L. D. S. U. MAY DANCE.

Successful Affair Given at Odeon Hall For Students and Friends.

The May dance given at the Odeon by the L. D. S. U. was in every way a success, a large number being present, and all details combining to make it one of the prettiest and most delightful affairs of the spring season. Chief interest centered in the May Chief interest centered in the May queen. Miss Vera Sidodahl, who had been chosen as swereign of the oc-casion by a vote reaching into the thousands. Her first appearance was in the grand march in which she led with the president of the university. Mr. Willard Young. Her gown was an exquisite creation of white Liberty silk with trimmings of real lace, and she carried a boquet of roses, while on her head was a crown of forget-me-nots. She was attended by two little maids of honor, Eloise Nelson and Aline Margetts, both in dainty white gowns and wearing wreaths of for-Aline Margetts, both in dainty white gowns and wearing wreaths of for-get-me-nots. After the march the queen was led to her throne at the further end of the hall, where, with her little maids, she sat in state while the May-pole dance was given, a bevy of about a dozen young girls gowned in white participating in the pretty feature. The pole stood in the center of the roc and with its bright ribbons and gay dancers made a charming and gay dancers made a charming feature. The hall was thronged with the students and faculty of the uni-versity, with many others, and the af-fair altogether was a genuinely delightful one.

A paragraph which teems with inter-est is that in which the purchase of 750,000 shares of Southern Pacific stock is admitted. This purchase was made by the Union Pacific, February 20, 1901, from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. The total of common stock of the S. P. at that time was 1.378,399. Soon after the stock pur-chased to the Oregon chased was transferred to the Oregon Short Line, "but not pursuant to any conspiracy," says Mr. Rogers. The Ore-gon Short Line purchased 150,000 addi-tional shares May 31, 1902; the Short Line now owned 900,000 shares of S. P. stock. Preferred stock was issued by the Southern Pacific July 20, 1904 and stock. Preferred stock was issued by the Southern Pacific July 20, 1904, and in view of the fact that the O. s. L. held 900,000 shares of the common stock it was entitled to, and got 180,000 shares of the preferred. In July of 1907, the wouthern Pacific increased its issue of preferred stock and in view of what it owned the O. S. L. was entitled to, and got 180,000 more charge of angebraic got, 162,000 more shares of preferred, so it now owns 1,242,000 shares of S. P., the total of stock being 2,726,498.

AS TO DIRECTORS "No change in directors of the U. P. or other roads have been made when the directors were satisfactory to the stockholders," is the way Mr. Rogers explains the fact that directors of the U. P. In many instances are directors of the S. P., and that some men have served both roads for many years. In conclusion Mr. Rogers asked to be dismissed and asks that damages be given him for the injuries wrongfully inflicted. Mr. Stillman's explanation of inflicted. Mr. Stillman's explanation of things is about the same. The latter was director of the Union Pacific from December 6, 1897 to February 13, 1908. Answers from Otto H. men gagged her with a handkerchief while the other two searched her and took the money from the bosom of her dress. Miss Tuttle says she carried the money in a small flannel sack, and that when she was seized she instinc-tively passed her hands over her breast. This gave the robbers a clue as to the hidng place of the money and they brutally tore her walst, took the money and fied. The victim of the outrage notified the police as soon as she was released and Officer H. D. Lyon hurried to the scene where Miss Tuttle told her story. She said the robbery was com-mitted quickly and believes that abe had been "shadowed" by the robbers, and that they knew she carried money. Miss Tuttle came here from Nebraska a short time ago and lives with her mother. She says the money was carned by her and a sister who is also a dressmaker, and that it was in $10

The tooth cance out an Hait, but in coming, it lacerated the gum, there chanced to be a little pus around the root, and this got into the circu-lation. The result was fatal, and it was not long after death before tho hody was twice its natural size. The interment took place at Murray.

WEST SIDE GRASS FIRE.

A big grass fire on Tenth West Saturday night caused an alarm of fire to be turned in by Mrs. H. E. Wright, 479 south Third West street. The department was informed that two residences were being destroyed. Chief Vail and Assistant Chief Crosby with engines and other apparatus hurried to the place but found that the fire was simply burning grass and that it would be impossible to get within a mile of the flames.

While the meet-ing was in progress, the "fellows of the baser sort" held an opposition gather-ing in the vicinity with a brass band, and then had the fire alarm sounded "to help their cause along." However, Mrs. Shepard says the game failed to work, so the temperance meeting was held with signal success. A local branch of the W. C. T. U. was organ-ized before she left. Mrs. Shepard reports success in this state wherever she has been, the meeting at Spanish Fork proving such an attraction that Fork proving such an attraction that a dance advertised to be held the same evening, was given up for lack of pat-rons who preferred the temperance meeting. Mrs. Shepard says that she has spoken as often as 10 times a day.

EAGLES' MEMORIAL.

Made impressive by its very sim-picity, the memorial service of the Eagles last evening left a deep im-pression upon all who attended. Par-ley P. Christensen presided and his lit-tic eulogy for the dead was one of the things which come from the depths of the heart; he spoke without pre-paration and as he talked eyes became moist with tears. He touched upon the broadness and bigness of the principles believed by Ekgles, he spoke of that something which makes all Eagles, men-all God's creatures. forgetting each other's faults in seeing the good-ness in each other. Enjoyed greatly were selections by Mrs. Browning, so-prana; Miss Albenhaugh, contraito;
