The Upper Crust of the Reserve Removed from the Treasury.

NO DISASTER ANTICIPATED.

Wonders of Further Large Shipments.
—To Investigate the Territories.
—North West.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—When the treasury department closed its doors this afternoon the gold reserve of $100,000,000 had been reduced to the extent of $2,500,000 to $3,000,000. When the day opened there was in the treasury $100,000,000 in free gold. This amount was increased by gold offered from the West aggregating about $1,000,000. Large withdrawals of gold for shipment from New York cut this down to such an extent that when the cabinet met, Secretary Carlisle found that the orders for gold up to that time (about 1 o'clock) had wiped out the free gold and invaded the gold reserve to the extent of $2,500,000. No far as it can be officially ascertained, this amount was taken out of the gold reserve today for export to Europe, although the treasury department stated that $700,000 in gold, exclusive of that taken out at New York, was withdrawn from the sub-treasury at London for export to Canada. It would make about $7,500,000 in gold taken out of the country for shipment tomorrow, and leave the treasury invaded to the extent of $3,000,000, or leave the total gold in the treasury at $97,000,000. It is believed this invasion is but temporary, and that within a few days the depleted reserve will be restored to its original figure, $100,000,000.

It can be stated with positiveness that there is no disagreement on the financial situation between the President and Secretary Carlisle, or between the members of the cabinet. At the cabinet meeting this morning, at which all the members of the cabinet were present, the subject of the gold situation was discussed, and the secretary of the treasury department, the financial situation, it is understood, was almost the exclusive topic of discussion. The meeting was the longest session of the cabinet since the new administration came into power.

A WONDER TO WALL STREET.

New York, April 21.—The upper crust of the gold reserve has been removed. The financial world stood by and witnessed the doing of it, and yet, tonight in this financial center, no quaking of the earth was felt, and the ticks were the most interested are wondering why there has been no crash of securities and a wreck of spheres. The engagements of gold for export from here in steamers sailing tomorrow and on Tuesday amount to $1,750,000 from Boston $2,000,000. Because of the statements of ambiguity on the stock market, accumulating "bull rumors" from Washington, and the fact that the situation is not so serious as it is represented to be, the sterling exchange market opened in utter confusion. A cooling and a slight reaction occurred, was the scene among regular remitters against foreign demand for sterling bills, the time being passing from the fact that the gold payment for treasury notes and anxious to anticipate their payments so heavy as to force sterling rates to the highest figure reached since the panic of 1881.

In the midst of this turmoil, foreign holders of money came to the aid of the market and these notes being drawn with gold coin payment in specie to at least one case was demanded and obtained. Not improbably the call money market lightened under the withdrawal.

The treasury notes presented at the sub-treasury were promptly released in gold. There was, moreover, a clear statement in several quarters of a "read gold clause" in the United States, and other trust companies and many banks which to some extent are lenders on this, make positive statements today that they were making no stipulation of gold payment. Foreign banks with one or two trust companies are steadily inserting the gold clause and are resorted by borrowers. Borrowers on call today were able to secure accommodation, easily in the day 5 to 10 per cent, was asked, but the loan was being supplied their wants were forced to pay 2 to 12 per cent. Posted rates for sterling exchange failed to $4.60 and $4.65, with little disposition to draw. The situation improved late in the day. Money was in better supply toward the close and loaned as low as 4 per cent.

According to the sub-treasury the net loss of gold to the treasury today was $4,000,000, leaving the gold reserve at $96,000,000. This is the first time since the resumption of specie payments that the reserve has been cut into, resulting in substituting gold for part of the available funds of the treasury.

Just before the sub-treasury closed this afternoon, it was reported that the officials were making a demand to be made tomorrow for four millions of gold for shipment Tuesday, and there was an additional report, not verified, that two millions more was to be taken Monday.

It is felt that the reserve dropped below the level which should be maintained not only to values, but also to the national credit. The fact that the which has been removed from the reserve has caused an under feeling about the future, although there would doubtless be no surprise if movements in money, as well as in the money market, were to continue the decline, or if the clearing houses were to show signs of a gold situation.

"It does not look any action is necessary, as an artificial restriction that could be placed upon the export of gold would tend to make the least, or check the outflow. We are simply running a live wire, and the natural course of events, and if the present mode of functioning continues, we will soon have no gold in the country, but will have plenty of silver."

Minister Stephens Coming.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—A private letter of the minister of the family of Minister Stephens brings the information that the minister will sail without delay, and that he will stay 210. The letter shows that the Stephens family feel keenly the reputation of the minister's act in regard to the raising of the flag, and the policy of the United States in regard to the disposition of all sets of the flag.

The Extradition Treaty Signed.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Secretary Gresham today received information from St. Petersburg to the effect that the Czar of Russia has signed the extradition treaty. The exchange of ratifications leaves now only one more step to be taken to put the Russian extradition treaty into effect, and that is the official proclamation by President Cleveland.

THE TERRITORIES.

Investigation to Commence Early in June.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—The committee on territories will begin an investigation of the condition of the four territories known as the "new territories" in June. Chairman Paulsen has not yet made the selection of the sub-committee, but he has decided that the start will be made from Chicago June 10, and he expects to complete the work within one month from that date. The committee will go directly to Utah, where they will look into affairs, and then pass through New Mexico and Arizona. From these territories the committee will address their report to the consideration of the material development of the country and the condition of the people who comprise its inhabitants.

THE DELPHIN ACCIDENT.

Secretary of the Navy Herbert and Father on Board.
ANNAPOLES, Md., April 21.—Secretary of the Navy Herbert and father embarked on the United States ship Delphin for Fort Monroe. The Delphin started out at 10 o'clock and minutes was aground on the flat of Fort Monroe. Some derangement of the steam gear caused the accident.

A Person Killed.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 21.—A convict named Jim Garcia made a break for liberty from the prison at Folsom and plunged into American river and started to swim to the opposite shore. Before he had proceeded far, he was seized by a man named Sean firing at him with his rifle. Garcia was shot and killed.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

Erin Sends a Beautiful Bouquet of Flowers to Gladstone.

Discussion in the Commons—Gladstone Speaks—The Grand Old Man's Answer—The Vote.

LONDON, April 21.—The commons was crowded today with people anxious to witness the final contest on the home rule bill. Mr. Parnell was on hand early, bringing with him a beautiful bouquet of flowers for Mr. Gladstone, sent from Ireland and accompanied by the inscription, "All blessing and power to the friend of poor and distressed Ireland. May God prosper you."

Mr. Henry James, a liberal unionist, spoke in opposition to the bill, which he said surpassed the inequality of man in dividing property to bring the law into contempt. He said it was simply a measure to enable a section of the Irish agitators to do as they might choose with the country.

Mr. Balfour spoke at length on the bill. He could not believe that this division of the United States Constitution would ever commend itself to the judgment of the British people. He, therefore, put the federal union of the United States before the British people, and said that the law would lead ultimately to the disintegration of the empire. Irish emotions were centered in the new Irish parliamentarianism, and he regarded the imperial government as a foreign and despotic body. In closing, Mr. Balfour said:

"If you commit this great political crime you make yourselves responsible for irreparable national disaster, and all hope of a peaceful and united Ireland vanishes forever."

Prolonged cheering greeted Mr. Gladstone when he arose to address the house. He was in splendid form, his voice clear and full, the principal weapons of the opposition, he said, were bold assertions, persistent exaggerations, constant misconstruction, and cynical and arbitrary business prophecies. True, there were conflicting financial arrangements to be dealt with, but among the difficulties nothing was so difficult as to obtain or to give to the people a sense of the magnitude of the task. How must Ireland be governed if this bill is rejected? When the house of commons was given to the bill, the vote was 100 to 100. The bill was carried by a majority of 100.

slighted railroad train and took care to have it world as to where they were going in Brooklyn, as the duke was known to go about as quietly as possible.

South Reported Worse.
NEW YORK, April 21.—The condition of Edwin Booth has changed for the worse, and late tonight it is feared that the crisis has been reached, and the patient is declared to be in the greatest danger.

A Fishing Caught.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 21.—After thousands of dollars worth of property have been examined during a period of seven months under circumstances pointing to insurrection in many instances, the police at last have landed behind the bars a man who confessed in having acquired a watch to his buildings. He is John W. Thomsen, an employee on the stage at the State Theatre.

Naughty Girls.

DELAWARE, April 21.—Some young women students at Delaware College, belonging to the university, gave a strong solution of nitrate of silver and proceeded to brand six or seven of their fellow students with the brand. The brand was made on the face, neck and hands, for the purpose it is claimed, of disfigurement, that they were unable to wear evening dress at the senior reception last evening. Some of the students had evening dress on one of the front buildings on the college campus on the night of the brand. The committee on the night of the brand. Nine students were arrested this morning and taken before the mayor. Their cases were continued until April 27th, and they were released under bonds of $500 each.

A civil suit was commenced this afternoon by the victims of the branding, for $100,000.

The faculty of the Ohio Wesleyan University will hold a session to investigate the outrage.
