TWENTY-FOUR RACES RUN.

190 Rounds in the Colton Hotel Stakes—Winners Paired for second Rounds Today.

The largest crowd that has yet attended the big coursing meet at the state fair grounds was on hand yesterday afternoon to witness the first rounds in the Colton hound stakes, and those present saw the hot racing of the meet thus far. The sport is beginning to be understood and many beings eat scores of newly born coursing fans.

A result of the fact that 21 races were completed by 10 o'clock yesterday morning was a decided interval between heats, a feature appreciated by those present. The last round was regarded as fortunate, as it settled the dust and made going round and round better.

The dogs, all experienced hounds and bitches, seemed to understand what was expected of them.

At 1 p.m. Gridiron this afternoon.

There is a big football game on at Laramie this afternoon between the All Hallows college team of this city and the Aggies. Both teams are in excellent form and it is expected that the game will be a close one. That large crowd will witness the contest there can be no doubt.

The storm will be closed and the tickets have been distributed among the public schools. The Aggies have been playing all week for the game today and Coach Tamm is confident his team will win by a large margin.

Now, in Justice to Attell, it may be said that he was not the man of anything that walked and carried 130 pounds, let alone 122. A few nights ago also he was in Chicago on a Los Angeles wire, trying to arrange a 12-round battle with the 140-pounder, Jimmie Young. Attell stated his case this morning was sent him.
