The Rich Ore Runs Much Below

Expectations. The news that the much-talked of rich ore from the Mammoth has not come up to expectations will come as a surprise to the stockholders of the company, Such, however, appears to be the case, Probably no one will feel more chagrined than the guards who lost a night's sleep in order to protect sacks of ore supposed to be worth about $10 each, but which, according to an assay received today, were only worth about $18 each. The assay referred to was secured by Thomas W. Jennings from ore that had been sampled, and it is thought to run very close to the mark. Returns from this sample show 283 ounces silver and $11.66 gold per ton, or a value of about $400. The management of the mine expected at least $1,000 per ton from the shipment. The stockholders of the Dalton Min-The stockholders of the Dalton Min-ing company met in annual session this afterneon and listened to reports from the president, managing director and treasurer. President McMillen stated in his report that a new ore house had been built during the past year. The mill has also been adapted for steam and two Wilfly tables have been added by the parties who have secured the option. The capacity of the nill has also been considerably in-creased, and a new wagon road has been built. Managing director, O. R.
