Sugar Beets Growing Rapidly in Utah County—Irrigating in Wasatch to Bring Grain Up.

Observer Salisbury reports as follows for the past week: General review—Since the high wind storm of the 28th of May, which did considerable damage to trees and tender plants, the weather has improved. There was a light shower on the night of June 1st, since then it has been dry and windy—the wind has been as drying that irrigation had to be resorted to and is now being general.

Though the days have been bright and sunny, the nights have been too cold for rapid growth, and on the 3rd, 4th and 5th there were light frosts in localities, which injured potato tops, potatoes and beets.

The reports are for the most part favorable and hopeful. The prospects are fairly good, though by no means so favorable as last year at this time. Irrigation was longer deferred in the locality of Kanab, Millard county, than it has ever been before. Sugar beets have been abundant at Moab, Grand county, and are just ripening and being put on the market in Utah county. Caterpillars have made an appearance in Box Elder, where they are doing considerable damage to fruit trees. In Garfield county cattle are now gaining in flesh, and look fine.
