Sister McManus Dead.

A letter received this morning by Elder Angus W. Watson, of this city, brought tidings of the death, at 4 Berwick road, Seaforth, Liverpool, England, on March 29, of Sister Ann Whittaker McManus, at the age of 73 years. Her body was interred on March 30th, in Anfield cemetery.

Sister McManus was well known to many people now in Utah, missionaries and others, as a most estimable woman, and a faithful Latter-day Saint. Her husband at one time was a member of the Church, who lost not the privilege of gathering to Utah. Her eldest daughter, Minnie Wilson, and others of the family reside here, where her children. Others of her relatives now reside in different portions of the United kingdom. For some time past Sister McManus has suffered from heart trouble, being confined to her bed for several months of that time. In her 73rd year she was patient and cheerful. While she was faithful in all the ordinances of the Church, she was not active in the ministry, being confined to her home by her infirmities, but will be held in loving remembrance by the many acquaintances in these valleys.

Street Car Traffic Suspended.

All cars on the Salt Lake City Street railway line were required to come to a stop this afternoon at 2 o'clock this morning, and it was an hour and forty-five minutes before they could resume operations. Acts of sympathy among people desiring to manifest their appreciation of employment were shown here in the city, were complied with in the usual manner. Tom Kearns, the spring morning, however, received instant applause but no acknowledgment.

Inquiry at the company's office revealed the information that a set of the engine of the power house was out of order and the stop had to be sent to replace it with a new one. It did not simply wore out, the shaft having been in constant operation for the last five years. The repair was made as quickly as possible and the cars were again put in operation.

A JACKSON COUNTY WOMAN.

Her Father, Isaac Morley, Was Once Sentenced to be Shot.

GREENVILLE, Kane County, Utah, March 12, 1895.

Editor Deseret News:

Having seen in your columns the wish of C. H. Hamilton to have the names of those that were driven from Jackson county, Missouri, I will here state that I was born in Kirtland, Geauga county, Ohio, Oct. 3, 1831, was the fifth child of Isaac and Lucy Pond Morley, who left Kirtland, Ohio, in the fall of 1833, and settled in Jackson county, Missouri. In 1834, my father, Isaac Morley, with others, were sent into prison to stand for treason. They were sentenced to be shot on the morning of the 17th of November, but the General's order reached otherwise. We were seven days more in 1835, went to Quincy, Illinois, from there to Nauvoo, where nothing of importance occurred with the Prophet Joseph Smith and our family that he was a man of God, till the day he was taken dead. He lives in my father's house for several months.

I went to the valleys of the mountains in 1848, in 1847 President Brigham Young called for volunteers to make a settlement in Provo, and my father was appointed president of that place, and my husband, Joseph Steward Allen, with others, was called to go with him. We lived in Provo until 1851, in that year my husband was called to go south to help make a settlement on the Muddy. He sold his improvements in Provo, taking stock for cattle which he bought of Mr. Farnsworth, which we could go no further that year on account of high water. We stayed there and raised a crop. In 1852 my husband died. I then moved to Salt Lake Valley, which caused us much trouble to travel on account of the heavy loads of grain we had to haul in the fall. Provisions were very high, and my children were very poor. The Indians were very troublesome, some of them were driving off the stock, others were stealing the cows, and we had to watch through the day and bring our cows and wearing apparel. My children died with the measles in Emery county, in the year 1866, in the 15th year.
