

Wife of Murdered Man Says She is Not Acquainted With Either Mazza Or His Wife.

The remaining three jurors necessary to complete the panel in the trial of Frank Mazza, charged with the murder of Joseph Vatrella, were secured in Judge Armstrong's court this morning, the opening statements were made to the jury by the attorneys for the state and the defense and the taking of testimony was commenced. The three jurors secured this morning are William Fairbourn, G. F. Despain and J. A. Butler. The widow of the murdered man, Mrs. Raffala Vatrella, was the only witness placed on the stand this morning and her examination had hardly begun when the court adjourned for the noon recess.

for the noon recess. After all the jurors had been sworn in Dist. Atty. Loofbourow made the opening statement for the state. He said that on the evening of the shoot-ing, Sept. 5, Vatrella and a friend were going down Fifth West street near Fourth South and had some words with Mrs. Mazza as they passed her house. Mrs. Mazza went in the house and told her husband, the defendant. about the incident. Mazza then went to Vatrella's house and called him out to Vatrella's house and called him out and shot at him twice. The first shot missed Vatrella but the other took ef-fect near his heart. When he fired the shot Mazza said to Vatrella: "This will teach you to use better language." Vatrella was taken to a hospital, where he died two weeks after the shooting.

OPENING STATEMENT.

Attorney William Newton then made the opening statement to the jury in behalf of the defense. He stated that the evidence for the defense would show that Vatrella had outrageously insulted Mrs. Mazza on the evening of the shooting and that she came into the house crying and at first refused to tell her husband what was the matter. She finally told him of the actions of Vatrella, whereupon Mazza grabbed his hat and rushed over to Vatrella's house and demanded an explanation of his conduct. Vatrella admitted that he had used ville language towards Mrs. Mazza and said that he would do it again. He then started towards Mazza in a threatening manner and Mazza, fearing for his life, pulled his gun and shot him

The fame of the "Yankee Consul" drew a big house at the Theatar last night. A frank concensus of the opin-ion of the audience would be that the story is midly amusing, the music fairly pretty, the girls passably young. In fact that the production on the whole is good without being anything to rave over. The first act only drew a fair amount of applause, and there seemed to be a struggle between the orchestra and the chorus on the ques-tion of time, but things generally braced up in the second act, and there was more laughter and applause. Mr. Short in the role of the Yankee consul, is a corredian of quiet and amusing meth-ods but one who does not rise to any positive heights in his 'comedy work, possibly because the author has not furnished the opportunities. Miss Michelena, who was heavily featured as one of the leading mem-bers of the cast, hardly has enough to do to justify her being starred, though she is pretty, blithe, and possesses a good voice. Miss Hosmer, as the wealthy widow amused the galteries hugely by the exhibition of her avoid-dupois, but the tug of war scene in which two gentlemen united in a vain endeavor to lift her off the stage was not specially edifying. The lesser parts were in fairly good hands. The final performances are given this afternoon and evening.

GET ONE YEAR EACH.

Bounty Frands Men Plead Guilty and Receive Sentence.

John Meyers and C. H. Rumsby, allas James Gorman, the two men who have been in the county jall since May 25, 1905, on the charge of criminal conspiracy in connection with the bounty spiracy in connection with the bounty frauds perpetrated in this county in 1904, appeared before Judge Armstrong in the criminal division of the distict court this afternoon, entered a plea of guilty to the charge against them, and were sentenced to one year each in the county jail. The defendants waived the reading of the information and also waived time for sentence. This leaves but one case pending in connection with the county frauds, that against Will E. Phillips.

The penalty imposed by Judge Arm-strong in the sentences today is the maximum penalty for the offenses charged.

TURNED OUT BAREFOOT.

That is the Plaint of a Prisoner in This Almost Zero Weather.

Salt Lake turned a man out of jail today, fully equipped for re-arrest. If he was a vagrant when he was arrested 32 days ago, he appeared much more a vagrant today, for 32 days of service had told heavily on his shoe supply and on his clothes. He was turned out on a cold day to make his way out of town or to hunt work, over frozen ground and ice, practically barefooted. He had no socks. The sole of one shoe was loose from the upper, and his bare toes stuck out of the other shoe. His clothes were a prevent pair shoe. His clothes were a ragged pair of trousers, that would almost justify his rearrest for too extensive exposure and a ragged coat. The offender is not an old man or a bardened vag. He is 33, apparently husky, and just a nomad who has the nusky, and lust a normad who has the "curse of the wandering foot," He was arrested the morning after the Sheets murder, while he was here hunting for work he declared, and as he was out of a job, he was given 40 days, which good behavior reduced to 32 days. Twenty other offenders of a like character were heavily sentenced the same day. the same day.

The man is J. B. Hunsicker. He said when interviewed on leaving the city hall, that he was a oll driller by trade. He lived in California, where his fam-ily reside, and worked as a stationery engineer. After that he went to Lew-iston and worked as night watchman in the sugar factory, then eaved a Soli iston and worked as night watchman in the sugar factory, then came to Salt Lake looking for work, and was "vagged." It was obvious that he could not get any in his barefooted condition, if he should try for it now. When asked where he was going, he said if he had a pair of shoes he would go to the new smelters and try for a job. He denied that he ever was ar-rested for hurglary or any kind of nilrested for burglary or any kind of pil-fering but had served one other term fering out had served one other term for vagrancy in the county fail two years ago. In passing through here on the way to Lewiston. He even de-clared vagrancy was the worst charge anybody could ever put against him. as he was a working man, and not a grafter or a burn. This case is of interest just now, as under the old administration. It is claimed, a man was given a pair of

The Hin-doo houses, in which many generations may live together, the climate, the dis-posal of the dead, and the terrible Insil-intion known as suitle, or theb urning of the dead hudband, all came in for their share of attention. Gangs Working up South Fork

A carload of supplies arrived in Rig-by last week to be distributed among the five gangs of surveyors now run-ning the proposed new line up the south fork of Snake river over into Wyoming. It was taken out by sleigh. Rigby is the outfitting point for all these men and some of them are in town almost every day for supplies and tools. They report that they have gone over the entire line from Rigby to Jackson's Hole once, and are now going over it again to set the final stakes. The res-idents of Rigby are of the opinion that the people behind this movement mean business, otherwise they would not keep so many men out in the mountains wallowing through snow up to their waists all winter. It is generally believed at Rigby that these surveyors are working in the in-terest of the Northwestern. They claim the grading will commence as soon as spring opens. Two mysterious persons have been in Pictor with the state of the second spring opens. Two mysterious persons have been in Rigby trying to negotiate a purchase of 40 acres of land adjoin-ing the town on the south.
