Last Night's Dispatches.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Passed--Free Banking, &c.

WASHINGTON, 15. — Sherman, from the finance committee, reported back the House bill for the redemption of the loan of 1858, which was passed.

The resolution reported by Sherman on Wednesday last, in reference to the monetary derangement, was taken up.

Ferry, of Michigan, offered as a substitute a resolution, recently introduced by him, directing the finance committee to report such measures as would establish free banking, increase the volume of the currency one hundred millions, and make the whole currency of the government issue. After some debate the resolution was laid over, and the bill authorizing the organization of national banks without circulation was taken up, but without action thereon the Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.

Over 300 Bills Introduced.

Over three hundred bills were introduced in the House to-day.

Hoar offered a resolution of inquiry relative to Judge Richard Busteed, of Ala., inquiring as to his conduct, and as to whether he was performing his duties or not; adopted.

Tremain, from the committee on the judiciary, reported a bill to repeal the bankruptcy law, and moved to suspend the rules to bring the bill before the House. The first section repeals the bankrupt law and all its amendments; the second provides that where there are bankruptcy proceedings pending, a majority, in value, of its creditors whose claims have been proven or are probable, shall determine in what manner and on what terms and conditions the estate of the bankrupt shall be administered, and such resolution shall be immediately confirmed by the court. Further sections arrange details. After discussion the bill was made a special order for to-morrow, to be debated two hours, and then voted upon without dilatory motions.

Dawes called the attention of the House to the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury for an increase of taxation to the amount of forty million dollars, and said that the committee of ways and means had instructed him to offer the following resolutions:

Whereas, the Secretary of the Treasury has recommended, in an official letter to the committee of ways and means, an increase in the customs duties and internal taxation, therefore,

Resolved, That the heads of the several departments be instructed to revise their estimates of the expenditures for the next fiscal year, with a view, in the changed condition of the country, to a reduction therein, and to report the same to this House, to the end that all possible efforts at reduction be exhausted before new burdens be imposed on the people. He said that it had come to the knowledge of the committee of ways and means, since it had instructed him to report that resolution, that the committee on appropriations had been considering the same matter, and the two committees had come to an agreement on a resolution which the chairman of the committee on appropriations would offer, and he yielded to him for that purpose.

Garfield, from the committee on appropriations, then introduced the resolution, the substance of which was sent to-day. In reply to a question by Butler, as to how much he thought the estimates could be cut down if they were made according to law, Garfield said there were many public buildings for which estimates were made which had not yet been commenced and need not be, and in regard to these a reduction could be made without injury to the public service. The estimates for the next fiscal year were fifteen millions in excess of those for last year.

Dawes thought it hardly possible to cut down the estimates to the limits of the forty or forty-two millions required. He thought that before Congress undertook to revive any taxation that had been removed, it should show to the country its disposition to cut off every redundant expenditure, and to reduce every salary possible under its jurisdiction.

Butler said if a tax was to be put on coffee and tea, and increased on whiskey and tobacco, it should be done at once, or, in addition to the immense amount of whiskey that would be distilled, all the tobacco will be forced into consumption or into such hands that it will escape taxation, and the merchants would import all the tea and coffee wanted for a year before the tax could reach it. He advocated the substitution of non-interest paying notes, which he said the people demanded, for high interest paying bonds. He characterized the idea of specie payments as a mischievous dogma, and declared that there never was specie payment in any country, and never would be, because under any system of banking that was ever had or proposed, whenever specie to the amount of five millions was called for the banks shut down. He would like to hear, from the chairman of the ways and means committee, the report of another measure for relief by a loan at a low rate of interest, convertible and re-convertible into greenbacks.

Dawes said the suggestion, from proper authority, that it was necessary for the U. S., instead of retrenching, to borrow money to meet current expenses, would be a fatal blow to our credit abroad. He continued, "I fear that the reduction in the estimates will not be much. I know it will not be much. Could I have my way about it, the knife would go into that book of estimates, and with the conviction in my heart that I would not be impairing the public service one atom, until a difference between the current receipts and the current expenditure would no longer exist. Like the book of estimates is a marvel to me. When I take up that broad book, so unlike that which I used to carry, here under my arm it is almost unintelligible to me. The only thing about it I can realize and understand is that year after year the estimates are going on increasing, until this year, in the face of this exigency, the grand total of the estimates is about twelve millions more."

Cox suggested that the ways and means committee might sit during the holidays to consider a reduction of the tariff on certain articles, which all knew would increase the revenue.

Butler, replying to Dawes' remark about injuring our credit in Europe, said we had too much credit in Europe. We find it until we are now sending one hundred and twenty-five millions in gold every year to pay the interest on it, and the quicker they stop taking bonds the better.

Garfield questioned Dawes as to the policy of reforming the country of the proposed taxation so long in advance; and Dawes replied that the committee had agreed to keep the secretary's letter a secret, but in the mean time the whole thing was published in a New York daily.

At the close of the debate Garfield's resolution was adopted.

Dawes offered a resolution to adjourn over from Tuesday the 23d of Dec., to Monday the 5th of January.

Schofield made an amendment extending the adjournment from Friday, the 19th of Dec. till Tuesday the 6th of January. The amendment was agreed, 145 to 114, and the resolution was adopted.

Economy Urged.

CHICAGO, 15. — A Washington special says that Senator Sherman has visited the Secretary of the Treasury, and called his attention to the great necessity, not only of revising the estimates but of immediately stopping all the expenditures not absolutely necessary to carry on the machinery of the government. He cited the course of the democratic administration after the panic of 1857, when, by executive order, every possible expenditure not made mandatory by law was stopped, and the order covered a very wide range, involving matters pertaining to every department.

Will Anticipate Payment.

NEW YORK, 15.—The Daily Bulletin says that the large dry goods jobbing houses who received an extension, announce their intention to anticipate the payment of the first installment.

Letter from "Ville de Havre" Survivors—Floated Off—Payment of Dividend.

Letters from the survivors of the ill-fated steamship Ville de Havre are at hand. The statements made regarding the conduct of the officers and crew of the steamer after the collision occurred are conflicting.

The steamship Greece, which struck on the mud flats of Bedloe's Island, floated off after discharging a portion of her cargo, and returned to the wharf; she sustained no damage.

The receiver of the National Bank of the Commonwealth commenced the payment of a dividend of three per cent. to-day.

Last Hours of Agassiz.

BOSTON, 15.—The last hours of Professor Agassiz were apparently passed in unconsciousness. At 2 p. m. on Sunday he had an attack similar to the one experienced before the suspension of respiration, which continued about half a minute, accompanied by other indications of approaching dissolution. These were succeeded by unnaturally rapid breathing, which continued to grow fainter with departing vigor. The patient lay upon his side, and beyond an occasional convulsive movement of the limbs there were no signs that he suffered pain.

"Boston Tea Party"--Board of Trade.

The New England woman tea party, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of throwing the tea into Boston harbor, took place this p. m. in Faneuil Hall; about five thousand persons were present.

The board of trade have adopted resolutions to co-operate with the national board, against the issue of any irredeemable paper money, and recommending to Congress measures to improve the currency and prepare the way for a return to specie payment.
