public are cordially invited to attend.

The first regular monthly meeting of the auxiliary association of the blind was held this week. In the lecture room of Packard public library, with Mrs. A. S. Rowan, the newly elected president, presiding. Those wishing to become members are asked to leave their names, and donations are also solicited to help along this worthy work in the interest of the afflicted ones in the community. Reading classes are held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in the reading room, with teaching class Saturday morning. Those

THE PURITAN WITH FLOWER AND RIBBON TRIMMINGS.

A quaint, demure chapeau is this model, so simply styled the Puritan. Its wide brim sweeps over the softly waved coiffure in the most fascinating manner, and, altogether, it is a type of hat which many young girls will find exceedingly becoming. The soft tan crown is trimmed with ribbon and silk and velvet flowers are such that accord perfectly with the style of the shape. The velvet and ribbon are a dark wine red and the roses and leaves in various shades.

assisting Mrs. Rowan in the reading classes was Mrs. W. S. Scott, Miss Mary Williams from Fort Douglas, Miss Zorbaugh and Miss Margaret Dooly.

At the Ladies' Literary club yesterday afternoon Mrs. William Litchfield presented the topic, "In 'Dante's Land' and Mrs. G. G. Plummer sang 'I Know That My Redeemer Liveth'." The other music was furnished by Miss Mae Hawley, one of the prize winners in the late musical contest. Reports were given by the four delegates who attended the Boston biennial last June.

The Ladies' Reading club met for the first time Monday, Oct. 5, at the home of the president, Mrs. T. H. Smith. The Bayview course was taken-up, and Italy and Greece were the first countries considered.

The first regular meeting of the Cleopatra club was held Wednesday of this week at the home of Mrs. W. H. Bothe, 615 First avenue. It was Educational day, and papers were given by Miss Emmeline Wells and Mrs. S. L. Clawson.

The annual meeting of the Orphans' Home board will be held at the home on Monday next.

The Wasatch Literary Circle met this week with Mrs. E. Hauxhurst, 1063 Blaine avenue.

In Woman's World.

In feeding my household, I must consider the individual needs. These depend on age, physical condition, active or sedentary habits. Martin, who works with his brains in a city office all day, needs less of building-up material, less protein and starch, than a digger of trenches. He is not wearing out his muscular tissues at the same rate. My little daughter, with years of growth, of actual bodily increase, before her, needs more of protein and bone-building minerals than do I, her mother, who requires only enough to make good the daily loss from the wear and tear of living. Man has been ingenious in exploring nature's bountiful storehouse for good things to eat. He has dug roots and bulbs and tubers from the earth, and found delight in many succulent stems and leaves as well as in a vast variety of fruits and seeds. He is, after all, mightily dependent upon the vegetable world. The flesh he eats is rarely that of carnivorous animals. It is flesh built out of plant life.

Dr. Sherman defines digestion as the process of converting food materials into simple substances which will be directly available for the body's use. It requires from six to seven hours to digest an average meal. Experience shows that it is well for each individual to have fairly uniform hours for eating. Regularity, however, is of less importance than securing the proper amount of nourishment.

Domestic science declares that 25 cents a day is a fair allowance for food. A man can keep alive on half this sum. For 50 cents a day, intelligently applied, one may live with a degree of luxury. Considering the usual bit item for food expenditure in the family budget, it is certainly worth while to follow leadership to this happy reduction. I met Mrs. Andrews in market a few days ago. She was buying three boxes of strawberries at 22 cents a box. They were not large or truly luscious looking. "I've no business to buy them at such a price," Mrs. Andrews declared, "but Mr. Andrews is so fond of strawberries."

The greatest trials to the woman of 30 years are beginning to tell on her neck, shoulders and chin. It is here that the tiny wrinkles and criss-cross lines which whisper that youth is fleeing free appear. The skin, too, shows more quickly than any other part of the body the lack of care. The pores of the neck become coarse, pinpoints appear and the skin becomes rough. This very often is due to lack of proper bathing and to the wearing of high, tight collars.

To be beautiful, a neck must be well proportioned; it should not be too short, but should be proportioned to support the head. It should not be too fat or too thin. There are a number of easy and effective exercises that will go to beautify the neck and chin. The first of these is to throw the head back as far as possible, thrusting out the under jaw at the same time, so that the whole chin will feel stretched and drawn out flat. With the chin kept at this tension, turn the head to the right then to the left. These exercises, if persisted in, will give a grace and symmetry to the chin and will do away with that burr—a double chin. After first using these exercises the muscles of both the neck and chin will feel very tender and sore, but that only proves that the muscles are getting much needed exercise. Massage and exercise are also very helpful in reducing the little mass of fat which is lo-

Reunion of the Pioneers Of the "Muddy Mission"

FROM the "Muddy Mission," now known as the fruitful Mopai country, to Salt Lake is a long way. This section, once arid and forbidding, where the May sun sends the thermometer two stopping up from 80 degrees at midnight to 115 at noon; where eggs are cooked in the sand and where melons grow to the size of a kitchen table and grapes, figs and almonds grow in luxuriant abundance—that is, where men went away back in the 60's to fight with the treacherous, yet fruitful soil, at the call of President Young, and when success seemed about to crown their efforts and riches seemed within their grasp, Congress in 1870 sliced off that bit of Utah soil and annexed it to poor old Nevada, with her one-story houses and 10-story taxes. The heroes of that expedition gathered this week at the residence of Mrs. A. W. McCune for a reunion, and the stirring times were lived over again through one delightful evening spent in reviving old memories of that memorable time.

In the year 1865 the first colony passed through Dixie and trailed on through the wilderness of the southern portions of the state. He said the northern valleys required no coaxing to bring them out, but the valleys of the south were hot and arid and required a spiritual force in addition to temporal energy to develop them from their sterile features. Hundreds of miles from supplies, these pioneers, called on, during the years from 1865 to 1871. They suffered greatly, their only resources being their cattle and the salt returns from the first harvest on virgin soil. They toiled and hoped until 1869, when the strip of land was surveyed into Nevada and their way was placed so high that they could not raise sufficient to eat and pay taxes too, when the word came from President Young that all were released to return to their homes or to go to the other valleys. He recommended that they go to the Long valley, in Kane county, and many of them found homes there. Some went to Arizona, and others came back to their old homes in the north.

HELD AT McCUNE RESIDENCE. The people who took part in that movement were delighted with the announcement that there would be a reunion of the Muddy mission survivors, to be held at the residence of Mrs. McCune, who was herself one of the party making that memorable pilgrimage. She was but a girl at the time, but her memories of the struggles and sacrifices shared with her parents, are fresh and vivid. Her father, now 80 years old, was present at the reunion, and he enjoyed the recitation of the trials and joys of the trip thoroughly.

The assembled guests were shown through the palatial home of the host and hostess, after which they registered their names and addresses in a book for the occasion. A short program was carried out, beginning with an address by President Joseph F. Smith, who was on the Muddy mission in 1864. He was followed by Mrs. R. C. Easton, of New York, who related an amusing incident connected with the mission. Patriarch Samuel Claridge, white-haired but hale and hearty, gave an account of many interesting experiences on the Muddy, and Wilford Woodruff, Jr., told a story of a unique courtship; Elders William Seegmiller and Gillespie made short talks, and Mrs. McCune told some of her experiences.

The company sang "Hard Times, Come Again No More," and the benediction was pronounced by Elder A. W. Ivins.

SURVIVORS PRESENT. There were present of the Muddy pioneers: Pres. Joseph F.
